

'Star' Pattern

As worn by JOAN BENNETT in "For Heaven's Sake"

No. 8

Design by CHARLES LEMAIRE

Spirited teaming of tailored and feminine themes scores a hit for the robe and slip worn by Joan Bennett in Twentieth Century-Fox's "For Heaven's Sake." The trim robe stars with a satin-front contrast. Smartly cast in the part of companion piece is the simple long-length slip. Big news, too, is a two-color STAR LABEL transfer included in this pattern. It's proof-positive that you are wearing an original Hollywood design!

No. 8 is cut in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 slip requires 3 1/4 yards 39-inch; the robe, 4 1/4 yards 39-inch, with 7/8 yard 39-inch contrasting.

When Moving Into a Home Evaluate Furnishings Before Discarding Old

By Sue Gardner

There are many families who have lived in cramped quarters for years, and are just now finding homes or larger apartments. It is interesting to see what has resulted from a long period of pent-up desires for things these people have wanted for their homes, but have had no space to use before.

One family with three children, has had no really new, durable home furnishings for fifteen years. When the couple was married, the husband had just finished school and they took an inexpensive apartment, furnishing it with odds and ends from the homes of friends and relatives. Then the husband went into the army and between the uncertainty of the war years and the subsequent housing shortage, they added just what they needed — usually at the lowest price available for each item.

"When we finally found an adequate apartment, I wanted to throw out every stick of used, cheap furniture we had, but my husband had certain attachments for bookcases, lamps and other items which meant home to him when he was in the service," the wife explained. "So, we compromised and are using the best of our old furniture and accessories for the new home, and buying new items for long time service."

From the miscellaneous collection of furniture, this family kept two matching units of natural pine, with cabinets on the bottom and bookshelves going up to the ceiling. They painted them in the same warm grey as the woodwork of the living room and the result is a built-in appearance for the units. The young son of the family has fallen heir to his father's favorite lamps, desk and bookcases, repainted for his room. The two girls made their own selections from their own and their parents' rooms, all of which was a saving in the budget that could be applied to good furniture for the living room. Fortunately, the family had one good living room object, a grand piano, which occupies a place of honor in their large new living room.

For the new apartment, the wife spent many weeks shopping for a large, comfortable and most attractive eight foot sofa, upholstered in a nubby grey fabric. Matching chairs of green brocade in a modern manner were selected for size and comfort for the husband who is quite tall and for the wife who is petite and had never found the chairs in their former home just right for her. Another major investment was made in twin side tables of mahogany and a long mahogany coffee table with a caned surface and a base that matches the end table bases.

Long Time Plan
It is always easier to start a new home decoration than to build around an old one, but many of the same principles hold for both planning jobs. A home is a long time planning proposition, and with the exception of the basic pieces, which are required for daily living, decor need not be done in haste.

into their own home for the first time in many years of married life, have bought just one thing in advance — a dishwashing machine. They have decided to move their current furniture from a small three-room apartment into the new six room house and to plan each replacement from their new home.

One of the most crowded apartments I have ever seen belongs to two antique collectors whose early American treasures are so tightly wedged into two rooms that no one, including the husband and wife, advances a careful consideration. Having found a home, they realize they have enough cabinets, furniture and art accessories to spread over an entire house, at least for the initial stage of decoration.

Antiques
Both husband and wife are working, and being antique fanciers have spent their weekends searching for small items to buy for their new home. They started out by putting a limit on each day's shopping excursion, but found they were not too satisfied with this plan. They have registered for an evening course in the study of antiques and now are planning an overall decor for their home.

Don't Look Now...

but... how boring can a program be. Saturday morning we heard 15 minutes devoted to "Tennessee Waltz." At least a dozen different wailing singers regretted the loss of their dozen or so darlin's to best friends. One record after another of pained regrets and each a different arrangement. We didn't wonder that their darlin's threw them over for someone else, who, we hope were less vocal.

Downgrade... we told you recently about the two men walking uphill with a can of gasoline, to a car stalled which was headed down? Friday morning we aided a man stalled on another hill near our place. He too was headed down hill, and after being told he would like us to push him, we asked why he didn't coast down. He gave us a scathing look which plainly said he thought me must be mad. We drove up the hill, turned-around, pushed him down, turned around and sped off again to town. Now we aren't sure which one was crazy, maybe it was us.

Unlike old times... Legislature just can't be like it used to be. There aren't any orange-creater coolers outside Marion hotel rooms. No clotheslines strung out and not even a measly cream bottle for the morning cereal, let alone a box of eggs to poach in the hot tap water and half used cans of fruit.

Razor blade problem... We have wondered all week what to do with the old tenses returned when we got new ones put in our glasses frames. Does one become a boy scout and start a fire with them or does one hunt up a friend who wears a monocle and let him have them for spares?
