

Sen. Holmes Assigned Task Of Explaining Holy Report Bills

State Senator Robert Holmes, Clatsop county, has been assigned the task of explaining the several bills resulting from the survey of Dr. T. C. Holy, involving the states elementary and secondary school systems, before the legislative educational committees.

Holmes is a member of the advisory committee to the state board of education which was responsible for Dr. Holy's employment. He said it would require two hours to explain the 37 bills now being drafted for introduction in the senate and house either Monday or Tuesday. Four groups of bills, involving the most important recommendations in the Holy report, will be introduced in the senate and three groups in the house of representatives.

The report contained approximately 175 recommendations but not all of these will be presented to the legislature, Senator Holmes said.

Most serious opposition to the Holy report involves recommendations for reorganization of school districts and appointment of the state superintendent of instruction by the state board of education. This office, now held by Rex Putnam, is elective at the present time.

Bill Authorizes Preference for Oregon Firms

Two bills, sponsored by the State Federation of Labor and relating to public contracts, had been drafted here Saturday and will be introduced in the legislature Monday.

One provides that the state, counties, cities, school districts and all other governmental agencies must seek competitive bids on all contracts where more than $10,000 is involved. Only exception, federation of labor officials said, would be to cope with emergencies such as a flood-damaged bridge.

Under the other bill, if an Oregon firm's bid is within 10 per cent of the low bid of an out-of-state company, the Oregon company would receive the contract. The current law provides that a preferential of five per cent may be given Oregon contractors.

The bills will be introduced by Rep. Gust Anderson, Portland republican, and Sen. Phil Brady, Portland democrat. Both Brady and Anderson are labor union officials.

Another bill to be introduced Monday would prohibit vocational, professional and trade schools from discriminating against any student or applicant for admission. The bill would halt discrimination because of race, religion or national origin. In event of violation the school would lose its state license.

This bill is sponsored by Reps. E. J. Ireland, Molalla; Mark Hatfield, Salem; and John D. Logan, Portland.

220 Bills Drafted by Department. But Just 50 Introduced

Robert K. Cullen, director of the state statute revision council, Saturday was wondering what has become of all the bills drafted by his department.

He said 220 bills had been prepared in his office but only 50 of them had been introduced when the legislature recessed Friday over the weekend.

The other 170 probably are in legislators' desks or pockets, a veteran senator averred. Cullen said he had received

Shoppers Car Park Dedicated at Ceremony

This new 250-space Shoppers Car park was dedicated to Salem shoppers with appropriate ceremony Saturday. A large crowd passed through the double-decked structure occupying a quarter block on the southwest corner of South High and Ferry streets. Favors were given out and city officials participated in the dedication program arranged by Thomas A. Roberts, manager.

Firm Control on U.S. Women's Figures to Survive War Scare

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—Wars may come and wars may go, but the great American figure will remain under control.

Such is the prediction of Max Kops, president of one of the nation's leading foundation garment manufacturing firms and chairman of the committee on essentiality of the Corset and Brassiere association of America.

The corset and brassiere industry was established as "semi-essential" during World War II, Kops explains. Government officials decided then that the damage to morale would be disastrous if U. S. women were deprived of their uplifts and two-way stretch underpinnings.

In the present emergency, the industry expects even more concessions to the importance of the streamlined figure.

So far, says Kops, restrictions of civilian use of rubber and copper have little effect on bra and girdle production. Manufacturers of elastic thread, from which such garments are made, have been limited to the average production of a fixed base period. But supplies at present are adequate.

The recent restriction on use of copper allows use of the metal in hooks and eyes used to fasten foundation garments. Brassiere clips will not be made of copper in the future, but a substitute rustproof steel will be used.

Kops anticipates shortages of nylon before the year is over, but says present supplies of nylon requests for 80 additional bills with a number of them in the process of drafting.

WAC Thrilled With Europe Assignment

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—Pretty PFC. Maxine Powell, first member of the Women's Army corps assigned to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European headquarters, did some last minute shopping today.

Private Powell will fly to Paris from Westover field, Mass., next week to serve as a secretary in the supreme headquarters of the allied powers in Europe.

The green-eyed, brown-haired, 21-year-old WAC is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olyn Powell, of Hope, Ark.

She said when she telephoned her parents to tell them of her appointment, she could hardly talk because "I was practically in tears."

Private Powell said she is anxious to see the French women — "to see what it is all the men are talking about"—and the French men—"to see how they operate."

She's not worried, she said, about the possibility of having to report directly to General Eisenhower.

"It won't bother me any more than reporting to a sergeant," she said. "I'm used to generals. And they say he's right down to earth."

Second Half of 'Little Hoover' Report Near

Second half of the so-called "Little Hoover" interim committee report will be released within the next 10 days or two weeks, Robert Johnson, executive secretary, announced here Saturday.

The entire report deals largely with reorganization of the state government with particular relation to handling of finances.

First half of the report was released in December. Johnson said the second half of the report would contain approximately 25 recommendations.

The committee was created at the 1949 legislature and held hearings covering virtually all sections of the state.

Bills based on the first half of the report are now being drafted.

Legislators said many of these bills would be controversial.
