YM Centennial Plans Laid at Board Meeting

Goals for Salem participation in the YMCA centennial plans for 1950-51 were discussed at a board meeting for revision of the physical education locker system highlighted the Thursday Salem YM board of directors meeting.

The centennial committee, headed by Norman Winslow, cited as its goals, with others to be set by other committees: A successful membership campaign beginning January 28, large delegation to national convention in Cleveland next June, start on the building fund campaign next fall and completion of a local history in time for the Salem YM's 60th anniversary in November. Carle Abrams is in charge of the latter project.

The board adopted a proposal of John Kobb's public relations committee that one director be on lobby duty each evening as a host, to welcome and acquaint guests with the building.

The religion committee, led by Charles A. Sprague, reported that Dr. Floyd Sampson, head of University of Denver religion department, will be here Friday for meetings with YM staff and directors, ministers, council of churches and others to increase relationships between the YM and church groups. Plans also were announced to revive the monthly devotional meeting for the board.

Because of locker room crowding, the board approved a physical department committee recommendation to purchase 1,600 lock baskets and padlocks, similar to those used in Salem's secondary schools. Bids will be called for the equipment, which will put the locker room on a self-service arrangement. Members using the gymnasium or pool will pay deposits on the padlocks.

Doctor Draft Registration Set Monday

Registration of all male physicians, dentists and veterinarians under 50 years of age is slated for Monday by selective service, with Marion county men to enroll at the office behind 359 Court st. Hours will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

While doctors in reserve components need not sign, those with any doubt as to their reserve status should appear Monday for clarification, the county board stressed. Registration is required by all who have doctor's degrees in medicine, dental surgery, dental medicine, veterinary surgery or veterinary medicine or bachelor of medicine, whether or not they are practicing.

The only ones excluded, outside of reservists and men on active duty, are those who registered last October 16.

Men who receive the degrees after Monday must register within five days after gaining them.

Merchant Asks Re-Evaluation Of Honesty

A call for a basic policy of "small, trivial honesty" was made to Salem Retail Credit association Friday by Frank Broderson, Forest Grove furniture dealer. He said each merchant should say to himself, "I'm the public; I'm the poor, dumb so-and-so that walks down the street and the other merchants are trying to fool."

Broderson deplored the "trend toward irreputableness" in American business, since "the eyes of the world are on the American system and the outcome depends not on Washington but on how private enterprise conducts itself."

Service was stressed by the dealer, with service meaning "more than carrying parcels and washing windshields."

Noting that "anyone who wants to can do a good job," Broderson urged that rewards of business should be shared with all those who make a product or service possible, and that dealers should try to educate buyers to know quality.

C of C to Hear Talk on Britain

Dr. Josef F. Bunnett, 29, Reed college chemistry professor, will address the Salem Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon Monday on "England Today."

Salem Marine Tells of Escape From Korea Trap

A red-headed marine private first class from Salem, Stonewall Jackson, jr., escaped from the Changjin reservoir trap in Korea and is in Japan recovering from frozen hands and feet, he said in a phone call Saturday morning to Salem.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, sr., 1910 Laurel ave., the marine, a BAR man, was wounded in Korea in November and returned to duty late that month. He told his parents he "nearly lost my head three times to a sword" in the fighting. In coming out of the trap he was without sleep for eight days and eight nights, he said.

The Jacksons also heard from their son last week through E. D. Roseman, Dallas amateur radio operator, who received a message from the youth and sent a reply for the parents.
