

Many Valley Men Serve in Korean Waters

The mid-Willamette valley has been well represented on naval vessels operating in the Korean war zone, judging by navy reports Thursday.

Five Salem men were reported serving aboard various ships. They included: Leslie M. Walker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie N. Walker, Salem route 8; Harold Hohnstein, husband of Mrs. Lucille Hohnstein, 1020 Oxford st.; James L. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Spencer, 1805 Fairgrounds rd.; Phillip M. Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Winters, 1164 N. Front st.; and Bernard C. Covey, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Covey, 1235 S. 17th st.

Among other valley men helping to man vessels in far eastern waters are: David R. Partlow, Monmouth; John W. Jenkins, Silverton; Loren F. Soderholm, Albany; R. G. Williams, Gervais; and Ems. Delmer L. Kuns, Woodburn.

The navy also reported Thursday that Lt. Comdr. Robert F. Hobson of Dallas recently was graduated from a general line school at Monterey, Calif., and that Noel Gene Sawtelle, Monmouth, and James C. Haney, Mill City, have completed recruit training at San Diego.

Field Officer Of Missions To Visit WU

Margaret Briggs, field secretary for missionary personnel department of the board of missions of the Methodist church, will visit Willamette university Tuesday and Wednesday to interview students interested in missionary work.

Miss Briggs will meet with Oxford club in Chresto cottage Tuesday evening. She will be a guest speaker at a dinner meeting at Leslie Methodist church Wednesday.

Before assuming her present position, Miss Briggs served for a short time as a missionary in North Africa. While abroad, she attended the World Council of Churches conference in Amsterdam, Holland, the Younger Churches Conference in Switzerland. In 1948 the religious worker was a delegate to the World Student Christian Federation Theological conference in Holland.

Mass Slayer 'Just Wanted to See Children'

WOODBURY, N. J., Jan. 18—(AP)—"I never intended to shoot anybody. I just wanted to see my children," mass slayer Ernest Ingenito told a Gloucester county jury here.

The 26-year-old appliance salesman took the witness stand in the eighth day of his trial for killing his mother-in-law, Mrs. Michael Mazzoli, 43, during his wild shooting spree last Nov. 17.

Prosecutor E. Milton Hannold, who has demanded the death penalty, said Ingenito is being tried on only the one indictment because Hannold believes he can secure a death verdict most easily for that shooting. The defense says Ingenito should be adjudged guilty of no greater a crime than manslaughter.

Ingenito killed five of his wife's relatives and wounded four others, including his wife, Teresa, 23, on his shooting spree in the flatlands of South Jersey.

The highest elevation in Florida is 325 feet.

Five Oregon Delegates at Travel Meet

A delegation of five from Oregon, headed by Carl Hogg, Salem businessman, will attend the annual board of directors meeting of the Pacific Northwest Travel association in Spokane Friday. Hogg is president of the organization.

Others attending include the association's vice president for Oregon, Don Lane, manager of Jackson County Chamber of Commerce; Director V. A. McNeil, manager of Portland Chamber of Commerce Visitors center; Director Manley Robison, head of the Oregon state travel information department, and Dudley McClure of the MacWilkins, Cole & Weber agency.

Determination of travel shows in which the association will participate late this spring is one of the principal objects of the meeting. Last year the association's two large exhibits with color transparencies depicting principal tourist attractions of the region and manned by personnel from among the members, were displayed at travel shows in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, Chicago and Dallas, Tex.

The group is scheduled to select travel editors from a number of publications who will tour the region this summer. Also to be determined is the 1951 tourist promotion budget.

Now ranked third highest in sources of income to Oregon, the tourist industry brought in some $115,000,000 to the state in 1950.

Newspaper Ad Result Lauded

OMAHA, Jan. 18 — Newspapers will get more advertising from Jolly Time Pop Corn in 1951 than ever before, Howard C. Smith, president of the American Pop Corn company, announced this week.

"Our new 1951 advertising schedules call for greatly increased use of newspaper space," he said.

Smith said their decision was based on 35 years of experience in nationwide advertising. "Throughout the years we have found that year in and year out the local newspaper gives the advertiser real value for his money. This is important not only to the advertiser," he said, "but also to the people who buy his products. For when advertising is wisely used it actually helps lower prices.

Gene Smith To Head Rodeo At St. Paul

ST. PAUL—Gene Smith, St. Paul, was named to succeed Pete Kirk, also of St. Paul, as the president and secretary of the St. Paul rodeo association during the annual stockholders meeting here.

Kirk resigned this position because of his employment which keeps him out of town a great deal of the time. He served as the St. Paul rodeo secretary for two years. Smith is the son of Carl Smith, who served as association secretary for several years to Kirk.

Other directors named were Ray Manegre, re-elected; Carl Kirsch, and Jesse Manegre, new Manegre, St. Paul farm implement dealer, was elected to his 16th term as St. Paul rodeo association president. Ray Kerr, Salem, is vice president.

More than 100 stockholders and Effective advertising creates volume sales, and volume sales make it possible to produce goods on a mass production basis at a lower manufacturing cost.

their wives attended the annual gathering, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Manegre and Mr. and Mrs. George Settemeyer. Western-styled entertainment was directed by George Vlahos, Portland.

St. Paul rodeo directors will meet Saturday night (Jan. 20) at the Legion hall to plan the 1951 July 4th holiday show. Harley Tucker, rodeo stock contractor from Joseph, Ore., will be present.
