Yugoslavia --- Kremlin's Top Target? Scalem Market

Yugoslavia presumably has a high priority on Stalin's timetable. Its strategic place in Europe is reason enough for Russians to eye it slash the Tito who studied the art of revolution at the Kremlin and ambitiously. It is the land of the one-time pupil turned bitter critic. More than that, it is the home of a movement-Titoism-that could threaten Russia's hold on the rest of the Communist world.

If the Soviets decide to move against non-Russianized Europe, they probably would invade Yugoslavia first. They know the way in, for they invaded it only seven years ago to wrest it from the Nazis. The historic invasion route is through the plains of Hungary and Romania, Northern Yugoslavia - north of the Sava river - is plain country, rich fruit land, perfect ground for mechanized invaders.

South of the river, however, an aggressor's going would be rough. Although the roads are passable - and tanks could push their way through, as Hitler's did in World War II—the country is primarily startlingly inferior. mountainous. Here the 1,500,000 troops Marshal Tito could muster in an emergency would be best equipped to fight. Why would Stalin want Yugoslavia?

Apart from the obvious desire to punish a wayward child - to then defiantly took his country on an anti-Russian path-the Reds

Controlling Yugoslavia, they would protect themselves along the 1,300 miles of boundary which their satellites now share with Tito's land. They would protect themselves against an Allied drive up into eastern Europe from Turkey. And they would have a perfect springboard for an invasion across the Adriatic into Italy.

Furiously building defenses, Tito has a five-year plan now running at top speed. He needs to industrialize, and badly. For the country has been mainly primitive, mainly agricultural. In tanks, guns, planes and the other necessities of mechanized war his troops are startlingly inferior.

Stock Market Pushes Ahead To New High

NEW YORK, Feb. 10-(AP)-True to form, the stock market pushed shead this week and today established a new high for 1950-51. Every week for the past ten weeks, ever since the Chinese intervened in the Korean war, the stock market has pushed forward. Never in those ten weeks has the market declined more than two consecutive days.

It looked like a close thing this week, but the market performed in character despite President Truman's demands for high taxes and high spending, tightening government economic controls, and a railroad strike.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed today at $96.90, up 10 cents on the day and 60 cents on the week. The mark is a new high for the year and the best level since Sept. 23, 1930.

There were 1,060,000 shares traded as compared with 1,390,000 shares a week ago. The list of individual issues appearing on the tape came to 990 as against 1,040 a week ago. There were 431 advancing and 279 declining with 55 new highs and no new lows.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10-(P)-"John!"

These two words, repeated with varying inflections and degree of intimacy for some two and one-half minutes, stand to make 24-year-old Stan Freberg anywhere from $25,000 to $50,000.

Freberg's first record, "John and Marsha," soared to the top of the wacky hit parade in less than three weeks. Capitol, which issued it with some misgivings, says it appears a cinch to top half a million in sales and may hit the million in sales and may hit the million mark.
