On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. If a woman would like to become a member of a certain bridge club, may she tell one of the members, or perhaps hint that she would like to join?
A. No. Her best procedure would be to give a small bridge party of her own and invite two or three members of this particular club.
Q. When a girl is with her escort at the table in a nightclub, and she wishes to leave the table to go to the restroom, what should she say?
A. "Will you excuse me?" is sufficient.
Q. What are the most appropriate gifts to send to a convalescent?
A. Usually one cannot go wrong by sending either flowers or books.

Brown-and-Serve Rolls Require New Technique for Mixing, Baking, Storing

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

In the good old days, in my youth and long before, Saturday was Baking Day in most homes. Cakes, pies and bread were baked up for the following week.

Times have changed, and changed again. For awhile it just wasn't fashionable to make bread or even cakes, now we do it again, mostly for the fun of it.

We ran across a story in the New York Times for making the "brown and serve" rolls you get at the stores. This is just another reason why the modern woman does no baking or does it most any day of the week—she can keep the rolls for two weeks in the refrigerator or months in the freezer.

The "brown-and-serve" rolls originated with a young Florida baker who sold the recipe to a flour miller who made it available to commercial bakers. The rolls are baked to a pale blond-ness then refrigerated and when needed are browned quickly and served.

Miss Elizabeth Ellis of the University of New Hampshire adapted the recipe to home use. The Times tested out the recipe and offered it to their readers. We were a reader. That brings us to you.

The rolls are prepared in a rather large batch, then kept on hand for speedy service at will. Here is the recipe:

BROWN AND SERVE ROLLS

2 packages yeast
1 cup warm water
1 teaspoon sugar
5 teaspoons salt
4 more cups sifted flour
Put salt and 1/4 cup sugar in a bowl and add scalded milk. Stir to dissolve, cool to lukewarm and add yeast mixture. Mix in six cups flour, then add shortening and remaining sugar. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Put dough in greased bowl, grease top. Cover with damp cloth and re-dampen occasionally. Let double in bulk in a warm place (85 degrees).

Punch down, knead again on a floured board, divide into four parts. Cover with damp towel and let rise 20 minutes. Shape four to six dozen rolls.

Let rise in a warm place (85 degrees) until 3/4 as high as regular loaves (otherwise they fall when baked). Bake in a slow oven, 275 degrees for 40 minutes. Let set in pans for 20 minutes. Turn out and cool at room temperature.

Wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator for two weeks or in a breadbox for one week. Or wrap in refrigerator paper and freeze. Keep as long as three months.

To serve, place rolls on ungreased cookie sheet and brown at 450 degrees for 7 minutes.
