

Tito Protests Soviet's Pressure on Borders

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 9.—Premier Marshall Tito's government protested officially today against the movement of Soviet tanks and troops around Yugoslavia's borders.

The Yugoslav people were warned to gird themselves against the possibility of an invasion from the Russian-led Cominform states. The warning came from Deputy Foreign Minister Ivo Vojvoda. He delivered it in issuing a 481-page white paper in which the government accused Russia of applying "direct military pressure" against his independent-minded communist nation.

As he finished his statement, Vojvoda was asked at news conference: "Does the government of Yugoslavia expect aggression from Russia or the satellite states this year? Or an invasion?"

He replied: "The government of Yugoslavia is not engaged in the business of making prophecies. But the documents (in the white paper) do show that the people in Yugoslavia should be concerned and ready for any possible occurrence."

The white paper itself traced the developments of the widening breach between Tito's government and the Moscow-dominated Cominform since their break nearly three years ago. It said there had been nearly 2,000 border incidents between Yugoslavia and her eastern neighbors—Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary—since June, 1948. Others were attributed to Albania, on the west.

Vojvoda told the Press club that copies of the documents were being sent to Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations and others to western diplomatic representatives in Belgrade.

Secret Moslem Threatens Terror Reign

FAYDAH, Iran, March 9.—(AP)—Fedayan Islam, fanatical secret Moslem terror society, threatened today to kill Shah Reza Pahlevi and other government officials if the assassin of Premier Ali Buzurg is not freed in three days.

Leaflets bearing the threat were distributed during a demonstration by some 8,000 persons demanding nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil company.

Crowds of leftist "peace partisans," apparently communist-inspired, demonstrated earlier in front of the U. S. embassy, shouting "death to MacArthur" and other anti-American slogans.

It is commonly believed that Razmara was slain because of his opposition to nationalization of the oil company—opposition which earned him the enmity of Fedayun Islam and other nationalistic groups.

The leaflets gave the first public confirmation that the Razmara assassination was an act of the Moslem terror group, whose name means "crusaders of Islam." The members have spread word that the society has 20 members sworn to forfeit their lives in killing "the enemies of Islam."

The society demands an end to all foreign influence in Iran and a return to the strict principles of the Koran.

Burma Frees Dr. Seagrave

RANGOON, Burma, March 9.—(AP)—Dr. Gordon Seagrave, American "Burma Surgeon" who was sentenced January 17 to six years imprisonment for aiding rebel tribesmen, was freed today by the Burmese court of appeal after serving seven months in Rangoon's central jail.

The heavy teak door was opened and the famed surgeon, looking cool, fresh and fit in white shirt and shorts stepped into the jail courtyard, where his sister, Rachael, clasped hands with him.

"This is wonderful," he said. "Now I want nothing more than a chance of continuing my work. I want to get back to the people I've worked for. My idea of heaven is to go back to my hospital. I'll take the first plane to Namkham (the site of the hospital) as soon as I get permission."

Mr. and Mrs. Locke were reported improving at the hospital.

WU President Asks 11-Month School Year

PORTLAND, March 9.—(AP)—A proposal for a longer school year, so that students could graduate from college at 19, came today from President G. Herbert Smith of Willamette university.

The American school system was started when children were needed to do farm work in the summer months, but the need is gone now, Smith told the city club at a luncheon here today.

He suggested an 11-month school year so that students would be out of high school at 16, out of college at 19.

The Willamette president said plans for universal military training may bring the speed-up program into being.

He had criticism, however, for proposals to draft youths at 18. He said most other nations with military training programs found 19 and 20 to be the best years to start military training.

He said there would be serious reductions in college enrollment if 18-year-olds are drafted. Heads of Portland university, Reed college, Lewis and Clark and Multnomah college agreed. They spoke briefly, all telling of plans to cut staffs if enrollment drops.

New Business Zone Proposed For Center St.

A new business zone for Center street near 18th is up for public hearing April 17 before the Salem planning and zoning commission, it was revealed by the commission records Friday.

The property in question is a 50 by 158 foot lot just west of the Physicians' building at the southwest corner of Center and 18th streets. It is owned by Giles Smith and occupied by a two-story frame apartment house in a present class II apartment zone. It lies across the street from the old school block where a new Safeway store is to be built.

Commissioners met in special, unannounced session Thursday night to give tentative approval to the zone change as requested by Realtor George Grabenhorst. The city engineer's office said the zone change petition carried signatures representing 88 per cent of property within 300 feet.

The commission understood the change was desired for establishment of a new paint business.

Mercy Flight Attempts End In 2 Crashes

ENTERPRISE, Ore., March 9.—(AP)—A rancher and his wife are in a hospital here under treatment for pneumonia after two planes crashed up in attempts to remove them from their snowbound Eastern Oregon home.

A third plane finally was successful. Ray Dunsmore, manager of the Enterprise airport, made the first flight to the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Locke, some 30 miles northeast of here. His plane, equipped with skis, landed on a bulldozed runway some 10 miles from the ranch.

He attempted to take off with Locke aboard, but the plane would not lift with the added weight. Locke was returned home and Dunsmore left alone. He became lost in a blinding snowstorm, however, and had to make an emergency landing. In doing so, the propeller and landing gear were smashed.

Meantime, George Locke, brother of the stricken rancher and Ned Boyce, Enterprise, were en route by auto to the ranch with medicine. They spotted a fire Dunsmore had built and brought him to safety.

Next day Dunsmore landed another plane near the ranch, but in an attempted take-off the plane cracked up in the snow, smashing the propeller.

Finally a third plane, piloted by Frank Hill of Joseph, landed near the ranch. He managed a takeoff with Mrs. Locke aboard and returned later for Locke. He also brought repair equipment for Dunsmore's plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Locke were reported improving at the hospital.

Speakers Paint Gloomy Picture For Stockmen

By Lille L. Madsen
Statesman Farm Editor

MIDDLE GROVE, March 9.—Gloomy futures for livestock men were pictured by two speakers at the Marion County Livestock association meeting held here tonight.

No one will be able to afford to buy the meat at the prices it will have to bring, R. D. Clark of the North Portland Union Stockyards, said, adding "But the meat can't be sold for less because of the high cost of labor and feed that is used in its production."

Clarke spoke of the "undecidedness and the discouragement of persons" saying that he had never seen them "lower."

"No one can make up his mind whether we are going to have to fight a war or if we are just building up a big military machine in Washington," he went on, before he spoke of the differential between live hogs in Chicago and Portland—$1.65 at the present time.

Three things Clark said he would like to see are Federal Reserve banks loaning money freely at a gradually increasing interest rate; raising taxes, and selling government bonds on a patriotic basis. These things, he said, might help "put a damper on excessive spending," he said.

That the state of Oregon is "broke—flat broke" was the statement of Representative Giles French, whose talk followed that of Clark's. People of Oregon, he said, continue to vote improvements, buildings, pensions but no revenue with which to pay them. Oregon income taxes were as high as any state in the union and nothing more could be had from that section. Corporation excise taxes were high enough to keep manufacturers out of the state.

"The state of Oregon is a great producer of raw materials but not much of a producer of finished products," he said. As "cures" he favored a business tax for "main street business," a patriotic duty, the farmer's personal property tax on livestock was in actuality a "business tax for the farmer."

He indicated a sale tax might help and stated that "Oregon has been extravagant according to other state's spending. She is going to have to practice economy whether she likes it or not."

Ray Ward, manager of Pacific Wool Growers, urged all sheepmen to save their ewes this next year and stated that any ceilings on wool should be the value of foreign wool plus the duty.

Charles Evans urged more funds for predatory animal control, and reported briefly on the state convention held at Klamath Falls in January. He also announced next year's convention for McMinnville.

Under the direction of Anthol Riney the Middle Grove Tractor Maintenance 4-H club put on a demonstration in honor of National 4-H week.

Alvin Hartley, Silverton, presided.

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, March 9.—(AP)—Imogene Opton, North Conway, N. H., will be the first racer on the Baldy mountain course tomorrow when the nation's top amateur skiers bid for spots on the U. S. Olympic team.

The easterner, combined champ in the North American race, was tabbed for the opening position in a drawing today.

Jack Reddish, Sun Valley ski club racer from Salt Lake City, will lead off the men's downhill field of 43.

NW Oregon Due for More Snow Tonight

A new one-to-three-inch snow fall tonight for northwestern Oregon is forecast by the weather bureau.

A weather forecaster said occasional snow flurries expected today would give way to a steady fall by night with the arrival of a new storm now moving south from the Gulf of Alaska.

Losses from cold and snow mounted hourly. The amount of the damage could not be computed yet, but it already was in the tens of thousands of dollars.

Logging operations, with few exceptions, were shut down from British Columbia to Oregon. The Wenatchee district peach crop was endangered. Retail businesses suffered as housewives remained at home rather than brave icy streets.

The cost in lives was high. Five persons died as the result of weather conditions during the past week. The week took its place in history as the coldest and snowiest ever experienced in March by the northwest.

Friday's early morning freeze turned slush on streets and highways into sheets of ice. Schools were closed over a wide area of the state, including Portland, Newport and Toledo. Power service in Lincoln county was disrupted by 25 line breaks, but most had been repaired by Friday.

Alan Waterman Heads Science Foundation

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP)—A director for the national science foundation was nominated today—almost a year after that agency was established to promote science as a means of increasing the nation's welfare and security.

He is Dr. Alan Waterman, deputy chief of the office of naval research (ONR), an organization that sponsors a broad long-range program of fundamental research in fields of vital interest to the navy.

Waterman, 58, and a physicist by profession, was nominated for the $15,000 post by President Truman who announced his selection at Key West, Fla. The nomination is subject to senate confirmation.

The president's action brought to end months of speculation during which Mr. Truman was reportedly in favor of naming Dr. Frank Graham, a former democratic senator from North Carolina.

Graham's selection was reportedly opposed by the foundation's executive board which has held several organizational meetings since the foundation was established by law on May 10, 1950.

Under the law, the president had to have recommendations from the board before he could name a director, although he did not necessarily have to accept them.

The board submitted one slate of candidates early in January, but submitted another slate the following month, declaring all the original nominees had "turned out to be unavailable."

Aimed chiefly at promoting "basic" or fundamental research, and at promoting education in science, the foundation is considered a key potential factor in building up the nation's store of pure scientific knowledge.

It will award grants to institutions for research in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering and other sciences. It also will award research fellowships, and foster interchange of information among scientists in this country and abroad.
