Holstein Sale, Hog Show on Events Slate
By Lillie L. Madsen
Statesman Farm Editor
Two livestock events of considerable interest are set for Monday—the fourth annual Oregon state Holstein sale at 11 a. m. at Washington county fairgrounds in Hillsboro, and the fat hog show sponsored by the Oregon Swine Growers association at the state fairgrounds at Salem, starting at 1 p. m.
Many widely known Holstein breeders, including some from the mid-Willamette area, are being offered at the breed promotion sale. The famous Verboort sausage will be served at noon.
Among the Holsteins offered from this area is a heifer calf out of Hallrose, being offered by Clem Berning of Mt. Angel. Berning's herd has twice produced world record cows which have drawn visitors from throughout the country.
Other consignors in this sale are Clayton Allard, Benton Carvey, Ivar and Emil Youngquist, Ed Dahlstedt, Alton Johnson, Albert Steffan, Marston Ball, Ralph McDonald, Jack Constantine, Kadown Brothers, George Rossellini, Ridgeport Dairy, Oregon Carnation Farm, Glen Ireland, Albert Evers, B. Luscher, Rudy Luscher, D. Harrison, Lindow Brothers, Otto Schild, Peter Betschart, Ralph Betner, Ivan Matteson, Grime Brothers, Sun Acres Farm and William E. Zegart.
George Kraus, Silverton, president of the Oregon Swine Growers association, heads the fat hog show. All breeds are eligible for entry in this and the purpose of the show is to emphasize trends in pig demands for hogs.
Following the judging of the live hogs on Monday, the hogs will be dressed at Valley Packing plant and the carcass show will be held there on Thursday, April 5.
F. L. Zielinski of St. Paul is chairman of the show committee. Judging the live show will be Douglas Chambers of Valley Packing company; John Landers, Oregon State college; Edwin Ridder of Sherwood and Harold Flagg of Benson commission company in Portland.
Handling the grading and dressing percentages for the carcass exhibit will be A. W. Oliver and O. B. Hardy, meat specialists at the State college.

Students Solicit Red Cross Funds
Two clubs of West Salem junior high school students began Friday night the solicitation of westside residences for the Polk county Red Cross fund campaign, under direction of West Salem Parent-Teacher association.
About 50 students are included in the Junior Hi-Y boys led by Jim Anderson and the Y-Teens girls led by Janie Barlow. They will be special guests of the P-TA at Tuesday night's meeting, according to Gus Moore, president.

Postal Unit To Start New Drill Schedule
Salem's 894th army postal reserve unit, due for active duty on May 1, cannot take any more members now, but will be nearly doubled in size when it goes to Ft. Lewis, Capt. S. B. Leslie, commanding officer, said Friday.
The unit will begin next week a schedule of three pay drills per week, Tuesday and Thursday and one other night. It is slated to spend its first 10 days of active duty in Salem.
At Ft. Lewis it is to be reorganized from a type G to a type M unit, to serve between 20,000 and 25,000 troops.
The men to be added there to the present 17 will be given basic training at the fort.
Five present members without prior office employe. The postoffice is taking applications for temporary appointments to replace the men, who will retain their job rights and seniority.

County Court Orders Probe Of Road Work
Investigation of Marion county's road "cold-patching" materials and methods was ordered Friday by the county court, after criticism by County Commissioner E. L. Rogers. The county engineer is to conduct the study.
Rogers declared "the county is wasting a lot of money" in such work now because "the patches come out the day after they're put in and do not hold up." He cited the breaking-up of some of the mix placed in holes in the courthouse drive earlier this week.
The commissioner said he wanted to find out whether it was poor material or "poor application" that is causing the trouble.
Cold-patching is the method of road repair used for small breaks in pavement surface, especially during cold and wet seasons of the year.

Auto Larceny Suspects in District Court
Two men charged on different counts of taking autos appeared in Marion county district court Friday.
Lester Dwight Healey, 18, of 1864 N. Liberty st., appeared on a charge of larceny of a car February 15 from the Western Motors lot. His case was continued to April 2 for entry of plea.
Healy is being held in Marion county jail in lieu of $1,500 bail. The auto, abandoned near Albany, has been recovered, according to Marion County Sheriff Denver Young's office.
Robert Eugene Baker, 19, of 740 Chemeketa st., charged with taking an auto without authority, was bound over to the county grand jury when he appeared in court. Deputy sheriffs said Baker admitted recent auto thefts in Salem and Jefferson. He is held in the county jail in lieu of $750 bail.

Costume Jewelry
NEW YORK (INS)—One of the largest manufacturers of costume jewelry recently gave out its research ideas on what will be good fashion in jewelry for next spring and summer. It revealed that the major emphasis will be on color. And special attention will be given to the shape of pins—to large earrings—and to trick, novelty effects in rings and necklaces.

MURDER ENDS DISPUTE
KHARTOUM, Sudan—(AP)—A native in Madial, in the southern Sudan, is reported to have killed his three brothers during a fit of temper because they refused to help him collect his "bride price," a sort of dowry, from the bride's parents.

OD's to Replace 'Blues' for These Postmen

These Salem army postal reserves are among those who will report for active duty May 1. Checking their clothing issues at the local reserve quonset Thursday night are, from left, Cpl. Jay Schaefer, Sgt. Lee C. E. T. Poppitz, Cpl. Frank E. Logan, Cpl. Glen J. Baillie, Sgt. L. C. F. Warren, Cpl. K. C. Young, Sgt. L. B. Hodges, Pfc. G. J. Daley, Capt. S. B. Leslie, and Sgt. H. W. Koenig.

School News

WEST SALEM SCHOOL
The students of Mrs. Ida McClendon's sixth grade have elected new home room officers. They are: president, Bobby Smith; vice-president, David Bell; secretary, Dale Boese; treasurer, Donna Lawrence; sergeant-at-arms, Darlene Jandera.
Bobby Gunther won first prize in a flag code contest recently held in Mrs. McClendon's room. David Bell placed second and Darlene Jandera third.
LESLIE JUNIOR HIGH
Four Leslie students have been named winners in a sales contest for the "Rocket" Leslie year-book. For selling the most books they will be able to attend a free movie, and will receive some additional prize not yet announced. The "Rocket" will be published some time in the latter part of May.

Guard Units Set Week End Drill Session

Second week of training for Salem's national guard infantry company will begin today, with Company B at Camp Adair and Company G at the state fairgrounds.
The former, commanded by Capt. Joseph Meier, will meet at 4:30 today at the Salem armory, and leave an hour later to set up camp in the former cantonment area.
Night patrols are planned until about midnight. Sunday morning the unit will move to another area for a two-hour military problem before returning here about noon.
Company G, commanded by Capt. William Dyer, jr., plans to drill from 1 to 5 p. m. today and from 8 a. m. to noon Sunday, without an overnight camp. They will be at the armory in case of inclement weather.
The group's program will include platoon problems, camouflage and squad formation.
Commanders said religious services will be available to both companies Sunday morning.

Closer Ties With Council, People Sought

Hopes of changing the "cool attitude" of Salem people to city government and of carrying on "the good administration the city has had for a long time" were voiced Friday by Mayor Alfred W. Loucks in a talk to Salem Retail Credit association.
Loucks called the city's employes "a good sound average" in public relations and friendliness. While lauding the city manager and the manager form of government, he said the system can be "too coldly efficient," resulting in lack of public interest.
The mayor outlined recent changes in procedure designed to give more information to the public on operations and to stir more interest in how the city spends millions of dollars annually.
