

Joyce Lulay Married on Saturday

St. Joseph's Catholic church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Joyce Lulay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lulay, and Lenora Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, on Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Father John O'Callaghan performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of yellow snapdragons and white stock. Verne Esh was the soloist and Mrs. Raymond Barton the organist. Altar boys were Gilbert and Melvin Lulay, brothers of the bride.

Of white satin was the bridal gown fashioned with a lace Peter Pan collar and lace bodice. The full skirt ended in a train and the short pointed petum was of lace. A wreath of orange blossoms held in place her fingertip net veil and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies and green and white cactus leaves.

Mrs. Robert Wallace of Greenleaf, Oregon was her sister's matron of honor and wore a sea-green satin and marquisette gown with matching cape and mita. Bridesmaids were Miss Lenola Wilson, twin sister of the groom, Miss Mary and Miss Ruth Blislock, who wore coral satin and marquisette frocks. They carried nosegays of carnations and sweetpeas edged in ice-cream and in their hair were marquisette braids and beehives. Flower girl was Shirley Ann Lulay, sister of the bride, and Michael Minogue, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Ray Lulay was his brother's best man and groomsmen were William Brunkal, Milo Beibelheimer and Michael Lockner. Ushers were Adrian Lulay and Gerald Bullock.

Mrs. Lulay and Mrs. Wilson both chose navy ensembles with matching accessories for the wedding and their corsages were of pink rosebuds and stephanotis.

Don't Look Now...

but... there's something definitely wrong with Oregon. What other well regulated state would get free gravel from the river a few feet away (even delivered by the government dredge) when it could hire a lot of men to haul gravel from a few miles away and then raise the taxes on the men whom it hired?

Equal rights... Better get out the lawn mower, Mama, maybe Dad will clip the lawn once this season—he usually does the first time or two, unless it pushes too hard.

The late... Here it is almost the middle of April, and in a month it'll be past May Day and by July things will be drying up—and we haven't even got our garden plowed yet.

Utopia is found... We found a young man who is satisfied — he has everything, and he's only in his twenties. His home is paid for, his garden is perfect and he has gone to every place he wishes. What a horrible state to be in! We give thanks for the things we wish for but cannot afford, our desire for leisure and travel, the anticipation of better days and the zest for life that comes with dreams as yet unfulfilled. May we never have everything we want—life would just be too, too dull... Maxine Buren.

YWCA Week to Be Observed

Plans have been formulated for the observance of National YWCA week by the local group, according to the president of the board, Mrs. A. A. Schramm. A special guest here for the week, April 22 to April 28, will be Miss Ruth Hill, national executive of the YWCA.

On April 21 the Tri-Y girls will give their annual Cotton ball at Salem high school from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock. A feature of the affair will be the crowning of King Cotton.

Three events are slated for Thursday, April 26. The Tri-Y Teen Mothers club will hold a post-host luncheon at the YWCA. Later in the afternoon the annual membership silver tea will be held at the Fairmount Hill home of Mrs. Sidney Lewis for all YWCA members and friends. In the evening a banquet will be given by the Salore and CO clubs at the Pine Inn.

On Friday, April 27 there will be a display of crafts at the YW. For Sunday, April 29 is the desert for Tri-Y seniors to be given by the Y-Teen committee, Young adult committee and the Willamette university YWCA. The affair will be held at Lausanne hall at 8 o'clock.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Travis Cross at Sacred Heart hospital in Eugene on April 5, according to announcement made to friends here. The child is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cross, Salem, and Mrs. Walter Apel, Long Beach, Calif.

Playground equipment at Bush pasture which was donated by the Salem Soroptimist club will be dedicated at a ceremony at 1:30 on Wednesday.

Miss Currier Tells Troth
