

Wesley Hawk Succumbs to Crash Injuries

Wesley Orville Hawk, 39, 390 Browning ave., superintendent of the Springbrook Packing plant near Newberg, died early Tuesday at McMinnville hospital of injuries incurred Monday in an auto accident south of Dayton.

Hawk, a longtime resident of Salem, was injured when his car lunged out of control while he was enroute from Salem to his Springbrook job. He had taken the position only last week.

Until taking the new job Hawk had been assistant superintendent of the Reid, Murdock company cannery here. He had been with the Salem firm since 1930.

Born at Cherokee, Iowa, May 4, 1911, Hawk came to Salem with his parents in 1919. He attended Salem high school. Surviving are his widow, Geraldine Hawk, Salem; sons, Wesley Orville Hawk II, and Joseph Allan Hawk, both of Salem, and mother, Mrs. Olive M. Wiese, Brookings.

Funeral arrangements are being made by the Virgil T. Golden chapel.

Pinball Owner Ruled Innocent

OREGON CITY, April 24-(AP)—A district court jury returned a verdict of innocent today in the case against E. D. Lombard, Portland. One of his slot machines was seized in the raid on some 100 Clackamas county taverns March 30.

By stipulation, only the question of whether a free game on a console has value, was brought up at the trial.

State police said they had obtained no payoff on the machine involved.

Silverton Man Burned in Gas Main Fire

SILVERTON, April 24—George Gatchet, jr., is in Silverton hospital with burns incurred in a freak accident today involving a broken gas main.

Gatchet was working with a city crew ditching for a new water main at First and Jefferson streets. The workmen punctured a buried gas main and gas escaped.

When the crew attempted to move an auto, which was parked dangerously close to the broken main, the exhaust of the car ignited the free gas. The resultant flare-up burned Gatchet's face and neck.

His condition was described as painful but not serious.
