The CIO Transport Workers Sunday settled their dispute with Pan American World Airways, but other work stoppages crippled ship movements at major sea ports around the country.

The Transport Workers union announced a settlement a few hours after it had called a general strike of about 1,000 workers at New York City's Idlewild and La Guardia field airports.

Some 250 ground service employees walked off the job Friday in protest against the dismissal of 89 mechanics by Pan American. The stoppage disrupted the airline's transatlantic service for three days. The general strike began early Sunday. Pilots were not included.

A union spokesman said the settlement was based on the company's offer of new jobs in its Miami and Brownsville, Tex., facilities for the discharged mechanics. Those who refuse to move to those facilities would be given severance pay totaling $1,000 each, the spokesman said.

The shipping dispute involves a "no contract-no work" edict by the CIO National Maritime union, whose 60,000 members have refused to sail until contract demands are met.

In New York, the maritime union said no more American passenger ships carrying tourist trade would move from American piers until the dispute with ship owners is settled.

Some 650 ships in 23 major ports are involved in the dispute whose full effect is expected to be felt Monday. However, union members are continuing to service ships carrying Korean and other vital defense cargoes.

Other Unions In addition to the maritime union, the Marine Engineers Beneficial association and the American Radio association, both CIO, are involved in port disputes.

The ARA strike on the west coast is holding up American shipping there. The ship radio operators are seeking a $70 monthly pay increase.

Foreign ships are not affected by the work stoppages at U. S. ports, since their crews do not belong to unions involved in the current disputes.

The NMU is demanding a reduction in hours from 48 to 40 weekly, a 25 per cent wage increase, paid vacations and elimination of certain "inequities."

Negro Singer Cancels Date at Atlanta Meet

ATLANTA, June 17-(AP)—Negro singer Josephine Baker today cancelled an Atlanta appearance after three white hotels refused accommodations.

Miss Baker, wife of a Frenchman and long the toast of cafe society in Europe, was to appear at the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's convention.

When she tentatively agreed to appear at a benefit performance June 30, Miss Baker stipulated:

- 1. She was not to appear before a segregated audience. 2. She and her troupe, made up of both whites and negroes, must be provided accommodations in one of the city's leading hotels.

Since the NAACP has rented the Municipal auditorium for the convention, the city quietly has agreed not to insist on segregation.

Under Georgia law any white hotel which grants accommodations to negroes would be liable to revocation of its innkeeper's license.

Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, protested the hotels' refusal to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, only to be advised by the state department that it was without authority to act in the matter.

Car Accessory Network Ruled 'Monopoly'

WASHINGTON, June 17-(AP)—A government trial examiner today found five Standard Oil companies and the Atlas Supply company guilty of monopolistic practices in tire, battery and auto accessory sales.

Basis of the complaint was a charge that the companies used their vast purchasing power to force manufacturers to give them lower prices or discounts and rebates denied to their competitors.

Examiner Everett F. Haycraft's decision was filed with the Federal Trade Commission and will become the commission's decision automatically in 30 days unless there is an appeal or the commission itself initiates a review.

His reports was accompanied by a stop-it provision to go into effect one year after issuance of the commission order.

Haycraft's finding of violations of the federal trade commission act and the Clayton anti-trust act was directed against the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey, Kentucky, California, Ohio and Indiana and Atlas Supply of Newark, N. J.

Atlas serves as buying agent for the tire-battery-accessory or "TBA" products the Standard companies resell to the public through service stations.

Wilson Says Congress to Keep Controls

WASHINGTON, June 17-(AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today he has "enough confidence in the congress to believe they will recognize the necessity" of extending the defense production act as President Truman requested.

Mr. Truman asked for a two-year extension with enlarged authority. The law now expires June 30.

Wilson turned thumbs down on a suggested four-month extension of the act as it stands. He indicated he believed that would only result in more hearings similar to those that have been underway before congressional committees for several weeks.

On Several Program Wilson, appearing on a television program, said:

1. An aircraft production board, similar to one which operated in World War II, will be set up in the defense production administration within a month.

2. A study has been ordered into the advisability of "encouraging" synthetic wool production in this country.

3. Under present plans, the United States will have a potential capacity of 50,000 airplanes a year by 1953.

4. The bill now before the house levying more than $7,000,000,000 in additional taxes "is a good step in the right direction." But he said he is afraid there is "an element of 'soak the rich' in it and I think it goes too far in that respect."

"Good Account" Expressing general approval of the manner in which the defense program is rolling along, Wilson said he believes "we could give a very good account of ourselves now" in a war with Russia.

Meanwhile, senators said early returns from President Truman's radio and television appeal to the people to rally round the expiring price-wage controls law have been something less than conclusive.

Both republican and democratic lawmakers said they had hoped for an outpouring of mail to show what the public really thinks, but it has been slow to develop.

Mr. Truman in his speech Thursday warned that prices will soar right "through the roof" and subject the nation to ruinous inflation unless congress quickly enacts tough new controls. The old law expires June 30.

Korean Red Radio Claims Dual Victories

TOKYO, June 17-(AP)—The communist Pyongyang radio tonight issued one of its longest communiques in weeks and claimed victories in the air and on the ground.

The North Korean war communique said "Korean and Chinese communists all along the front north of the 38th parallel are successfully repulsing Anglo-American invaders."

"On the central and eastern front on June 15 and 16 communist forces successfully foiled more than 10 enemy charges and inflicted about 4,600 casualties, including prisoners."

Enemy claims of casualties usually are grossly exaggerated and frequently are made to hide excessive communist losses.

"A communist air squadron at night on June 16 raided the American airfield at Suwon and turned it into a sea of fires."

"Today communist aircraft shot down three enemy planes."

The broadcast did not say where the planes had been shot down or what type they were.

Allied aircraft Sunday heavily pounded red airfields at Pyongyang and Sariwon.

Taft Expected To Toss Hat in Ring Aug. 22

BAH HARBOR, Me., June 17-(AP)—Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft is expected to open his campaign for the republican nomination for president in a Rockland speech August 22, Maine's GOP chairman said tonight.

Ralph C. Masterman, GOP committee chairman, said Taft's visit to Maine probably will be sponsored by the Maine young republicans.

He said Senator Brewster (R-Me.) indicated in a telegram to him that Taft would fire the opening gun of his nomination drive at that time.

In the telegram he received recently Masterman reported, Brewster said Taft's appearance and address "can be made into a very significant event, with the amount of interest which will be stirring at that time."
