

Unions Reject Two Offers by Ship Owners

By The Associated Press
Striking Atlantic and Gulf coast seamen of the CIO National Maritime union Wednesday rejected two offers made by ship owners.

The union termed the offers, both of which included wage increases, inadequate. They said the employers failed to make any new proposals to change working hours.

Efforts to end the maritime tie-up on the west coast, meanwhile were broken off, and a union spokesman said: "We're right back where we started."

The three-coast strike had tied up 137 ships, including more than 100 on the east and Gulf coasts.

The offers for settlement of the shipping strike were made at a meeting of ship owners and representatives of the union in New York.

The owners first proposed a 44-hour week at sea and a 40-hour week in port with a pay boost of 4.12 per cent. Added to a previous hike, the new rate would have been 10.5 per cent over Jan. 15, 1950 levels.

NMAU President Joseph Curran declared the offer inadequate.

A few hours later the ship owners offered a pay increase "equal to eight per cent of base wages in effect Jan. 15, 1950."

On the west coast representatives of the CIO American Radio association walked out of negotiations Wednesday with the Pacific Maritime association.

The word "argosy" comes from "ragusy" which referred to ships from Ragusa, a famous port in the Middle Ages but now the town of Dubrovnik on the Yugoslavian coast.

Employment Office Official Also Helps as Picker

One man who heeded the pleas of the farm labor office for more workers in the cherry harvest, was Paul Dixon who works there and helps in the hiring.

Conscious of the demand for more local help, needed to get a record crop harvested, Dixon himself is picking cherries in his spare time, and says he intends to use his profits to help pay for a vacation.

The Willamette farm labor council says that any other Salem residents getting the same spirit can apply at the farm labor office of the state employment service.

Scout Leaders Plan Visit to Camp Pioneer

Gordon Gilmore, Cascade area Boy Scout council executive, and assistants Howard Higby and Clark Lethin, will leave today for a three-day visit to the council's camp Pioneer in the Cascades.

The party will survey the camp for needed repairs prior to the camping season due to open July 15. A work party will go to the camp early in July to make repairs.

NMAU President Joseph Curran declared the offer inadequate.

Wheat Only Grain to Rise

CHICAGO, June 20—(AP)—Gains extending to a little more than a cent in wheat provided the only advance today for grain market traders who think prices are destined to go higher.

While wheat acted firm, the rest of the market continued to have a pretty weak look. Soybeans ran into steady pressure all day and rye fell sharply in the closing minutes. Corn and oats were lower most of the session but ended with prices mixed.

Wheat closed 1/4-1 1/2 higher, corn 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, oats 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, rye (old style) 2 1/2 to 4 cents lower, soybeans 2 1/4-3 1/4 lower and lard 1/2 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Stock Market Slips Lower

NEW YORK, June 20—(AP)—The stock market slipped lower today after trading an erratic path most of the session.

Prices moved downward during the final hour of trading but it was a slow drift to lower levels unaccompanied by any rush to sell.

Most price changes were held to a few cents although late in the session there was a growing number of losses of $1 or more.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 60 cents to $88.70. Industrials took the deepest dip of the three categories—a decline of 80 cents at $127.60.

The area of the Pacific Ocean is about the combined extent of the Atlantic, Indian and Arctic Oceans.

I'd Like to Know...

You may have heard that a suit has been filed by the Anti-trust Division in Washington to break up Standard of California as well as six other West Coast oil companies. Many people have written us protesting this action, and many have asked pertinent questions about our activities. We answer all letters individually, but some points seem of general interest. We take this way of discussing them for everyone. If you have a question, we urge you to write:

Soviets Block Food Parcels

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The Kremlin's "Hate America" campaign has broadened even to include types of food sent to German prisoners of war in Russian prisons and camps.

Food packages containing canned goods with American labels or other items with U. S. markings never reach prisoners. Although Russia has claimed that all German prisoners of war she took have been repatriated, a recent United Nations estimate placed at "thousands" those still held.

Recently German Red Cross officials told relatives of war prisoners not to try to send American goods. Although the Russians have made no formal statement, the Red Cross officials made it plain that such consignments never reached the prisoners.

"What's this 'integration' they're attacking you for?"

One of the complaints that a certain minority in this country is now making about big companies like Standard Oil Company of California is that they practice "integration". This word is made to sound so evil that you may wonder what it means as it's used in this case.

The fact is that integration is common in American businesses both large and small. They use it as a natural part of their system of increasing efficiency, cutting costs and improving products. Integration doesn't make a good company bad. To understand integration at a glance, look at this parallel:

A fisherman takes his boat onto the ocean and makes his catch. Standard discovers oil and brings it up out of the ground. If both then sell to somebody else—the fisherman to a buyer at wharfside, and Standard to some buyer at the well—there's no integration. But suppose each takes the next step...

When the fisherman cleans his own fish, he has become an integrated business. So, too, Standard. Like him, we work to put the product into the form you want. We refine the crude oil we ourselves produce—turn it into gasoline, lubricants, chemicals, and all the rest. This is the practice of integration.

And if the fisherman then carries his cleaned catch to the market-place, he is further integrated, for he is now also in the transportation business... as is Standard when we operate our own pipelines and tankers to carry oil from well to refinery, or refined products from there to areas where they'll be used.

And if the fisherman then sells his product through a store of his own, he completes his integration. Standard does it, too, through Company-owned stations (about 1 in 7 stations where Chevron gasolines are sold). Integration helps companies do better for you and the nation, and so for themselves.
