State Highway Commission Visits Salem

Members of the state highway commission, during a brief stop in Salem Friday afternoon, declined to comment on what road construction would be included in its expanded program resulting from a $40,000,000 bond issue approved by the 1951 legislature.

They indicated, however, that a four-lane highway between Salem and Portland probably would have high priority. Approximately $15,000,000 of the bonds will be sold annually.

The commission stopped in Salem while en route to Portland on its final lap of a five-day highway inspection tour.

Chairman Ben Chandler, Coos Bay said the commission had discussed a proposal to hold future meetings of the commission in Salem but had not arrived at any definite decision. Meetings of the commission are now held in Portland.

Driver License Cost Goes Up After August 2

Original and renewed Oregon drivers licenses on and after August 2 will cost $1.50 instead of $1.25, Secretary of State Earl T. Newbury announced Friday.

The increase, Newbury said, was approved by the 1951 legislature to reimburse the so-called hospital indigent fund administered by the state industrial accident commission. Under this law hospitals, doctors, nurses and ambulance services are reimbursed for care of indigents injured in motor vehicle accidents.

Newbury said applications for renewed Oregon drivers licenses, which expire on and after August 2, must be accompanied by the new $1.50 fee even though the application is filed prior to that date.

Narcotics, Unwed Mothers Bills Voted by Girl Legislators

The legislature of the 1951 Oregon Girls State Friday demonstrated the kind of bills they'd like to see passed in Oregon.

Both the senate and house approved a narcotics bill, which provided for life sentence to dope peddlers on a second conviction. A second measure passed provided for a state supported home for unwed mothers with children.

The two measures were among many considered as Girls State went into the final stages of its week-long session with a full-dress assembly in the statehouse.

Speaker of the Oregon house of representatives, John Steelhammer, was in attendance to assist the session.

Later in the afternoon, the supreme court building was opened to the delegates. Chief Justice James T. Brand and associate justices Walter Toozie and Harold Warner instructed in procedure of the court. The Girls State supreme court, with Jean Hartwell of Salem as chief justice, donned the official robes and presided for a short session.

Highlight of today's closing program will be the selection tonight of the two principals and two alternates for Girls Nation in Washington, D. C. The winners will be announced Sunday morning.

Throughout the day, the delegates will conduct court trials and be instructed in the procedure of a naturalization ceremony.

The ninth annual Girls State will end its ceremonies tonight at 9:30 o'clock with the traditional candle-light ceremony. The 207 girls will march from the capitol steps through the sunken garden carrying lighted candles. The ceremony will end with all singing "The Lords Prayer."

Former Salem Resident Dies

Friends have received word of the death of a former Salem resident, Mrs. Clifford Stewart (Esther Gunnesdahl) last Sunday in Portland. She had been ill since Christmas.

The funeral was held Wednesday in Portland. She is survived by her husband and two children, Robert Bruce, age two, and Linda Jean, six. The Stewarts made their home in Salem until a year and a half ago. She was a graduate of Willamette university and a member of Delta Phi sorority.

Kin Seeking Trace of Long Lost Woman

Request for information about Grace Ainslie (or Turner), believed to have come to Oregon about 1889, came to Marion county sheriff's office Friday.

Mrs. J. D. (Eda) Reynolds, 4960 Evangeline st., Baton Rouge, La., wrote that the woman sought was a daughter of Mrs. Reynolds' father (M. Seiward Ainslie) by an earlier marriage. Following Grace Ainslie's mother's death the little girl was left with an uncle, Rufus J. Turner, at Oakley, Kans., in the early 1880s.

From then on most contact was lost, except that Turner wrote in 1899 that he was going to Oregon. Mrs. Reynolds wrote here after she noticed the town of Turner on the Oregon map.

Sheriff Back Empty-Handed; Montana Judge Frees Kimery

Legal difficulties brought Sheriff Denver Young back to Salem Friday without the prisoner for whom he went to Montana three weeks ago to bring here on assault and extortion charges.

The prisoner, now free, was Tommie Andy Kimery, who had been a Detroit dam worker and had been charged with assault and extortion. After his alleged Oregon violation, he was arrested in mid-May in Butte, Mont.

When Young arrived in Montana, he found that the extradition papers had been pigeonholed inadvertently, but eventually the governor issued the executive warrant for extradition.

However, Kimery's attorney applied for a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that a federal court had ruled no state charges could be brought against a prisoner against whom federal charges had been filed. Since Kimery had been captured by the FBI, which had filed charges before

Camp Silver Creek Opens Slate Sunday

Camp Silver Creek will open to the summer's first group of Salem YMCA campers Sunday when 130 boys of ages 9 to 11 go to camp.

Roth Holtz, boys' work secretary at the YM and camp director, Friday announced this year's camp staff. Holtz said the YM is fortunate to have many experienced campers and trained personnel to operate the camping program.

Crafts director will be Boyd Hillesland, who is principal of the Lincoln school in Salem. His wife, a registered nurse, will be camp nurse.

Unit directors will be college students John and Fred Welland, brothers, of Evanston, Ill., William Jessup of Oswego and Gene Jones, former Salem high school athlete.

In charge of riding will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shepherd and son Raymond of Scottsville. Lifeguards will be Bob Walker and Martin Kmitel of Salem, who also will be cabin leaders. Other Salem cabin leaders will be Fred Buchanan, Larry Sharp, Bill Emery, Dick McGuire, Ted McKee, Ellis Woodworth and David Tom. From Portland will be Dick Lewis, Don Smith and Ronald Ragan. Robert Ward of Evanston, Ill., also will be a cabin leader.

Cooks, familiar to the YM campers for several years, will be Mrs. Mary Zenor and Mrs. Ethel Marsh. They will be assisted in the kitchen by Bob Constance, Elaine Zenor and Jim Van Loan.

William Sellwood of Salem will be storekeeper. Two fathers of YM campers will assist the camp staff during some of the camp sessions. They are Frank Shafer and Jack Bushong.

Three Naval Reservists Rate School

Three naval reservists from Salem and Dallas will enter the navy's reserve officer training program this summer, local navy reserve officials said Friday.

The men are YN3 Leon Leslie Andrews, 835 N. Capitol st.; SR Loren L. Sawyer, 485 Center st., both Salem; and SA Howard A. Lanyon of Dallas.

They are to report early in July to the Treasure Island officers training school at San Francisco, Calif. They will attend courses there this summer and next and when they graduate from their respective colleges they will receive navy ensign commissions.

Andrews and Sawyer are students at Willamette university while Lanyon is attending Oregon College of Education at Monmouth. All three are juniors.

McKays Leave For Visit with Gov. Langlie

Gov. and Mrs. Douglas McKay left Salem Friday afternoon for Olympia, Wash., where they will be overnight guests of Gov. and Mrs. Arthur B. Langlie.

The two governors will spend Saturday at Montesano, Wash., for ceremonies at the first tree farm established in the northwest. The farm is now 10 years old. Governor and Mrs. McKay will return here Saturday night.

The governor will leave for Tacoma Monday night to attend a meeting of the Columbia Basin Intergovernmental commission.

Head AROTC Instruction Here

Heading the Air Reserve Officers Training Corps program now being set up at Willamette university are these air force majors, Norman W. Campion (left), head of the instructional unit, and Gilbert H. Charters.

AROTC Instructors Arrive On Campus at Willamette U

Four staff members of Willamette university's airforce reserve officers training corps program have arrived on campus to set up the program.

They are Maj. Norman W. Campion, head of the instructors unit, and Maj. Gilbert H. Charters, Capt. Theodore Velde and M.Sgt. Benjamin Morgan. The staff will eventually contain 11 instructors.

Maj. Charters will leave Monday for a six-weeks refresher course for instructors at an airforce school in Montgomery, Ala. The others are engaged in setting up files and forms necessary to the course in an office in Eaton hall. Instruction supplies such as written material and plane mock-ups are expected soon.

The staff keeps in close contact with Fourth airforce headquarters at Hamilton field, Calif. An up-to-date record of potential student enrollment must be kept and orders, instructions and instruction material are received, studied and classified. Maj. Campion makes a weekly visit to the AROTC program at Oregon State college for new information.

Major Campion, professor of science and tactics, was recently at Oregon State college where he was assistant professor in the AROTC there.

He joined the army air corps in 1941. He spent most of World War II as a flight instructor in Texas. He attended the command and general staff school in 1945 at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and for a time was in charge of central instruction ground school at Randolph field.

The major went overseas in 1946 and spent two years at headquarters of the European air transport service in Germany. He then was assigned to Oregon State college where he spent the last 1 1/2 years.

Maj. Charters, who will be assistant professor of air science and tactics, is a native of Portland. He graduated from Reed college in 1932, enlisted in the Oregon national guard and was on duty at Pearl Harbor during the Japanese attack of Dec. 7, 1941.

He was commissioned in 1942 and went to England as a photo officer of the 386th bomber group. His unit was the last group to fly over allied troops when they invaded the Normandy beachhead. For this it received a distinguished unit citation.

Maj. Charters retired from active duty in 1945. He was business manager of the Albertina Kerr home in Portland when he was recalled to the AROTC duty earlier this year. He holds the air medal and the European theater ribbon with six battle stars.

Capt. Velde graduated from Oregon State college and received his master's degree in education at the University of Oregon. He spent 39 months in airforce service during the last war, mostly in the Pacific theatre.
