Woodburn Caneberry Harvest Ends

Statesman News Service
WOODBURN — Harvesting of caneberries in the Woodburn area is practically finished, with the exception of a few irrigated fields, according to Larry Austin of the local farm labor office.

The sour cherry harvest is in full swing with the expected termination of picking to be sometime next week, he said. Start of the snap bean harvest will be during the last week of July and the first week of August, with a few growers predicting bean harvesting to begin this weekend.

No labor shortage exists at the present time, Austin said. Many families are camped in trailers and tents at the cherry orchards and bean fields with most of the transient help coming from California. Picking at the Ray-Glatt cherry orchard was halted for two days this week, Wednesday and Thursday, due to the slow ripening of the cherries. Two hundred pickers or more are expected at the Iverson Brothers bean yard near Monitor occupying the cabins awaiting the start of the harvest.

Evergreen blackberry harvest will start about the same time as the bean harvest, according to Austin. He said that pickers from the Portland, Oregon City and Salem farm labor offices are applying for work here.

Woodburn food processors are still receiving some boysenberries, loganberries and raspberries but receipts are dwindling day by day with a few expected for at least another week. A few cucumbers are coming in to the receiving station here.

Stayton Area Bean Harvest Underway

Statesman News Service
JEFFERSON — Harvesting of beans for canneries got under way in a few local yards during the past week.

Picking started Monday in the Allen W. Gingrich yard operated by John W. Thomas. This yard has 15 acres of beans located just across the river from the Mike Helms ranch.

Plenty of pickers are also reported in the 10-acre yard adjoining the Pacific highway west of here and owned by J. H. Turnidge. The beans are very good quality. Picking started Tuesday.

Picking in the Dave Niess yard will not start until July 30.

Pickers are still needed in the John Grenz yard across the river from Jefferson where picking started Friday. It will take 70 or 80 pickers to harvest their 12-acre yard of beans.

With the shortage of pickers, most of the bean growers are now paying pickers 2 1/2 cents per pound plus 1/4 of a cent bonus for those remaining the entire season.
