Wilkie Flatten Tigers Twice

Scores 3-1, 4-0; 'Olympics' Feature of Finale

By Al Lightner

Superlative pitching and defensive play on the out-of-this-world side racked up the Tacoma Tigers twice for the town Senators last night at Waters field, pushing the Salems 3-0 ahead in the series. The scores were 3-1 in the opener as Aldon (The Duke) Wilkie came within three pitches of hurling a perfect game for the seven innings, and 4-0 in the nine-fame nightcap, a weird battle that resulted in Bill Bev-ens' 17th triumph of the season despite his walking nine Tigers, and in Salem's racking up six double plays to tie the league record not-

While in town last weekend to watch the blow by blow of any possible reoccurance of the Fans vs. Valencourt squabble, WIL Boss Bob Abel passed along info concerning the league's post-season play-offs. And since H. Luby & Co. fully expect to be in the thick of the eliminations we'll relay Abel's plan on to you. First phase of the playoffs will be two games out of three, with the No. 1 team playing No. 3 and No. 2 going against No. 4 Transportation and the cost thereof being a major item in the Abel plan, here's how the playoffs are set up:

Should Salem finish third and Spokane first, the opening clash of the series will be played here in Waters field and the next two at Spokane. Salem finishes the regular season at Victoria and Spokane buttons up play at Vancou-ver. So both would come here for a game before going to Spokane for the last two. Should Salem finish third and Vancouver first, opening tilt would be at Vancouver and the next two here in Salem. Same setup applies should the Senators finish fourth, with either Vancouver or Spokane finishing second. Just where the opening game of the 3-out-of-5 finals would start-" will depend upon how, who and where the first series winds up.

GEORGE JOHNSON The city involved in the least amount of travel would get the opening two games of the finals.

Were one to make a guess as to the opening playoffs, we'd say Spokane (1) and Salem (3) will play the first game here and the next two in Spokane, while Vancouver (2) and Wenatchee (4) would play their first game at Voncouver and the next two at Wenatchee. For the finals (and this is on the wild dream side), Salem would play the first two at Wenatchee and then finish it all up by winning the playoffs right here at home . . .

Mails Has Oldtimers Game Set for Eugene Also

Walter (The Great) Mails, star of the Oldtimers clash here last weekend (what a partner he'd make for Wes Schulmerich in Wes' comedy acts!), is staging an Oldtimers game at Eugene next Tuesday night, he says, and will have on hand a goodly number of those who were in the local mix, including Jim Mosolf, Ted Norbert, Deacon Van Vuren, Billy Sullivan, Curt Coleman, etc. But the star of that show will be none other than Tyrus Raymond Cobb who along with Babe Ruth amounted to the greatest of the great in all of baseball.

Mails had some tall talking to do (as only he can do it, incldentally) before he persuaded Cobb to accept the journey to Eugene. The old Georgia Peach, now a resident of Lake Tahoe finally conceded when Mails convinced him that he alone could amount to the salvation of baseball in the low minor leagues by merely making appearances at the various ball parks and talking to the fans and kiddles. Not that the Oldtimers game itself won't draw well enough at Eugene, but Mails name to pull from 4000 to 5000 ou ark's field

Trautmen Man Checking Waters Field, Umpiring

Making his annual round as official representative of Minor League Commissioner George Trautman's office, white-thatched George (Johnny) Johnson has been an interested Waters field patron the past few days. Johnson's job is to report to his superior on the upkeep, operation, lighting, etc., of all minor league ball parks and to watch every move made by the umpires. Incidentally, e saw some dandies during the Wenatchee series when Signo Valencourt was peppered with about everything fans could get their hands on, and when Partner Rose had his nice blue suit spattered with a full cup of beer during the same conflagration. Actually Johnson could be termed the Bill Klem of the Minors.

He toiled as a Man in Blue in the American Association for 30 years and during that time sent more than a dozen umpires to the majors, ncluding Cal Hubbard, Larry Goetz, Jocko Conlan, Tommy Dunn, Ernie Stewart and Joe Ruhle. Watching the blue serge boys work in the minors and recommending them to higher baseball classification is a big part of Johnson's present job also.

He would make no outward statement concerning the Valen-court upheaval here, but did mention that he figured same Mr. V. could better his attitude considerably if he is to become a successful arbiter. Johnson also added that he pegs Joe Iacovetti as potentially the best umpire in the WIL.

Johnson is a brother of Ernie Johnson, the Boston Red Sox scout of the present who in 1926-27-28 managed the Portland Beavers and in 1929-30-31-32 skippered the Seattle Indians, as they were then known . . .
