

Joanne Enyeart Becomes Bride Of Donald New at Church Rites

The attendants, who preceded Miss Joanne Enyeart down the aisle when she became W. Donald New's bride on Saturday night, wore frocks in the fall shades and carnation leis, which had been flown over from Hawaii. The beautiful ceremony took place at the First Christian church at 8 o'clock with Dr. Daniel Schulz officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Enyeart and the groom is the son of Mrs. W. A. New, who was here from her home in Honolulu for the nuptials, and the late Captain New, USN. Miss Betty Jean Mullin was the soloist and Mrs. Jess Jones was the organist. The altar was decorated with bouquets of gladioluses in the fall shades to harmonize with the gowns of the bridesmaids.

Mrs. Albert Miles (Janyce Baker), the honor matron, wore a green net frock over green taffeta with rounded neckline, puffed sleeves and full skirt. Bridesmaids were Miss Gayle Juve, who wore coeas brown net over brown taffeta, and Miss Patricia Fitzsimons, whose dress was of gold net over matching taffeta. The junior bridesmaid was Lynne Enyeart and her frock was of coral net over taffeta. The attendants all wore pale yellow carnation leis and matching headpieces of the carnations.

Bridal Gown of Lace

The bride's handsome gown was of chantilly lace over net, the net skirt forming a short train. The dress was designed with a net guimpe with lace Peter Pan collar and long sleeves worn under a lace bodice. The scalloped lace overskirt extended to the floor in back and was worn over a double net skirt. A Juliet cap of lace enhanced with pearls held in her place her tulle fingertip veil. She carried a spray of white cattleya and phalaenopsis orchids, which had also been flown over from the islands.

John Steadman was best man for Mr. New and ushers were Elroy Fulmer, Fred Sutherland, Gordon Enyeart, Sam Gill and James Coll.

Mrs. Enyeart chose a grey sheer gown with lace insertion and pink gloves and shoes for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of orchid cattleyas. Mrs. New attended her son's marriage in a royal blue lace ballgown with corsage of yellow cattleya orchids. Their flowers had also come from Honolulu.
