Miss Jean Schoneboom was the maid of honor and wore a yellow gown and bridesmaids were Miss Louise Colyer, whose dress was of ice blue. Dress-up Day For Golfers

Woodburn—Costumes of the "roaring twenties" dominated the scene at the annual "dress-up" day of the Woodburn golf club ladies' day Thursday. Five women from Silverton who play on the Woodburn course definitely "rode off" with the day's prize when they drove onto the course in model-T Ford all outfitted with garters, wide brimmed veiled hats for the three "ladies" and caps, mustaches and riding suits for their "escorts." The former were Mrs. Norman Eastman, Mrs. George Steelhammer and Mrs. Lucy Eastman while the latter were Mrs. Carl Hande and Mrs. Marian Denson. Incidentally, the model-T and outfit stopped traffic in Silverton while the ladies went through town on their way to Woodburn.
A bride and groom of the alden days were portrayed by Mrs. Ray Glatt and Mrs. Lee Withers while Mrs. Ralph Pickering also dressed up in a similar outfit to Mrs. Glatt's. Clowns, Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer, a pirate, an orange cat, bathing beauties, flappers, an interior decoration, and a hula girl all added to the merriment of the occasion. Golf, if you can call it that, was of the alibi type.

Winning high score in class A was Mrs. Hande while Mrs. Gerald B. Smith took honors for class B.
Moving pictures were taken by Dr. Smith while others snapped various poses of the crowd. About 40 women attended the play with the women from Silverton serving on the luncheon committee. Committee for next Thursday's play will be Mrs. Pickering and Mrs. Carroll Foster.

Interior Decorating ... can be FUN!

MODERN MASTERY

A few decades ago it was not uncommon to hear designers of the new Modern furniture referred to as upstarts. A few far-seeing individuals, knowing that the furniture of a given period reflects and expresses the mode of life and the social customs of the period, realized that a new era was dawning and that this trend was prophetic.

Like all radical changes, the first Modern efforts were extreme, sometimes grotesque. These have passed through a succession of transitional stages from which emerged today's functional Modern with the fundamental simplicity of line and design that characterizes all furniture in good taste.

While it is true that architecture influences furnishings, it does not follow that Modern furniture is out of the place in any but the Modern home. Quite the opposite. Modern is adaptable.

The room sketched above has been given a Modern feeling by painting the fireplace wall a deep chocolate brown to contrast with oyster white on other walls. Rough-textured cocoa-color draperies camouflage three insignificant windows. Plywood shelf, cut to follow lines of Modern circular sofa, serves as lamp table. Lounge chairs upholstered in oyster-white plastic contrast with dark brown sofa.

We invite you to choose your furnishings in comfort. Don't hurry. Just come in and browse around. We have friendly people to help you make your selections. And our prices are just right for your pocketbook.
