Paratrooper Dies as Chute Fails to Open

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 26 (AP)—One paratrooper plunged 1,200 feet to death today when his chute failed to open during an airdrop of 1,000 men in the war games here.

Five hundred spectators watched from the sidelines of the drop zone as the enlisted man fell, with his parachute trailing behind him.

One airborne officer who watched the fall, said the victim appeared to have had the parachute tangled under his arm, as he leaped from his plane.

First reports said 38 others were injured in the jump, with their injuries ranging from minor to serious. The identity of the dead man was not released immediately by the army.

This was the only fatality reported in the jump of 6,000 men from the 82nd airborne division during the past two days.

The army reported yesterday 13 men have died from non-combat causes during the army-air force maneuvers, which will end tomorrow. The maneuvers dubbed "Exercise Southern Pine"—started 13 days ago.

This final paratrooper jump gave defending U. S. forces new reserves to use in the maneuver designed to drive "aggressor" forces from North Carolina.

Amy McCleary, 76, Silverton Woman, Dies

SILVERTON—Amy Ellen McCleary, 76, native of Silverton, died at her home here Saturday night.

She was born in the Silverton area and had lived all her life here. Her father was John Morley, an early Oregon pioneer.

Surviving are three sons, Sylvan of Silverton, Elgin of Dallas and Pearl of Portland; brothers, Charles and John Morley of Silverton; sisters, Mrs. Ina Bell Mitchell and Mrs. Rose Whitlock of Salem, and four grandchildren.

Private funeral services will take place Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Mount Crest Abbey in Salem under direction of the Ekman Funeral home.

Wreck Damages Auto, Pickup

Minor damage resulted from an auto-pickup truck collision at Chemeketa and North 21st streets Sunday morning, city police reported.

The auto, driven by William J. Wilson, 265 N. 23rd st., traveling west on Chemeketa street, was damaged on the right side, police said. The pickup truck, driven by Perry Arlyn Lee, Salem route 4, box 974, traveling south on North 21st street, was damaged in the front end.

No citations were issued.

Catholics Plan Farewell for Rev. Bernards

Catholics in Salem will gather at a farewell reception Tuesday night at the Catholic center, Shipping and Cottage streets, in honor of the Rev. T. J. Bernards, pastor of St. Joseph's church here who will leave this week.

The reception, sponsored by the organizations of St. Joseph's parish, will begin at 8 p.m. Parish organizations attended masses in groups Sunday morning to hear Father Bernards preach his farewell sermon.

Rounding out 17 years of service in Salem the Rev. Bernards will take over the pastorate of St. John's church in Oregon City on Thursday. New pastor of St. Joseph's will be the Rev. Joseph Vandenberg from Astoria.

Knockout Blow Prepared in War Games

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 26 (AP)—Paratroopers today linked up with the 43rd and 28th infantry divisions and prepared a knockout blow against an enemy aggressor which will end the two-week Carolina war games tomorrow.

The U. S. Ninth air force dominated the skies as 1,000 paratroopers of the 82nd airborne division jumped today to join the 5,000 who jumped yesterday in Exercise Southern Pine, the biggest training maneuver since World War II.

Lt. Gen. John Hodge, director of the games, said the 43rd and 28th divisions, which will join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense force in Europe this fall, got "tremendously valuable" field experience.

"The boys have behaved themselves beautifully too," Hodge said. He reported the maneuvers, which involve more than 100,000 troops and airmen over the rolling, pine-topped Carolina sandhills, had been "worth five times the effort and money put into them."

"I think they have gotten about everything in the book in these maneuvers," Hodge added.

He meant the troops, especially the two Germany-bound former national guard divisions, had been trained in all tactical phases—such as attacks, withdrawals, and airborne movements of men and supplies.

The tactical phases were controlled by umpires who set up situations which the soldiers may face in actual combat. Thus, the 800 umpires would let the aggressor isolate entire regimental combat teams to test their resourcefulness. The general said there were a "lot of things that I saw which can be corrected in about 10 minutes in battle." He was referring to the failure of all the troops to take protective cover when they were confronted by the "enemy" rifles. He pointed out that no sound device, such as loudspeakers, would create the realism of actual bullets falling near troops.

Santiam Couple Evacuate Belongings by Truck

One of the last families to leave Fishers Camp in the threatened Santiam Canyon area was Jim Wardle and his wife Camilla. They, like many other residents of the area, left the danger area Sunday. The Wardles planned to drive the truck, containing all their belongings, to Hood River where they formerly resided. (Statesman photo.) (Story on page one.)

Harriman Says Iran Solution Still Possible

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's roving ambassador, said tonight he is "much disappointed" over the breakdown in Anglo-Iranian oil talks in Tehran but expressed the belief there is still "a basis for settlement."

Harriman flew to London from Bled, Yugoslavia, via Paris. He conferred with Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito on military and economic needs of Yugoslavia. Harriman had flown to Bled, where Tito has his summer residence, from Tehran after the breakdown of the Iranian oil talks.

He will discuss the Iranian situation with British officials during the two days he expects to be in London before proceeding to Washington to report to President Truman.

"I was much disappointed that the talks came to an impasse in Tehran," he said in a news conference at the airport. "I believe there is a basis for a settlement, and I hope that the talks may be resumed under circumstances where there can be a practical discussion of problems that are still unsolved."

Harriman said the "considerable progress" made in efforts to work out a smooth takeover of the nationalized billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. by Iran should not be underestimated.

Boy Hurt in Fall From Hayloft

MT. ANGEL—Norman Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fischer, Mt. Angel, suffered a head cut and chest injuries of undetermined seriousness Sunday afternoon when he fell 30 feet from a hayloft.

He was playing in a barn at Hall's farm, picnic spot two miles east of here, while at a Foresters picnic. He is being held at Silverton hospital for observation and treatment.

Lt. Frees Takes 'Altitude Flight'

How it feels to "fly" at 40,000 feet altitude is one of the recent additions to the knowledge of Lt. Norman W. Frees, jr., Salem navy pilot at the San Diego naval air station.

Frees, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Frees, 1643 Court st., took the "flight" in one of the navy's huge low pressure chambers at the station, as part of the instruction in the use of high altitude breathing equipment used in navy planes.

Driver Cited After Wreck

Minor damage to two autos and citation for one driver resulted from a two-car collision on North Capitol at D street Sunday afternoon, city police reported.

Police said both autos were traveling north on Capitol street when a coupe driven by Fred C. Kruse, 130 Bush st., stopped at a traffic signal when the collision occurred. Driver of the other auto, Virginia C. Boyd, 2015 Fairgrounds rd., was cited by police on a charge of following too close, causing an accident.

The Kruse car was damaged slightly in the rear, the Boyd auto sustained damage to the front end and body, police said.

Fair to Open at 4-H House in Albany Today

By Lillie L. Madsen
Farm Editor, The Statesman

ALBANY—The 4-H house for Linn county was put completely in order by Sunday for the annual Linn County 4-H fair to open today and close Wednesday night with the market livestock auction, reported H. Joe Myers, 4-H extension agent.

Walter Sheiby of Albany will be general superintendent of livestock. Swine judging will start at 1:30 p.m. today. Earl Drury of Falls City will judge the swine.

In charge of the sheep division will be Henry Kirk of Halsey and Claude Steufluff of Salem will judge them. Judging of sheep showmanship will start Tuesday morning at 9:30. Assisting with the dairy show will be Bob Schmidt, Albany; Jim Ruby, Scio; Karl Arnold, Albany and Lester Estegard, Harrisburg, with Ray Hobson of Amity as dairy judge. Judging of the dairy showmanship will be Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. with dairy judging to start at 11 o'clock.

Douglas Chambers of Salem will judge beef cattle and assisting with beef cattle show will be L. J. Getchell and Marvin Morin, Lebanon. In charge of poultry is to be Gene Nygrea, Albany, with F. E. Fox, Corvallis to judge. Judging of poultry has been set for Tuesday at 2 o'clock, with beef showmanship and beef judging at 4 o'clock Tuesday.

The rabbit show promises to be quite large, and judging will start at 1:15 Tuesday with Karl Kurtsinger of Albany as judge.

In the canning and gardening divisions women club leaders have taken charge with Mrs. Frank Covey, Albany, overseeing the canning division; Mrs. Ruth Tapper, Albany, the vegetable gardening, and Mrs. Oma Mackie, Tangent, the flower division. The vegetable and crop judging with the canning demonstrations and contests will all start at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The climax of the fair will be the 9th annual market livestock auction with Frank Zarnes as auction manager. Preceding the auction the general parade and presentation of special awards will be held, approximately at 7:30 Wednesday night. The auction itself is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday. Dan Roth is to be the auctioneer. Listed to be sold are 47 hogs, 68 sheep and 17 beef animals. Chambers, who is judging beef, will serve as official grader for all fat animals offered for the auction. To enter the auction ring animals must grade good or better.

Auto Demolished, Driver Injured in Crash at Brooks

An auto was demolished and the driver treated for face and head cuts after collision with a truck and trailer south of Brooks early Sunday morning, state police reported.

Injured was Charles Reese, Tangent. Driver of the truck-trailer was Joseph Dansky, Woodburn route 1, police said. No citations were listed.
