Emergency Crew at Fair Numbers 70

Augmented by city and county crews the usual police, fire protection at the state fair is being provided for the first day by a crew of nearly 70 men.

City Police Sgt. Elwood (Hap) Hewitt is in charge of the 55-man police force. This includes 12 off-duty city policemen. The rest are members of the Marion county sheriff's reserve and fair-hired employees.

A City Ambulance service is standing by for serious emergency injuries. It is stationed near the grandstand when horsing racing is in progress during the day and at the horse show pavilion at night. The city first aid crew may also be called in to action, Hewitt said.

Fire protection is provided by a city fire department truck and crew stationed on the grounds.

4-H Members Start Contests At State Fair

(story also on page one)

Four-H youngsters started their demonstrations Saturday at the 86th Oregon State fair. This includes the famous dollar dinners. Judging will not get under way until Monday.

The food section in a new location in the agricultural pavilion reported almost twice as many entries as last year. Interest by men in this division, increasing yearly, brought out a number of male entries this year. Everett H. McNall of Oretech, three miles east of Klamath, says that he drove all night to get to Salem in time to enter his cake in competition.

Mrs. Douglas McKay, Oregon's first lady, who has been a frequent cake exhibitor in the past, is again back with an angel food cake. Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the food department will hold a demonstration on frozen foods with Prof. Ruth Miller of Oregon State college doing the demonstrating.

The space formerly occupied by the food division has been utilized largely by textiles. Mrs. C. H. Cleaver of Albany, known to a number of the woolen show exhibitors, is here with a display.

Some Stalls Empty

With two county fairs not closing until Saturday night, a few stalls were still empty in the barns Saturday afternoon. Some sheep and more cattle were expected in Sunday morning from Washington and Clackamas counties.

Horses are more numerous than usual and the overflow is housed in the cattle barns.

Judging will get under way on Monday morning on Guerneys, Holsteins, Brown Swiss, Herefords and sheep, poultry, rabbits and in the swine division on Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Poland Chinas and honey bees.

Modern dancing is being held every night except Sunday and Wednesday, at 8 p.m., in the pavilion above the Future Farmers building. Wednesday night at 8 o'clock a square dance jamboree will be held with groups from all over the state participating.

Fiddlers' Contest Set

The old-time fiddlers' contest, at first slated to be held at 8 o'clock each night, will start Monday at 2 p.m. and continue through each afternoon at that time also in the dance pavilion.

While farm machinery is not so plentiful as in the "old days," much more is on display this year than in recent years. Tractors, some harvesting machinery and considerable in the cultivation line are being exhibited by local Salem companies. Irrigation system exhibits are more plentiful than usual. Logging and trucking equipment are being shown this year for the first time.

New, too, are tepees of Umatilla Indians pitched in front of the horse show pavilion. Indians themselves are colorful additions to the Umatilla county booth, where the Pendleton Round-up is being featured this year. Included among the Indians is Clarence Burke, chief of the Umatilla tribe.

Both Drivers Cited in Wreck

Two autos were damaged and both drivers cited by city police in a collision at Capitol and D streets Saturday afternoon, police said.

Marlene Velma Kendall, 485 Lost ln., was cited on a charge of following too close and Laddie Frank Kucera, 1348 Lee st., was cited on a charge of failure to provide proper license plates, police said. Front end damage was listed for the Kendall car, rear end damage for the Kucera vehicle. No injuries were reported.

4 Salem Men in Marine Class

Four Salem area men are in special marine platoon leaders' training class at San Diego, Calif., it was reported here by U. S. marine corps information officials.

Those taking the college students' summer training under a reserve officer training program are Douglas Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Klein, 1730 Madison st., Salem; Robert B. Lester, son of Robert E. Lester, Silverton; James A. Collier, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Collier, 195 S. Cottage st., and Donald J. Fulham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fulham, McMinnville.

Most people, it has been found, are unable to hold a camera and shoot a picture at less than 1/25th of a second.

Decline Noted In Oregon's Pay Averages

Shorter work weeks in lumber, logging and related industries brought a $4.50 decline in earnings of all production workers during July, the Oregon Unemployment Compensation commission announced.

The average was $73.38 against the $77.96 all-time high in June. Earnings in durable goods plants dropped from $83.10 in June to $76.43 in July which was barely higher than the $75.54 reported a year before. But non-durable operations averaged $65.09 a week against $62.74 in June and $61.21 a year ago to keep the over-all figures from a further decline.

Production workers in sawmills and logging camps worked only 37.8 hours a week during July against 40.4 hours in June and 39.1 a year before. Furniture plants cut back to an average of 36.5 hours as compared with 40.2 hours the previous month. Machinery plants dependent upon lumbering also dropped considerably, from 41.8 hours in June to 37.4 in July.

Canning and preserving plants lengthened work weeks to 44.7 hours against 36.7 in June and 41.9 a year ago. Average hourly pay dropped slightly because of the increase in women workers but weekly earnings jumped to $57.53 as compared with $48.45 the previous month and $51 last year.

Work weeks of printing and publishing production workers also were slightly lower but they increased their margin for top pay with $62.78 against $61.15 for permit workers, who obtained an increase to take over second place from loggers and mill workers.

Crash Results In Citation

Two autos were damaged slightly and one driver cited on a charge of following too close in a collision at North Capitol and Market streets early Saturday, city police reported.

Damage to the front end of an auto driven by Wilbur Clark Martin, Siletz, and the rear of an auto driven by George LeRoy Ganfan, 3215 Portland rd., were listed by police. Martin posted $10 bail on the charge. No one was reported injured.

Yugoslavs Flee To Italy by Boat

ROME, Sept. 1 (AP)—Twelve Yugoslavs arrived at the Italian port city of Bari today after a two-day voyage in a small boat.

The Italian news agency Ansa quoted them as saying they fled from Yugoslavia because "life has become impossible there." Several of them, the agency said, had served time in prison.

Lumber Slips from Truck to Car to Street

Damage caused by this load of lumber as it slipped off a truck Friday evening at 12th and Court streets is examined by the drivers, city police and others. The drivers, kneeling at the front of the car, were Vincent A. Spenner, Stayton route 1, of the truck, and George LeTourneau, 635 Waldo ave., of the car. The latter had just parked and was standing on the curb side of the car when the lumber fell.

300 Pints of Blood Set as Goal Thursday

Three hundred pints of blood is the goal for Salem's blood day next Thursday, to get Marion county "out of the red" in its accounting between blood given and that used by residents.

The unit will be at the armory from noon to 5 p.m.

During August patients in Salem hospitals used 147 pints, but only 206 pints were donated, of which half are destined for the armed forces overseas and veterans hospitals. In addition to the banked blood, more was used at Salem and Silverton from "walking" donors.

Officials pointed out that blood has come to be used in routine treatment as well as in emergency cases. Hospitals may not charge for the blood, but can for a laboratory and administrative costs.

Red Cross asked that donors, when possible, schedule their visits to the blood bank in advance, in order to speed the process. This is done by calling the Red Cross chapter office.

Marion county is visited twice monthly by the mobile unit, the first Thursday at Salem and later in the month in some outlying community. At present more than 100 groups participate on a monthly basis in sending donors.

Bride Injured In Accident

Mrs. Robert McLane, 1374 Chemeketa st., is in Salem Memorial hospital with a fractured skull suffered in an accident August 21 at Port Orford. She was reported Saturday as convalescing and able to have visitors.

Mrs. McLane, who was Barbara Keener until her marriage August 11, and McLane were returning from their honeymoon on a motorcycle when they collided with a car driven by H. F. Ehrlich of San Marino, Calif.

McLane sustained a head laceration. His wife was returned to Salem a week ago.

Postal Receipts Decline in August

Salem postoffice receipts for August dropped 3.8 per cent below the total for August, 1950, Postmaster Albert C. Gragg said Saturday.

Receipts for the month just ended were $61,976. Receipts for the last two months total $129,658 compared with $122,183 for July-August of last year, Gragg said.

X-Ray Retake Center Open 2 More Days

Tuesday and Wednesday are the last days of operation in Marion county for Willamette valley X-ray retake center.

The center serves as a second screening for persons who have been X-rayed in the original survey. When a shadow is seen on an X-ray taken by a mobile unit the person on whom the picture was snapped is asked to report back so that a large film can be made.

Those who have been unable to keep previous appointments at the retake center were urged to come in Wednesday. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. An appointment time change may be made by calling 4-3335, extension 15, in Salem.

2-Car Wreck Damages 2 Other Autos

An Austin sedan and a Ford coupe collided at North 12th and Chemeketa streets, damaging both cars considerably and bouncing the Ford into two parked cars shortly before noon Saturday, city police reported.

The Austin, driven north on North 12th street by Fred L. Evans, 3155 D st., sustained "complete" front end damage, police reported. The other auto, driven east on Chemeketa street by John Manittas, 280 N. 23rd st., bounced after the collision from one side of the street to the other, striking two parked autos, police said. Both front and rear end damage were listed.

Manittas suffered minor cuts and bruises, police said.

Eyre Begins 48th Year as Salem Banker

David W. Eyre began Saturday his 48th consecutive year in the banking business at State and Commercial streets.

He began with the Salem State bank at the northwest corner of the intersection. It later was converted into the United States National bank of Salem and Eyre was president of the institution from 1918 to 1933.

United States National of Portland, which later acquired the Ladd and Bush bank and consolidated the two branches at the offices of the latter on the southeast corner of the same intersection.

Eyre is vice president of the U. S. National of Portland and manager of its Ladd & Bush - Salem branch. He admits that he has seen a lot of history, financial and otherwise, in that period from his vantage point at State and Commercial.
