

Louis Adamic, Noted Author, Kills Himself

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Louis Adamic, 52, who almost had finished a new book on his native Yugoslavia, died today in his burning farmhouse from an apparently self-inflicted rifle wound.

There appears to be nothing to indicate anything other than suicide, Hunterdon County Prosecutor H. T. Heisel said. Assistant County Coroner John B. Fuhrmann, said death came from a "supposedly self-inflicted" wound.

A native of Yugoslavia, Adamic gained literary prominence in the early 1930's with "The Native Returns," a moving account of a year's visit in his native land.

Among his better known books were "Dinner at the White House," describing an evening with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill; "My Native Land," "From Many Lands," and "What's Your Name."

Set Your Caps For Him, Girls

A peddle is no stranger to 10-year-old David Doerfler, Silverton. His skill with that implement won the 4-H bachelor sewing contest, and earned him a scholarship to 4-H summer school, at the state fair Tuesday.

The blonde, brown-eyed boy's entry included a camp apron, pot holder, carpenter's apron, tool kit, first aid kit, knife sheath and samples of patching and darning. He also has learned to press his trousers.

He belongs to a sewing club led by Mrs. Ferny Scott, is a member of a 4-H health club at the Victor Point school, and hopes to join a calf club soon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Doerfler.

Winner Misses Big Day at Fair

Tuesday was a big day for John Denning, Redmond FFA youth, but he wasn't at the Oregon state fair to enjoy it.

Young Denning won the Jersey calf, presented annually by the Oregon Jersey Cattle club during its state fair judging program for the outstanding Jersey project of the year.

The presentation was made by Rex Ross, who donated the calf, and Lee Allen, Redmond dairyman accepted for John who is ill in a hospital at Astoria, Calif.

WOODBURN, Sept. 4.—Thirteen-month-old Carolyn Kuensting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kuensting, Woodburn, route 1, died at Silverton hospital Monday night of injuries incurred when the car was run over by a car operated by her mother.

Mrs. Kuensting was backing the car from the garage at their home Monday morning when the door came open, tumbling the little girl under the car.

Surviving besides the parents are a brother, Patrick, and grandmothers, Mrs. Ann Kuensting, Salem, and Mrs. Gertrude Jensen, Woodburn route 1.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday in the Ringo chapel with the Rev. B. L. Mofenbier officiating. Burial will be in St. Luke's cemetery.

Girl Rescued from Well

NEWBERG, Sept. 4.—Marie Anne Payne, blonde 2½-year-old girl, is carried up a ladder to safety by Lt. Ralph Staker, a fireman, after being trapped for four hours in a narrow well shaft near her home in Newberg, Ore. (AP Wirephoto to The Statesman.)

Tot Recovers From 4-Hour Wait in Well

NEWBERG, Ore., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Marie Anne Payne, the two-year-old girl rescued from a well shaft yesterday, was released from a hospital today, unharmed and laughing again.

Dr. C. A. Bump said the girl had recovered from effects of the four hours she was imprisoned 12 feet underground in a well shaft her father had dug in his back yard.

Metal Industries Group Praised By NPA Officials

Salem's Metal Industries group drew praise Tuesday from Robert V. Elliott and John C. Barnett, representatives of the National Production Authority, who spoke to the organization at a dinner meeting.

Barnett said Salem Industries seemed well aware of the situation as regards priorities and allocation of materials. Generally they are getting sufficient materials because through the group they have made a study of regulations involved in their particular problems.

Elliott addressed the group on NPA regulations, priorities and allocations of critical metals for civilian use. He pointed out that about 75 per cent of materials is being allocated for civilian economy.

Coast-to-Coast TV Inaugurated

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Television spanned the continent tonight a quarter century after the start of coast-to-coast radio network broadcasts.

The first cross-country channel was set up for President Truman's address opening the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco.

All four network companies—ABC, CBS, Dumont and NBC—pooled facilities to carry the telecast to affiliated stations.

The single channel, one-way circuit will be kept in operation for telecasts of the remainder of the conference, then taken out of service for installation of regular commercial channels expected to go into operation by the end of the month.

Virus Reportedly Combats Polio

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Evidence was presented today that there is a queer virus everywhere which seems to protect many persons from polio.

The protective virus has various names, the official one being coxsackie. The coxsackie protection was reported to the second international poliomyelitis conference by Dr. Gilbert Dalldorf of the New York state department of health.

Dr. Roy Achor, Minister, Dies

MABTON, Wash., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Dr. Roy William Achor, former Oregon Presbyterian minister, died here yesterday following a year's illness.

Dr. Achor served the Woodburn-Gervais, Ore., area from 1919 to 1926. He was in Roseburg from 1926 to 1929 and in Oregon City from 1929 to 1947.

From 1947 to 1950 he was in Grandview, Wash., as pastor emeritus of the Bethany Presbyterian church.

His widow and twin sons survive.

Salem Gains Addition to Water Rights

Additional water rights to bolster Salem's public water supply were gained by the city of Salem Tuesday.

When nobody protested prior to a scheduled state engineer's hearing, the proceeding was called off and the city's water right acquisition was earmarked for final state approval.

The city will gain the right to convert from power to municipal use 60 cubic feet of water per second, water rights secured in a trade with Oregon Pulp and Paper company, which received land on Minto's island. The agreement was reached last May, subject to the state engineer's approval.

The water comes from the Santiam river through Salem ditch or Mill creek. Other rights to the water are held by the city and Thomas Kay Woolen mills. The paper mill retains 22 second feet exclusively and 172 second feet equally with the city and the woolen mill. The trade involves water through the northern creek.

State Engineer Charles E. Sticklin, with no protests to the agreement reaching him, said he found no one will be injured by the deal. He has the power to grant the application.

The exchange gives the paper company about 10 acres of the island, of which it owns most of the other 290 acres.

The agreement also grants the city a 25 second feet standby for fire protection in the power ditch adjacent to the city water office, a replacement of the emergency water supply from the island, which has given the city a 3 per cent reduction in insurance rates.

Drownings accounted for 97 dead and a variety of other mishaps including plane crashes, fires and falls killed another 100.

The former Labor day traffic toll record was 410 in 1949.

Salem Day at Fair Today

Today is Salem day at the Oregon state fair.

Few stores are closing and state offices are working as usual, but the traditional fair day will include the governor's handicaps at the races and the Salem governor's guard (the Oregon mounted posse) will be featured at tonight's horse show.

City hall employees will be given the afternoon off and the courthouse offices will operate with skeleton crews. Several retail stores are letting most employees off, maintaining only short clerking staffs today. Some local clubs are dispensing with today's meetings or planning to adjourn early.

300 Fail to Get X-Ray Retakes, Deadline Today

Some 300 Marion county residents have yet to appear for large X-rays, in the valley chest V-ray project. The retake center in Salem, at the public school office building, closes today at 4:30 p.m.

The office said Tuesday that after 45,393 took X-rays in the county, 1,411 were called for retakes because of suspicion of tuberculosis or other disease or because of faulty pictures. Only 1,077 persons had been photographed for the second time, they said.

It was pointed out, however, that some of the people notified may be transients and have left the area, while others are known to have gone to private physicians for follow-through. The second X-rays may be taken at any retake center in the participating counties.

Other areas where the survey is essentially completed showed these results: Yamhill county, 18,029 X-rayed, 610 recalled and 581 prepared for retakes; Polk, 11,974 X-rayed, 484 called and 425 taken.

The survey is under way now in Clackamas and Linn counties.

Lebanon Area Slayer Uses Victim's Gun

LEBANON, Sept. 4.—A murderer who used his victim's own shotgun was being sought today for the mountain home death of Herbert Ingram, 74.

The elderly bachelor was found dead near the door of the house where he was born about 10 miles southeast of Lebanon by two Sweet Home brothers, Ted and Ray Hall.

Police investigating the crime said Ingram's wallet, believed to have contained a considerable sum of money, was missing.

Reconstruction of the crime indicated that the slayer shot Ingram from a distance of about two feet. Wadding and eight shot were removed from the victim's head. The death weapon has not been recovered.

The Hall brothers found Ingram about 7:30 a.m. still seated in a chair in the doorway of the 100-year-old two-story house on the Ingram homestead. They were returning to their logging operations on Ingram's property after the Labor day holiday.

Police said neighbors who brought him groceries about 3 p.m. Monday were apparently the last persons to see Ingram before he was slain.

The body has been taken to the Houston funeral home in Lebanon.

Hasn't Missed a Fair in 84 Years W. H. Humphreys, now living in Portland, has not missed an Oregon state fair in 84 years. He first attended the state fair at the age of six years while living with his parents, W. J. and Penelope Humphreys in the Waldo Hills district of Marion county. Humphreys was born July 8, 1867. Upon returning to the fair Labor Day, he spent the forenoon viewing the exhibits and the afternoon at the horse races. He recalled that 80 years ago he had a horse, Nipper, entered in the state fair races.

Nation Sets Record High Holiday Toll By The Associated Press At least 656 violent deaths—a record high for the holiday—marked the nation's Labor day celebration.

A final tabulation Tuesday showed that violent death struck somewhere every seven minutes during the 78-hour holiday period.

A Labor day record high of 461 were killed in traffic mishaps and Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, blamed a small proportion of "crazy fools" among the nation's motorists for the grim toll.
