Northwest Faces 'Brownout'

Residential 'Speedways' Arouse Council

By Robert E. Gangware City Editor, The Statesman

An angered city council Monday night told its city administration to take immediate steps to prevent Salem residential streets from becoming speedways.

Several aldermen declared the only solution lies in stricter enforcement of traffic laws than recent reports indicated to them, and every indication was given of an impending police crackdown on traffic violators. Specifically, the city manager was instructed by Mayor Alfred Loucks to outline in detail the aldermen's sentiments to Police Chief Clyde A.-Warren, who was not present at the meeting. "And there is no doubt in my mind as to what the chief will do," asserted the mayor within minutes of City Manager Franzen's statement that "we'd have to clamp down hard, and if you like, we'll do it." Action Deferred

With traffic and parking problems, plus three public hearings, adding up to a four-hour council meeting at city hall last night, the aldermen deferred their final action on Hollywood off-street parking, a new sidewalk ordinance and a measure to license fund raising

Two citizens' complaints led to the speeding clampdown talk last night. Fred Williams told aldermen that "hotrods" were making 24th street a speedway between State and Center streets. Charles Jens, with a similar cry of speeding, said "the kids just don't have a chance on Thompson avenue between Center and D streets."

Other speeding complaints were brought by eorge Emigh and Mrs. W. C. Dyer, ir., regarding Chemeketa street at the intersections of 12th and 13th. The council ordered resolutions prepared to place stop signs to halt traffic entering Chemeketa from both numbered streets, and Alderman Daniel J. Try suggested that the traffic safety commission draft an ar-terial street plan with just such intersections in mind. (Additional details on page 2.)
