Hop Broker Suit Settled

PORTLAND, Dec. 3—(AP)—The department of agriculture today reported an out-of-court settlement for $10,000 of its civil damage suit against Robert M. Bishop, Salem hop broker.

W. J. Broadhead said the matter had been negotiated between Bishop's attorney and the U.S. attorney here.

Broadhead, marketing representative for the department of agriculture here, said the government would drop the suit it filed in October, 1950, seeking treble damages from Bishop on the ground he bought nearly 20,000 pounds of surplus hops in California without marketing certificates.

Light as the twinkle of a star

If one could catch the twinkle of a star and put it in a glass—what a wonderful beverage it would be! But, of course, that is beyond the skill of our worldly master brewers—they must work with earthly things like hops, and grains and water. But they can dream and they can strive. And, in striving, our own Olympia master brewers created a beer that has won fame for its lightness, its delicacy, yes, even the "twinkle" of its flavor. The secret—the brewer's skill and, of course, our famous water.

Visitors are always welcome at
