

Wind Damage Heavy in Lebanon Vicinity

LEBANON, Dec. 5—A wind-felled tree made this startling picture on Lebanon's North Main street, just north of the high school, in Tuesday's big windstorm.

LEBANON, Dec. 5—Among extensive airport damage during the big blow here Tuesday were three battered light planes including the Piper family cruiser above. Its small hangar was blown from the ground and scattered.

Sheriff Young to Head Sessions At Convention

Marion County Sheriff Denver Young will preside at the sessions of the Oregon State Sheriff's association which will hold a two-day convention opening today in Portland.

Young is president of the organization. Norman E. Fields of Sherman county is vice president.

Highlight of the meet will be the Friday joint gathering of the sheriffs and the Oregon association of district attorneys, which will also be meeting in Portland. Gov. Douglas McKay and Virgil O'Malley, warden of the state prison, will speak, Young said.

Law enforcement officers from the Portland police and the federal bureau of investigation will speak to the sheriffs in other sessions.

The Department of Foreign Affairs was created by Act of Congress, July 27, 1789. The name was changed to Department of State, Sept. 15, 1789.

Lebanon Wind Damage Total Climbs High

By Mervin Jenkins

LEBANON, Dec. 5—Thousands of dollars worth of damage was being surveyed here today in the wake of a heavy windstorm which played havoc with roofs, wires, trees, signs and planes.

The storm hit hardest in late afternoon Tuesday, interrupting electric power, telephones and water supply. Roof damage was heavy at Lebanon hospital, Queen Anne and Santiam grade schools, several business buildings and homes.

Extra firemen were on duty, but no complications developed from the lack of water here from 4:30 to 8 p.m. The firemen got a workout, however, in covering gaps left in the hospital roof.

Wind toppled a huge transformer at the north edge of the city, and a blackout resulted until 7:30 p.m. Some parts of Lebanon had no electric service until morning.

Two private individual-plane hangars were lifted into the air and smashed at Cascade Airways, and three light planes were damaged extensively in the blow—Kelyn Harris' Stinson, J. N. MacDonald's Piper family cruiser and an Aeronca which had been moored to the ground outside the hangars.

At the hospital, many patients had to be moved and some were sent home last night.

Christmas decorations on downtown streets took a beating. Lighted outdoor Christmas trees at the state highway and high school buildings went down with lights burning. Growing trees, some as

Group Seeks Support for Bonus Repeal

Business and home-owning veterans and other property owners were urged to form local groups and work for repeal of the World War II veterans bonus at the 1952 general election, in a statement received by state officials here Wednesday from the so-called "No property tax bonus committee of Benton county."

Preliminary petition for a measure seeking repeal of the veterans bonus recently was filed in the state elections bureau here.

The committee's statement was signed by Howard L. Ball, Elmer Winniford, David R. Barclay and W. R. Giesy, all residents of Corvallis with the exception of Giesy who lives at Monroe. Giesy was among the signers of the original petition to repeal the bonus.

The committee charged that the bonus is wrong because it is primarily a debt on property owners while it should be paid by everyone.

"This bonus, if permitted to be paid in its present form, would be a 20-year ball and chain on a lot of young families who are attempting to establish homes and businesses," the committee statement read. "It should be paid on a broad base and not just by property owners." Since when was World War II just a property owner's war? the committee asked.

He Isn't Missing At Grid Games

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—L. H. Bengston, a staunch Oklahoma A&M alumnus, has been faithfully attending Aggie home football games this year. And his companions have been A. O. Martin and Thurman Gay, heads of the Aggies' Former Students Association.

Recently he received a copy of the alumni newspaper listing him as among those whose whereabouts is unknown.
