PARIS (AP)—Britain's Selwyn Lloyd Tuesday welcomed the revised Soviet atomic control plan as worthy of full study. He denied charge by the Soviet bloc that the West plans to bury the plan in the United Nations' new Disarmament Commission.

90 mph Chase On Icy Road Ends in Jail

THE DALLES (AP)—A 90-mile-a-hour chase on icy roads along the Columbia River ended Tuesday in jail for three teenage boys.

State Policeman Al Grabhorn said the three fled in their car when he started to question them at Biggs Junction, 20 miles east of here. He gave chase, but couldn't head them off because of the danger from ice.

Storm Halts Attempt to Aid Sick Woman

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (AP)—Efforts to parachute medical aid to a sick woman at a snowbound gold mine in the Sawtooth Mountains north of here were halted Tuesday by a storm which dumped a foot of snow on Mountain Home Air Force Base.

The storm grounded an Air Force C-42 which was scheduled to fly over the mine near Rocky Bar where Mrs. Gene Jack was reported ill. Ground parties which tried unsuccessfully to buck deep drifts in a weasel Monday also were held at the base.

Mrs. Jack's husband snowshoed out from the mine near Rocky Bar about 65 miles north of Mountain Home last week, notified mine owners that his wife was ill, and returned without giving any details.

Sgt. Sullivan Leaves Army Reserve Staff

A change in the instructor staff of the Army Reserves in Salem will take place with the departure of Sgt. Russell R. Sullivan.

He will be replaced by SFC Herschel L. Sangster, who has been assistant instructor for the headquarters of the 104th Division at Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

Explosion Gives School Holiday

LYONS — The teachers and pupils of Mari-Lynn school got an unexpected vacation Tuesday when the school's oil furnace exploded shortly after school convened.

Cause of the explosion was not known. The pumice stone wall in the halls, rest-room, kitchen and outside walls of the furnace room were cracked. No one was hurt.

Idaho Special Session Gets New Truck Bill

BOISE (AP)—A bill to empower the governor to enter into reciprocity agreements with other states on truck licensing was introduced in the House on the first day of a special legislative session.

Gov. Len Jordan asked for such power when he addressed a joint session Tuesday but warned there can be no reciprocity for trucks who pay the ten-mile tax.

He stressed he wanted no "hampering" with the 1951 licensing law, which passed the Legislature by a three to one margin.

A major test vote is scheduled Wednesday morning in the House on a motion to suspend the rules for consideration of the reciprocity bill.

Jordan declared that reciprocity is impossible for trucks which pay the ten-mile tax — those over 26,000 pounds gross weight — and said the problem facing the legislature is what to do about those between 5,000 and 26,000 pounds.

These comprise about half of the state's trucks. The lack of reciprocity agreements, he said, interferes with the conduct of normal business and farm operations in many bordering areas of the state.

He said it would be "physically impossible" to enforce the law as now written with Idaho's present staff of state police, and wanted to avoid "needless policing and bickering at our borders."

A permanent solution, he said, lies in a uniform licensing and tax code among the 11 western states, and promised to seek such a study when the governors meet again.

Salem Family Near-Victims of Asphyxiation

A Salem family was recovering Tuesday after a narrow escape from asphyxiation by carbon monoxide gas in their home Monday night.

The incident brought a warning from their physician on the danger of closing fireproof dampers at night when any fire remains.

The physician was called about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday when Mrs. Fred Zuck collapsed and had convulsions at her home on East Avenue. Mr. Zuck later became unconscious too, and their eight-month-old baby became somewhat sick. A 4-year-old child was not affected.

Investigation by the doctor showed that the family had gone to bed about 11 Monday night, leaving some burning fuel in the fireplace and the damper closed.

About two hours later, the baby fussed and Mrs. Zuck gave it a bottle before she became sick.

The doctor said the couple and other affected members of the family "perked up" when taken into fresh air. The Zucks were "doing all right" Tuesday at Salem General Hospital.

Warning that monoxide gas is odorless, hence gives no warning, the physician pointed out that it is especially bad in tightly sealed houses.

Boggs, Spaht Race Ahead in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—U.S. Rep. Hal Boggs and Carlos Spaht, rivals backed by politically split members of the powerful Long family, raced ahead in early returns from Tuesday's democratic primary for governor.

In unofficial returns from 430 of the state's 2,112 precincts — and chiefly from cities using fast-count vote machines — Boggs' total reached 56,111. This was 8,657 more than Spaht's 47,454.

Boggs, who stumped for "Louisiana First, Politics Second" and stressed his eight years' experience as a congressman, has the support of U. S. Sen. Russell Long. Spaht, a former state district judge of Baton Rouge, is a political newcomer strongly backed by Gov. Earl Long as the administration candidate.

Bennett Asks Portland Vote On Tavern Ban

PORTLAND (AP)—City Commissioner J. E. Bennett proposed an initiative petition Tuesday to ban night clubs and taverns from Portland.

He asked the city attorney to draw up a petition limiting alcoholic beverages to package sales. An attorney for the State Liquor Commission, George Woodworth, said Bennett's proposal would be illegal, conflicting with the state liquor law.

Gene Tierney Seeks Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Gene Tierney of the movies Tuesday filed suit for divorce against Dress Designer Oleg Cassini after 10 years of marriage.

Promoted

Linn C. Smith was elected vice president of Ladd and Bush Branch of the U.S. National Bank by stockholders and directors Tuesday. He has been assistant vice president.

New assistant cashier of Ladd and Bush Branch of the U.S. National Bank is Laurence R. Fisher, assistant manager of the bank since 1945. He was named to the position in Portland Tuesday.

Smith Active in Salem Banking, Civic Affairs

Linn C. Smith, new vice president of Ladd and Bush — Salem Branch of the U. S. National Bank, has been active in the Salem banking and civic affairs for many years.

Smith has served as president and secretary of the Marion-Polk Counties Bankers Association and is a former member of the public education committee of the Oregon State Bankers Association.

He is a member of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, Salem Kiwanis Club, and Pacific Lodge 50, AF & AM. He has served as treasurer and director of both the Salem Community Chest and the Marion county chapter of the Red Cross.

Laurence R. Fisher, newly-named assistant cashier, has been assistant manager since 1945. He was with the old U. S. National, joining the staff in 1922. Fisher has been treasurer of the Marion County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

C. H. Neuman, and W. E. Ritchie, newly-appointed assistant managers, both joined the bank staff after it became part of the U. S. National Bank system. Neuman came in 1933, and Ritchie in 1936.

UMT Presented To Congress As 'Economy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Universal Military Training was presented to Congress Tuesday as a money saver.

Former Sen. James W. Wade, worth chairman of the National Security Training Commission, recently prepared a UMT plan in which the lawmakers' direction made the economy argument in asking the House Armed Services Committee to act quickly on the proposal.

He said the Commission believes that "by a reduction in the armed forces and a reduction in the rate of the draft and by building up of UMT we would save billions of dollars."

The ultimate aim is to replace the draft Wadsworth said and the program could not run for more than two or three years concurrently with Selective Service call for men for actual armed service.

His point was that by that time UMT would have soaked up the manpower available for the draft, and armed service needs would have to be met by calling UMT-trained youths from the reserve to active duty.

PORTLAND (AP)—Walter W. R. May, editor and co-publisher of the Oregon City Enterprise-Courier, will be principal speaker at the printing week banquet here Thursday. The banquet is sponsored by the Oregon printing industry and the Portland Club of Printing House Craftsmen.

HOUSE VOTES PAY BOOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House approved a 10 per cent cost-of-living raise for the armed forces Tuesday voting to boost military payrolls about $32 million dollars a year. The vote was 269 to 89.

New Zone for Old Poor Farm Tract Favored

Apartment zoning for the old Poor Farm property and annexation of 24 lots of Stortz Addition to Salem were recommended Tuesday by Salem Planning and Zoning Commission.

Both recommendations go to the City Council.

The zone change from class I to II residential was requested by William J. Wiens for the purpose of creating apartments in the former Poor Farm building on property along the east side of North River road north of the Tryon Avenue intersection.

The annexation being petitioned by property owners affects the area north of Carleton Way and east of the Pacific Highway in North Salem.

Zoners found no objection to the proposed annexation, but considered the possibility of squaring city boundaries by adding to the proposed new area a part of Scott's Acres east of Abrams Avenue. This was not recommended to the Council, however, when annexation committee chairman John Caughy predicted that inclusion of the extra area, which is heavily populated, might result in a negative vote on the annexation.

A westside street between Fair Oaks Way and Long View Way, west of Cascade Drive, was named Moore's Way in another recommendation to the Council. The name would honor the late Carroll L. Moores who left a bequest now amounting to over $30,000 for a Salem pioneer memorial.

County zoning, particularly as applied to the fringe area around Salem, will be studied by a committee of the zoning group including County Engineer Hedda Swart, Zoning Chairman W. W. Rosebraugh and Mayor Alfred W. Loucks.

New Officers Of IOOF Junior Lodge Installed

New officers of the Marion Junior Lodge 18 of IOOF were installed Tuesday night, installing officer Ernest Finch, deputy district grand master from Chemeketa Lodge 1.

Chief Ruler is Lawrence Kimble. Other officers are Darrell Pepper, deputy ruler; Larry Martin, past chief ruler; Larry Kyle, recorder; Paul Wittenman, accountant; Charles King, treasurer; Donald Muehlaupt Jr., warden; James Searcy, conductor; Ronald Brown, chaplain; Everett Stewart, inner sentinel; and Jack Kinney Jr., outer sentinel.

Assistants to Finch at the installation were George Naderman, grand senior warden of the Grand Encampment of Oregon IOOF; Marion Curry, past noble grand master; William Drakely Sr., Wilford Beard, district deputy grand patriarch of Willamette Encampment 2; Harold Bressler; and Peter Voth, past noble grand master.

Below Normal Temperatures On Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau Tuesday issued the following 30-day forecast:

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period mid-January to mid-February calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals west of the Continental Divide and in the Northern Plains, but above normal elsewhere. The most unseasonably warm weather is expected in a broad belt from the Ohio Valley southwestward to Texas, while coldest departures from normal are indicated in the Pacific Northwest.

"Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the Central and Northern Plains, Great Lakes region and Pacific Coast states, but subnormal amounts are indicated in the South. Elsewhere near normal amounts are in prospect.

Workers Stuck With Molasses

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP)—Employees of the Idaho Egg Producers Association are going to stick around.

Here's why: The association's cattle feed mixing plant was heating 50,000 gallons of molasses Monday night. The Vat boiled over. Now the floor is covered by six inches of molasses.

Mopping up began Tuesday. But there's still another sticky problem. The molasses is six feet deep in the elevator shaft.

Capt. Carlsen Claims Jinx, Plane Delayed

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland (AP)—Failure of wing deicing equipment on the plane that was to take him to New York delayed Capt. Kurt Carlsen for at least 11 hours here Wednesday—and he wondered aloud whether a hoodoo is dogging his return home.

Repairmen said he might not be able to take off until after noon and it appeared New York would have to postpone its ticker tape reception for the Flying Enterprise hero until Thursday.

"First my ship, Flying Enterprise, sinks," Carlsen told reporters at the airport. "Then the airliner develops trouble. I'm beginning to wonder if I'll ever get back to New York and home."

Chinese Deny Plans to Boost Air Strength

MUNSAI, Korea (AP)—The Communists Wednesday said their truce supervision proposal banned any increase in military air strength but the Allies held out for a specific promise against rebuilding airfields in North Korea.

Chinese Red Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang asked in the talks at Panmunjom why the Allies argued that the Communists intended to increase their air power in Korea.

He said the Red proposal of Jan. 9 specifically barred the introduction into Korea of combat aircraft during a truce.

Maj. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh replied that there could be no guarantee against an increase in Red air strength without a specific ban on the rebuilding of military airfields in North Korea.

An Allied spokesman told correspondents later: "To the best of my knowledge this is the first time we have ever gotten an answer like this, for whatever it is worth."

Bandon Residents Hauling Rock to Bolster Bulkhead

BANDON (AP)—Bandon residents are hauling in rock to strengthen a surf-threatened bulkhead at the foot of First Street here.

The bulkhead began crumbling recently under the action of river and ocean water. One family in the Coast Guard colony was forced to evacuate.

Baby Sitter Delays Judge

SEATTLE (AP)—For want of a nail, the shoe was lost, etc., the old jingle goes, and for want of a baby sitter, a Superior Court lost 20 minutes Tuesday.

Judge Frank D. James, 12 jurors, a deputy prosecutor, defense counsel and witnesses waited patiently that length of time until Milford J. McClincy arrived to stand trial.

His wife then explained that she and her husband had been delayed while they combed the neighborhood looking for a baby sitter for their four small children.

McClincy, 27, of Renton, was tried for negligent homicide for the automobile accident death of his friend and passenger, Russell J. Daniels, 37, Renton, last fall. A jury acquitted him after a day-long trial.

Silver Creek Conservation District Elects

SILVERTON HILLS — Two new members were elected to the board of supervisors of the Silverton Creek Soil Conservation District which meet here Tuesday night.

The two new members, Adam Hersh of Salem, and Louis Pflaum of Silverton, increase the old five-man board to seven, under provisions of a new state law. This is the first district to take advantage of the law; Herbert Barnes of Silverton was re-elected to the board.

More than 200 were present for the dinner meeting. Victor Hadley presided at the business session, and Leonard Hudson was master of ceremonies at the dinner meeting. Speaker of the evening was Ollie Fink of the Friends of the Land.

The board will elect its officers at a meeting Feb. 12.

JETS BATTLE IN KOREA

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force said swept-wing F-86 Sabre jets tangled twice with Communist MIG-15s Wednesday and damaged one Red plane each time. Reports of Allied losses, if any, are released each week-end.

Sale of Timber In Woodburn Park Opposed

WOODBURN — Volunteer fireman appeared before the Woodburn City Council Tuesday night to oppose sale of timber in the Legion Park tract unless sale is approved by an impartial forester.

Spokesman for the group told the Council that the trees should not be sold unless a forester says they are "ripe" and must go before rotting sets in. The firemen suggested that funds derived from the sale be used to light the American Legion ball park and to reforest the area.

The Council tabled the matter pending a report from the park and recreation department.

In another matter concerning parks, the Council authorized $2,000 of the $5,000 park and recreation budget funds be spent for maintenance.

Taken under advisement was a proposal to place electric stop signals at Lincoln Street and Highway 99-E, which will cost $4,500 according to estimates submitted by the State Highway Department. The city and the State would split the cost.

A suggestion was presented by William Merriott, local manager of Portland General Electric, that Woodburn use the $1,000 annual franchise payment of PGE to install new-style street lights. No action was taken.

The Council approved a policy of opening its meetings with a prayer by a minister or a priest. It also gave PGE permission to ground neutral conductors on the city's power mains.

A study of congested traffic on Lincoln Street will be made to the Council at its Feb. 5 meeting.

Orkney Islands Caught in Grip Of Hurricane

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands (AP)—Hurricane winds blitzed these bleak, rocky islands off the coast of Scotland for three hours Tuesday.

Scarcely a building escaped damage as gusts raged up to 130 miles an hour.

So far no deaths have been listed in meager reports.

Just to the north, gales swept across the Shetland Islands. They were strong enough to blow down children and even adults at the height of the storm.

Kirkwall — tiny capital of the Orkneys with a population of 6,000 — was paralyzed. The streets were littered with debris. All electric lines to the mainland were down.

Hearty islanders who are used to storms — most of them fishermen and farmers — described the winds as the worst in their memory.

2 San Quentin Cons to Face Murder Count

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Details of an elaborate escape plot — which ended in the violent deaths of two guards — were revealed Tuesday by Warden Harley O. Teets.

Two other guards were injured critically and one convict was hospitalized after the abortive break.

District Attorney Richard M. Sims said he would ask the grand jury to vote murder indictments against two convicts accused of killing the guards.

Victims of the assault were Guards Charles D. Wiget, 31, Petaluma, and Vern A. Mackin, 38, San Rafael.

The convicts charged with the murderous break attempt Monday night were James Alonzo Rogers, 22, San Francisco, and Eugene Burwell, 24, Los Angeles.

Burwell was in the prison hospital with a serious stab wound. Also hospitalized, with fractured skulls, were Guards Virgil E. Stewart, 43, Woodacre, and Ralph E. Dascombe, 36, of San Rafael.

Willamette to Begin Pastors' Seminar

Willamette University, a Methodist institution, will begin its first seminar for ministers beginning next Monday.

It is designed for ministers who now have parishes, and will last seven weeks. It will be conducted by the university's department of religion.

Love Begets 7½-Hour Chat In Phone Booth

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An unidentified Eagle Rock High School girl apparently got her nickel's worth of conversation in a telephone booth Tuesday.

She got change for a dime at Ed Nixon's Key Shop in Highland Park at 8 a. m. At 3:30 p. m. she hung up. By that time the word had gotten around about her long-winded conversation.

"Why, she had talked all morning," Nixon told newsmen. "About noon, she unwrapped her lunch and ate it, still talking. I gave her a stool to sit on. She was very grateful."

People were staring at her during the afternoon but she went blithely on. She would talk for several minutes, listen for an instant, then carry on some more. When she hung up and came out, mopping her brow, she explained she had skipped her classes to make the call to her boy friend.

She declined to identify herself or the boy, explaining: "If my parents find out about this, I'll be in the dog house, but good!"

"What were you talking about, all the time?" she was asked. "We're very much in love," she replied disdainfully.

Round-Up to Skip Afternoon Show

PENDLETON (AP)—The Pendleton Round-Up this year will skip the Wednesday afternoon show, replacing it with a Friday night show. The dates will be Sept. 11, 12 and 13.

The dates and end of the opening afternoon show were announced Tuesday by the board of directors.
