

Mahoney Says Delay Due on Ike Decision

State Sen. Thomas R. Mahoney, Portland, following a conference with Assistant Secretary of State William Healy here Tuesday, said it probably would be several days before Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry rules whether he will permit the name of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower on the Democratic Presidential ballot at the Oregon primary election.

Mahoney emphasized that Newberry has not yet received an opinion from the attorney general whether Eisenhower's name can appear on both the Republican and Democratic ballots. "I am certain Newberry will not arrive at any decision until he receives this opinion," Mahoney said.

Petitions containing 1,100 signatures placing the name of Gen. Eisenhower on the Democratic Presidential ballot were filed by Mahoney several weeks ago. "The Secretary of State accepted these petitions," Mahoney said, "and so far as I can determine, he has not said they would be rejected."

At the time Mahoney filed the petitions Eisenhower had not disclosed whether he was a Republican or Democrat. He more recently said he is a Republican.

Petitions placing Eisenhower's name on the Republican Presidential ballot were expected to be filed within three or four weeks by the "Oregon Eisenhower for President" committee.

Most state officials here hold that the Oregon law is plain that any candidate for President must be filed under his political party affiliation.

Post-High School Planning Forum Slated Tonight

Four educators and an employment official will take part in a forum on post-high school planning for youths and their parents at a Salem High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

For the session in the school library, Dr. Walter Snyder, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, will be moderator.

Speakers will be H. W. Sorick, state supervisor of secondary schools, on planning the future; W. H. Baillie, Salem manager of the State Employment Service, on opportunities in business and service fields; Oscar Paulson, state director of vocational education, on preparation for admission to the trades; Travis Cross, information director for the State System of Higher Education, on choosing a college.

Americans have tripled their use of turkeys since 1930, says the National Geographic Society.

Mama of Quads Remembered

MURFREESBORO, Ark. — Mrs. Haggis Ponder, 58, happy mother of quadruplets, displays some of the letters and money which have been pouring into her Murfreesboro, Ark., home from all over the country. "Tell everybody I'll try and acknowledge each letter personally as soon as I'm able," she said. Stamps Honor Betsy Ross, 4-H

Two new commemorative postage stamps are on sale at Salem Postoffice.

The three-cent issues honor Betsy Ross, maker of the first U. S. flag, and the 4-H youth movement.

The Betsy Ross issue, on the 200th anniversary, is red and reproduces the C. H. Weigber painting of the flag's origin.

The 4-H stamp, in green, carries the picture of a group of farm buildings and the four-leaf clover symbol of the organization.

State Board Plans Teacher-Training Program Survey

PORTLAND (AP)—The State Board of Higher Education ordered Tuesday a new survey of the Oregon teacher-training program.

The board authorized use of $10,000 with an out-of-state expert to conduct the survey for a special advisory committee.

The survey is expected to be completed this year so that the 1953 legislature can act on any recommendations. It will cover both elementary and secondary teacher training with some attention given to the role played by non-state colleges.

The Young Men's Christian Association has been plant engineer at Hillcrest School. His place will be taken by his assistant, H. G. Johnson, a 20-year Navy veteran.

Bar Association To Recommend New City Judge

Marion County Bar Association is expected to recommend this week a successor to Peery T. Buren as Salem municipal judge.

Buren has announced his intention of resigning the elective post to accept a position with the State Corporation Commission.

On the schedule for the attorneys' regular meeting Thursday is a vote on recommendations as to Buren's successor. The bar association also will elect officers at the luncheon meeting in the Senator Hotel.

Navy Recalls Lester Burton

A crewman of the carrier Hornet which launched the first air attack on Tokyo during World War II has been recalled to active service. He reports Feb. 4 for reassignment.

He is Lester L. Burton of 328 Judson St., chief boiler technician, a veteran of 22 years in the U. S. Navy. He was aboard the Hornet when the Doolittle expedition took off for the April, 1942 bombing of Tokyo. He was still on duty on the Hornet when it was sunk in October, 1943, and was in the water 45 minutes before he was rescued.

Burton has been plant engineer at Hillcrest School. His place will be taken by his assistant, H. G. Johnson, a 20-year Navy veteran.

Water Heater Makes Use of Basement Heat

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—New magic in household heating was reported to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers' annual meeting Monday.

The latest uses the air in a basement room to heat your hot water. And as a bonus it gives you cooling and dried air for this same basement room—or some other room in summer if you choose.

This new robot uses less electricity—the only expense except installation—than a standard electric hot water heater.

The report was made by M. S. Oldacre of the Utilities Research Commission, Chicago, Ill. The first heater was tried in the home of one of the commission employees in Chicago.

The air in the room is blown by a fan into a refrigerating system, using refrigerating fluids the same as most household refrigerators. The heat is extracted from this air, and then passes in a coil up through a water tank about five feet high.

The cold air that remains is blown back into the room, where it both dries and cools. In this home the basement room became a quick-drying room for the laundry.

The heat of this basement room was around 85 degrees year round, from the furnace in winter and from the outdoor heat in summer. It was also humid in summer.

The water in the heater was kept at about 145 degrees. There was no noticeable increase in expense of heating the house in winter due to robbing the basement air.

The magic in this trick is the fact that, although the air is only at 85 degrees, if you concentrate the amount of heat in a few cubic feet of air down to a few cubic inches it is a lot hotter.

This same principle both heats entire homes in winter and cools and air-conditions them in summer using the air from pipes laid deep under your yard.

A photo of Oregon's husband-wife team of legislators, taken by Statesman Photographer Don Dill, appears in the forthcoming February issue of Ladies Home Journal.

Richard and Maureen Neuberger of Portland are featured, among others, in the national magazine's series entitled "Political Pilgrims Progress." The article says the Neuberger couple are possibly the only husband-wife team in any state legislature.

Aumsville 4-H Youth Reports by Letter on Trip to New Zealand

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman
AUMSVILLE—People are, after all, very much alike the world over. This was one of the discoveries made by Glen Klein, former 4-H member from Aumsville, who is Oregon's first International Farm Youth Exchange Delegate.

Glen went to New Zealand in August and will be at his home again in early spring.

A letter "base the Gang," which was addressed to J. Allen, state 4-H Club leader, and other leaders here in the valley, written by Glen, reports that "I have found that the New Zealand people are very much like the people at home. They live somewhat differently than we do, but are much like us in their humor, their food, and so on."

He goes on to tell that the Young Farmers Club in New Zealand covers an age group of 14 to 30 and is "entirely for boys." Its program is almost all educational with not much competition or fair to work with. The American youth refers to it as "all dry lecture type education."

However, a lot of New Zealand youths are interested, Glen reports, "because of the close association with people of their own age group" and he adds that "it would be very nice if we had a special program at home that would cover the 20 and 30 age group better than our adult program does."

He goes on to say that about half of his time is being spent visiting with Young Farmers and seeing their farms. He has also visited a number of the better farms in each district.

"I have been averaging about one meeting every two nights and that doesn't count the nights they want to show me a good time. My latest record is nine days with no sleep before 12 o'clock midnight and sometimes later," he writes, as he adds that it is a "great trip though, and I don't mind missing a little sleep."

Glen writes, too, that the New Zealand grassland and pasture program is ahead of that here in the Willamette Valley, "especially in the number of farmers who are using fertilizers." He explains that 95 per cent of the New Zealand farmers are using some form of commercial fertilizer.

The International Farm Youth Exchange program is being sponsored by the National 4-H organizations. Large national donations finance part of the project. The 4-H Clubs in each state raise the rest of the money needed. At present all but about $600 is furnished by the national project for each representative sent.

This past summer and fall Ita Posh, Netherlands, and Fred Warren, Switzerland, have been on Oregon farms learning of the methods used here as well as telling Oregon about the people of their homelands.

Induction of 18 More Men in County Ordered

Call for induction of 18 more Marion County men in February was received Tuesday as 17 youths left Salem for the armed forces.

Mrs. Edna Wilhelm, clerk of the County Selective Service Board, said notices went out yesterday to the 12 men to report Feb. 12 and to the six to report Feb. 13. Most of the group are 4-Fs re-examined in December or 3As (married men without children) reclassified recently. They are in their early or middle 20s in age.

The 16 inductees slated to leave Tuesday were joined at the last minute by Darrell Ulrich of Salem, who was included on orders transferring him from Kansas to Salem for induction.

County Growth Not All Due To Immigration

Do you want more than a Chamber of Commerce reason for Marion County's growth in population?

The health department has a second explanation in its comparison of birth and death rates of today and 25 years ago.

In 1929 the county had 15.6 new babies per 1,000 population, just edging out the 15 deaths per 1,000. In 1951 the rate was 25.6 births and only 7.9 deaths per 1,000 residents.

With the county's population doubled during the period, the difference in birth and death rates means just that much faster growth.
