

Curry Powder Gives Exciting Taste To Sauces; Once Considered Odd

By MAXINE BUREN
Statesman Woman's Editor

We used to think that curry powder was only for that combination of lamb or chicken in a sort of yellow gravy, served over rice, whose ancestors in some remote century came from India.

But lately we have found that this condiment lends itself to other uses.

Curry, or currie, it seems is not a single condiment but a balanced mixture of spices, usually containing coriander, turmeric, cloves, cassia buds, black pepper, red pepper, garlic, cumin seed, fennel seed (which we can't find in any dictionary or garden book) and ginger.

The curry sometimes contains as many as 16 varieties, proportions varying according to the manufacturer. It is one of the world's oldest seasonings coming from the Orient.

GOES WITH FISH

It goes well with fish, meat and poultry, and adds interest to eggs. French dressing gains a certain style from curry, and a dash added to stews or soups gives a good tang. Vegetable croquettes will gain personality if a little curry is added for zest.

The French use curry in soups, and in my book on French Cookery, we find this interesting soup:

POTAGE SINGHALESE

2 tablespoons butter
1 finely chopped onion
1 small apple
2 teaspoons curry powder
4 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup fresh pea puree
1/2 Melt butter in pan, add onion and sliced apple and cook slowly until soft, without browning. Add curry powder and cook another 5 or 6 minutes. Stir in flour and puree carefully, add salt, chili pepper and cayenne pepper. Stir in the stock until smooth, cook over fire slowly until it comes to a boil. Rub through fine strainer. Add cream and chicken meat and heat just below boiling point, or if to be served cold (and that's the usual way for this particular soup), add cream and chicken when well chilled. Serve in bowls surrounded by crushed ice.

Fanny Merritt Farmer adds a bit of curry powder to her cream of corn soup and makes a sauce from the following recipe to pour over hard cooked eggs.

Mix 1 teaspoon curry powder and 1/4 teaspoon grated ginger with the flour when you make a white sauce that takes 1 cup milk. Add 1/4 teaspoon of curry powder and a few drops of onion juice to your next French dressing recipe for serving on cooked vegetables for salad.

Potatoes take kindly to our feature condiment in this recipe:

1/4 cup butter
1 small onion, chopped
3 cups boiled potato cubes
1/2 cup stock (chicken)
1/2 cup stock (chicken)
1/2 cup stock (chicken)
1/2 cup stock (chicken)
1/2 cup stock (chicken)

Cook onion in butter until yellow. Add potatoes and cook until butter is absorbed. Add stock and seasonings. Cook until potatoes have absorbed stock. Serves 6.

We located a recipe for haddock that takes curry flavor, and which we give now, with the suggestion that it might do for other flakey white fish too.

2 1-pound packages frozen haddock fillets
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup diced celery
1 medium onion, sliced
1/2 cup diced green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
1/2 cup milk

Let fillets thaw until they can be separated. Cut into serving size portions. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Add celery, onion and green pepper and cook over low heat until tender (about 5 minutes). Add salt, pepper and curry powder. Add milk and heat. Place fillets in greased baking dish. Pour milk mixture over fish. Bake at 350° (moderate oven) 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Ceramics Shown At Meeting

Mrs. Axel Jacobsen was hostess to the West Salem Lions Auxiliary Monday night and for the program she demonstrated the various stages of making ceramics and had on display a number of pieces she had finished. Mrs. Paul Parker was a guest. A dessert supper was served and Mrs. Clyde Everett presided at the business session. Mrs. Junior Eckley reported on the Salem Women's Council and Mrs. Elmer Nofziger, state auxiliary treasurer, announced there would be a state convention committee meeting on Jan. 30 at 1:30 at the home of Mrs. James Tindall. Plans were made for a covered dish dinner to be held Feb. 18 with the husbands as guests at the home of Mrs. Earl Burk. A benefit card party will be held in February and the committee includes Mrs. C. A. Rust, Mrs. Robert Covert and Mrs. Marvin Miller.

Hall Showing at Campus Gallery

A new showing by Carl Hall, artist-in-residence at Willamette University, is now on display in the campus art building and open to the public from 9 to 4 o'clock each week day. Works of the Oregon artist will be on exhibit for two weeks.

Shown for the first time are six water colors, two oils and nine drawings.

Featured in Hall's works is a set of six ink drawings of sunflowers, which have been utilized to take on a symbolical quality. The sunflower drawings depict Patriarch, Hierarchy, Gossp, Passage and Fallen One.

One of the oil paintings, Empathy, portrays a boy submerging himself in the transitional quality of rocks and water. The painting shows the breadth and depth of water.

Covenant, the second oil on display, employs a plow seat, symbolizing man, blended into the landscape over which the sun weaves its pattern of light and shade—a covenant between man and earth.

This is Hall's second showing at the University art gallery since September.

A native of Washington, D.C., Hall studied at Meislinger Art School, Detroit. He was com. at artist with the 383rd Infantry in the Pacific.

His paintings of recent date have been displayed at Whitney Museum of Art and Julien Levy gallery, both in New York. In 1949 he was given a $1,000 prize as one of 15 artists, composers and writers awarded non-member grants by the National Institute of Arts and Letters.
