"If I'm any judge of the New Hampshire people as I look across the river, Kefauver would have won there by a wide margin," Aiken said.

At the same time the Vermont Republican told a reporter "there is no question in my mind" that Is no question in my mind that Truman can get the nomination if he wants it "because he controls the party machinery." Aikea, who frequently is critical of his own party leaders, said also that "Truman is likely to be reelected if the Republicans run the kind of a campaign they ran in 1948." He added the President "has not lost all his political astuteness." Truman told his news conference on Thursday his name would be withdrawn from the March 11 New Hampshire primary. It was entered without his consent. The President said primaries are eyewash and he could have the nomination if he decides he wants it, without entering any of them.

Elsewhere on the political front, Republican politicians will join in a Lincoln Day rally here Monday night.

None of the GOP presidential candidates will attend but Republicans in Congress will make brief speeches during a program which stresses entertainment.

Paris Fashions Still Cling to Low Neckline

PARIS (AP)-The first major fashion news of the new season was made Sunday by Jacques Fath, in a collection full of swallow tailed coats and necklines scooped about as low as the law allows.

Fath's 1952 line is a circle or low-curving martingale belts, decolletage.

A trademark of the collection was corselet-waisted skirts and calls them "jumbo" belts, perhaps throughout India. because they grip the wearer as tightly as a wrestling hold. Other characteristic trends: Cardboard-stiff white collars and cuffs; gros-grain ribbon slotted through the collar, tied in a flat bow at the neck and falling into streamers to the hem; waistlength or bolero-length jackets sometimes with front points buttoned onto pockets; bib fronts spilling overblown roses to emphasize the bust; weskit sleeves; slim dresses with unbelted backs.

Hemlines remain about 14 inches from the floor. But Fath makes most evening dresses dance-length, about 10 inches from the floor, or short enough to reveal a pretty ankle.

Grey crowds the collection, and looks like a certain winner for the most popular daytime color.

Fath's pet hat shapes are a sort of sawed-off stovepipe or flower pot model.
