Where fight interest blooms, there can be heard the scattered comment that after the Matthews-Lane scrap at Portland next Monday night Jack Hurley, the Matthews generalissimo, may be begging for crumbs instead of demanding whipped-cream cake... Indicating, of course, that some are of the opinion the Seattle Kid will get in the way of one and finish flat on his backside... Personally, we stick to the Kid to win, BUT he'd better not get careless and provide as prime a target as he did for that Charley Eagle righthander in their bout of a few weeks ago. If that had been Layne's bombastic gotten up... Are the Red Sox missing Ted Williams since his departure to the Marines? Yep, but oddly enough, it's not at the plate that Terrible Ted is being missed but rather in the field. Since Ted has never been rated any great shucks as a defensive performer that ranks as man-bites-dog stuff. Evidently the fill-in leftfielders on the Sox roster are something that only a mother could love...

Jap Mat Stars Handed Upset Loss; Yamato in Near Riot

A flying dropkick by Jack (Tiger) Kiser, one of the most spectacular ever seen in mat warfare, last night amounted to the big weapon as the Kiser-Frank Stojack tandem upset Jap judo stars Masa Kimura and Shibu Yamouchi in Matchmaker Elton Owen's action loaded main event at the army.

The teams tossed a coin to see which style of wrestling was to be used in the first fall. Judo with jackets or the American catch-as-catch-can. The Japs won in 5 minutes, 15 seconds when Kimura used a legal judo choke hold on Kiser. Jack had made a good mix of it beforehand, but both he and Stojack looked to be in the wrong league in the jackets against the illustrious wearers of Japan's famous "Black Belt" title. But it was altogether different in the second fall, catch-as-catch-can. Kiser roared out of his corner at the bell and caught the unsuspecting Yamouchi with a terrific two-footed kick to the chest, flattening the Jap. The pin was easy, and since it occurred in seven seconds, fall No. 3 was to be catch-as-catch-can style.

Stojack took over in this one after some fast action, got his giant airplane spin on the 215-pound Yamouchi and finished up what had been a pleasing and applause-filled main event.

The other Jap on the program, hissing, bowing, Taji Yamato of Singapore, almost turned the premises into bedlam in his special mix with Frenchy Roy. He had been downed in the first fall by Roy's corker toe hold. In the No. 2 fall he insisted upon choking the battered Roy in half-a-dozen various ways. Finally when he lit into Referee Harry Elliott and flattened him also, it took City Gendarme Tiny Odle, Matchmaker Owen sent a squad of Legionnaires to keep angered fans from swarming into the ring. Roy was declared winner via foul, and the Jap wailing proved to be a smart one by lasting almost five minutes in the ring before leaving. He was letting the angry fans cool down.

It was easy to see how he has been causing so many mat riots in the Northwest lately. In last night's opener Bill Melby

Opener With Vancouver Caps Set Tonight; McNulty Hurls

A steady rain around the eight o'clock period last night put the "no game" sign up at Waters Field, washing out the scheduled Western International League baseball opener between the Salem Senators and the Vancouver Capilanos. Both teams had completed pre-game warm-ups when Jupe Pluvius took over, making his first kayo of the local season.

With better weather the forecast for today and tonight, the clubs aim to get started with the series at 8:15 o'clock. Rawbone Ray McNulty will be on the firing line for the Senators, and Paul Jones, a Negro righthander will do the Hinging for Manager Schuster's Caps.

A single game Thursday night will complete the series. The rainout of last night will be made up the next time the Caps come to Salem, the latter part of June. Only about 250 fans were in the stands when General Manager Hugh Luby called off proceedings last night.

The rainout wasn't the only news of the evening. Luby announced that he was going to Forest Grove today to talk with Harvey Storey, the longtime Coast League slugger who recently said he was quitting baseball. "Yes, I'm going to try to get Storey to play for us," said the Senators boss.

Harvey Wouldn't Report Storey was sent to the Little Rock club of the Southern Association by San Diego early this month, but refused to report. He went to his Forest Grove home instead. Luby hopes to be able to talk both Storey and San Diego into putting the hard-hitting veteran into work with the Senators.

Storey made mention of the other day that he would like to play for the Senators, "if the salary was right." Luby aims to obtain full details during his trip today. The outfielder-third baseman hit 17 home runs for San Diego last season, mostly as a pinch-hitter. He has long been considered one of the best hitters in the Coast League and played a number of seasons for the Portland Beavers.

Vancouver will toss a veteran lineup at the Senators tonight. Johnny Ritchey as catcher, Jim Vert as first baseman, Len Tran as second baseman, Ray Tran or Jessie Williams as shortstop, Bud Isham as third baseman and Bob Duretto, Gordy Brunswick and Edo Vanni as outfielders are the Caps regulars.

Saturday night of this week, when Yakima is here, will be "Family Night." Grandstand admissions will be $1 for men, 60c for women, 50c for high school students and "free" for kids 14 and under. If the kids are with their parents they can sit in the grandstand. If not, they'll be admitted free to the third base bleachers.

June 1 Shrine Benefit Golf Meet to be Big One

With over $2,000 worth of prizes already lined up, and over 400 masher wavers from all over Oregon set to play, the Second Annual Salem Shrine Club sponsored golf tournament for the benefit of the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children looks as one of the biggest links outings in the city's history. The meet is slated for Sunday, June 1, and golfers from all parts of the state will swing in it.

Two hundred played in last year's tourney and a net of $404 was realized for the hospital. Bill Johnson of Corvallis won the title with a sub-par 70 for the 18 holes of play, Skip Nagler of Eugene was second with a 71 and Jack Russell of Salem was third with a par 72.

All are to be back again, along with such other outstanding linksmen as Dick Yost of Portland, Bob Atkinson and Sid Milligan of Eugene, Bill Wittenberg of Salem, Ken Wilson of Albany, Jack Brande of Lebanon and many others.

Flights are to be arranged for all species of golfers. The championship flight will be for those with handicaps of 0-5. Other flights will be made for those with handicaps of 6-12, 13-20 and 21-27. Entry fee is $4, which includes greens fee, etc., and the right to play in the team event, a new addition this year. Four-man teams will be playing for a $250.00 perpetual trophy right along with their respective efforts in the tourney, and some 16 teams from all over Oregon have already signified their entrance.

Upwards of 60 prizes, including everything from a 12-cylinder Lincoln Zephyr auto to a ladies' formal dress, are included in the pile of swag to be won. Tourney Chairman Earl Bourland and his active committee are rounding up the prizes. First prize will be a $135 wrist watch and a 30-inch trophy worth over $100. Prizes for the best dressed golfers can be won also.

Simmons Gets 2-Hitter, Red Sox, Browns Lose

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cleveland Indians apparently have decided that the shortest way to the American League pennant is to beat the favorites, and accordingly whipped the New York Yankees for the fourth straight time Tuesday night, 10-8. It was the opener of a three-game series between the two teams that were selected to fight it out for the flag. Earlier in the season, the Indians took three in a row from the Yanks in the Yankee Stadium.

Steve Gromek, who hung one of the stadium losses on the New Yorkers, was the winner, although he required help in the seventh from Lou Brislee, who, in turn was relieved by Early Wynn in the eighth. At that point in the proceedings, the Indians' lead was shaved to 7-8, after they had built up a 7-0 margin in the fourth.

Curt Simmons, the returned Army sergeant of the Philadelphia Phillies turned in a slick job by downing the Chicago Cubs with only two hits, while the Phils were grabbing a 6-0 decision. Simmons struck out 12 batters in scoring his second triumph in three starts. The New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers continued to run one-two in the National League race with victories. The Giants held onto their one-game margin over the Brooks by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4, while the Dodgers battered the St. Louis Cardinals in an afternoon game, 14-8.

Bickford Beats Bucs
In the other National League encounter, Vern Bickford tossed his first win of the year by handcuffing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1, for the Boston Braves.

The amazing Washington Senators kept two games behind the Indians by thrashing the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, behind the four-hit pitching of Conrado Marrero. It was the ninth victory in the last 10 games for the Senators. The Boston Red Sox, the early-season surprises, dropped their fifth successive game. This was to the Chicago White Sox, and to make it even worse, they were whitewashed by Billy Pierce, 5-0. The Red Sox now are three games off the pace. Minnie Monsoo drove four runs across the plate, two of them with a 415-foot homer.

Bobby Shantz gave up only one hit after the third inning as his Philadelphia A's whipped the St. Louis Browns, 5-1.

OCCE Netters Lose

MONMOUTH (Special)—Linfield's Wildcats Tuesday edged out a 4-3 decision over OCCE's tennis squad. The top singles match saw Dick Grundhauser of Linfield beat the Wolves' Vern Buhler 6-1, 6-3.
