Settlement of Disputes Boosts Jobs in Oregon

Settlement of most labor disputes and a steadily maintained pickup in seasonal activities have brought about employment recovery throughout the state this month but the job total continued slightly below last year's high, the State Employment Compensation Commission has reported.

In mid-May 439,700 persons were in non-agricultural activities as against 455,700 in the month before and 456,600 in May, 1951. While June reports are not expected to reach last year's 468,000, the return of about 16,000 workers involved in labor-management differences and new calls for farm, food processing and other seasonal help probably will restore 1952 totals close to earlier trends.

Insured unemployment dropped steadily to the lowest figures of the year. Only 5034 continued claims were reported for the week ended June 19, compared with 3588 a year ago and 7586 two years ago. Transitional initial claims being taken at local employment offices for the 1952-53 benefit year, starting June 30, were coming in at about the same volume as in 1951. The number of those seeking jobs was slightly higher than last year, but was declining steadily from the 17,078 reported on June 1.

Metals, machinery and ship repairing continued to account for most of Oregon's employment gains, while lumber, construction, transportation and food processing were lagging behind former marks. Primary and fabricating metal plants reported 9100 jobs in May, a gain from March of 600 and 800 more than a year before. Ship repairing was furnishing work to about 1500 more persons than in 1951, while a few other industries also were bettering former records.

The number of lumber jobs last month dropped 11,600 from the 81,800 reported in April and was nearly 17,000 behind last year's total of 87,100. Return of most workers to mills and woods is expected to bring up June figures close to the 88,600 counted a year ago, officials said.

Construction at 26,800 was 1500 below May, 1951, totals, while food processing at 15,100 lagged 800 behind the comparable number. Seasonal pickups this month may remove some of this lag, it was indicated.

County Demo Board Retains Robert Shutler

Robert Shutler, Salem, was re-elected Saturday as chairman of the Marion County Democratic central committee at a meeting of committee men and women in Mayflower Hall. Shutler had been named to fill the unexpired term of Luis Martinez-Lally a year ago.

Elections of officers and naming of committees were principal business of the meeting as the Democrats decided to sidestep an opportunity to nominate fourth candidate for state representative for Marion County, Cornellius Bateson, A. M. Vistka and W. W. Chadwick, a Republican, were nominated at the primary election in May.

Elected to serve with Shutler during the next two years was Mrs. Mildred Bateson Pratum, vice chairman; Mrs. Dale Brewster, Salem, secretary, and P. W. Hale, Salem, treasurer.

Roy Hewitt and Mrs. Vada Walker, both of Salem, were elected congressional committeemen and woman. Earl Reynolds, David Neal, Donald Peterson, David Bloom and Alvin Whitlaw were chosen district nominating committeemen. Peterson, Mill City publisher, was named alternate to the chairman, and Mrs. Lena Hewitt, alternate to the vice chairman. Kenneth W. Bayne, onetime county chairman, and Mrs. Irma Lindquist were named congressional committee alternates.

Hewitt, delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, beginning July 21, gave a report on the meeting of Oregon's delegation held in Portland Saturday morning at which Terry Schruink, Multnomah County sheriff, was chosen chairman. Delegates had been divided 6-6 before State Treasurer Walter Pearson withdrew in favor of Schruink.
