Pay Appeal Fails; Council Passes Proposed Budget

By ROBERT E. GANGWARE
City Editor, The Statesman

A last-minute bid for higher pay for city employees failed Thursday night as the City Council passed into law the $3,182,300 budget as recommended by the budget committee.

The pay raise was advocated at the Council's public hearing last night by Herbert E. Barker, executive of Salem Trades and Labor Council who represented employees of the police, fire and water departments.

Barker reiterated the employees' earlier written request for more pay, which was rejected by the budget committee except in two particulars—higher pay for meter readers and a differential for swing and graveyard shift workers in the police department.

Barker last night urged the Council to grant at least enough pay raise to meet the higher cost of living—which he estimated at 4.7 per cent on the basis of Wage Stabilization Board figures. The request was turned down, with Alderman Daniel J. Fry, budget chairman, declaring that the pay raise had received every consideration from the budget committee.

Fry said "we used every possible source of revenue we had and came out with only a minimum figure for an emergency fund; the only things we added to the budget had to use funds subtracted from somewhere else in the budget."

The original pay raise request was $40 monthly for firemen and police. The water employees wanted the same pay as at present but a reduced work week, from 42 or 44 hours down to 40 hours.

Three other employees' requests in connection with the pay plan will be studied soon by the City Council in regular session, said Mayor Alfred W. Loucks. These are for accumulated time credit for holiday work, accumulated sick leave and three weeks' vacation for employees with more than 15 years' service.

Cecil Fletcher Indicted in Morals Case

Cecil Fletcher, Salem Route 3, Box 317, was indicted by the Marion County grand jury Thursday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Fletcher was arrested several weeks ago on the charge, which allegedly concerns a 10-year old girl.

In other action Thursday the grand jury indicted Louis Tindall, now in Salem city jail, on a non-support charge.

Grand jurors also issued one secret indictment during their brief one-day session, according to District Attorney, E. O. Stadler Jr.

The largest living kangaroos are about 8 feet tall and have heads about the size of a sheep.
