Senator Borah was an isolationist, to be sure, one of the "irreconcilables," the "little group of willful men" as described by Presiden Wilson in the battle over the League of Nations. But a lot of history has been made since 1920, and a lot of blood has been shed; and the urgency for setting up some means of saving world peace is so great that the United States can well afford to join in United Nations and UNESCO and other international agencies which are at best only a start on the road to assured peace. Idaho voters surely are not so benighted as to think the United States can go it alone in these perlious times.

Dr. Wood should be asked how he squares his position with the Republican platform of 1952 which has this plank:

"We shall support the United Nations and loyally help it to become what it was designed to be, come what it was designed to be, a place where differences would be harmonized by honest discussion as a means for collective security under agreed concepts of fustice."

Truce Hopes Raised

TOKYO (A)- The Communists, on Allied demand, pin-pointed Friday the location of three new prisoner of war camps on which they previously had volunteered no information,

The action came a day after North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung in a speech at Pyongyang, the Red capital, had voiced hopes for an armistice.

It was too early to say whether this meant a change of attitude when the armistice negotiators return to the tent city of Panmunjom next Tuesday after a week's Kim Il Sung in his speech still harped on the compulsory return of all prisoners-the last roading broadcasts still talked tough and Moscow was pledging strong support to North Korea.

The information on the new prison camps, however, definitely removed one point of friction. Maj. Gen. William Harrison, chief Allied negotiator, first asked for the data on Aug. 8. The Communists ignored the request and Harrison renewed it Wednesday, sharply demanding the information "without further delay." Send Maps of Camps itical The Communists through liaison ment. officers sent maps showing the location of the three camps and the boundaries of two more camps which had been expanded. • One of them, a new camp, No.

And the general and the governor may meet head-on, via television, in a modern version of the famed Lincoln-Douglas debates of nearly a century ago.

Campaign plans began to crystallize Friday with announcements from Democratic and Republican headquarters indicating the two protagonists will hit the trail with a vengeance following the formal Labor Day kickoff on Sept. 1.

Plans Two Trips In Springfield, Ill., Gov Stevenson chartered a cross-country stumping tour spotlighting New York and California as two of the key states the Democrats will make an all-out fight to capture in the November election.

Stevenson's headquarters said the 52-year-old governor, who has already cut quite a splash as a phrase-maker, will make two oratorical excursions into Callifornia -in September and again in October. In addition, Stevenson will speak in New York City in mid-October and campaign through the Empire State in quest of New York's 47 electoral votes.
