On Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When is it proper to begin calling new acquaintances by their given names?
A. The formality of calling persons by their surnames is becoming increasingly obsolete. People call each other by their given names much earlier in acquaintanceship than formerly. One must, however, sense the proper moment to drop formalities. If everyone else in the circle in which you move uses first names, you are at liberty to follow the custom.
Q. What is the proper way to eat spaghetti at the table?
A. With the fork. Twist the spaghetti against the plate to wind it about the fork. If you cannot manage this gracefully—and many cannot—cut it with the fork.
Q. What is the correct tip for an airline stewardess?
A. Please do not offer any tip to the stewardess, the airlines having rules against this.
