On Etiquette By ROBERTA LEE

Q. My daughter is going on a visit to a distant city in which lives an old friend of mine who is an unmarried man. In what manner should I ask this friend to call on my daughter?

A. The most usual way is by a personal letter, recalling the friendship, and saying that it would give you pleasure to have your old friend make the acquaintance of your young daughter.

Q. Should a secretary rise when an employer introduces her to a business visitor?

A. It is not necessary for her to rise. However, if the secretary is a man, he does rise.

Q. When a toast is proposed to a person, should this person rise and drink from his glass, too?

A. No; he remains seated and does not drink the toast.

Heltzel said neither the West Coast Company nor the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company opposed establishment of the extended area service.
