Trio Relate Experience At GOP Meet

Statesman News Service

SILVERTON — The Silverton Jaycees sponsored a "town hall" type of meeting here Tuesday night, centering around the Republican national convention.

Panel participants included Edwin H. Armstrong, administrative assistant to Governor McKay, State Rep. Mark Hatfield, and Travis Cross, director of information for the state board of higher education. All three attended the convention, Hatfield as a delegate.

Armstrong described pre-primary organization work for General Dwight D. Eisenhower, gave highlights of the convention, and contrasted Oregon politics with machine operations in midwestern and eastern industrial centers.

Hatfield detailed convention strategy, behind-scene happenings, the role of the delegates, the writing of the platform, and a characterization of Taft and Eisenhower forces.

Cross outlined the influence of television, the color of the demonstrations, newspaper and radio coverage, the extent of advertising, and gave a series of "mosts and leasts" about the convention.

In the question period, all three speakers warned against the influx in Oregon of rigid control of public officials and patronage by an inner circle—the method by which they said politics are operated in metropolitan areas. The panel was moderated by R. D. Hartley, Silverton.

Volunteers Needed To Man Skywatch

Statesman News Service

MT. ANGEL—An urgent call for volunteers from among the Legionnaires for the Saturday morning "Skywatch" in Silverton was issued Tuesday night by Commander Gene Hoffer of the Mt. Angel Legion post. The Legion and Auxiliary and three other organizations have pledged to take care of the watch from 4 a.m. to 8 a.m. every Saturday morning, and Commander Hoffer has been hard put to keep the post's promise.

The following standing committees were appointed: Sick committee, Ina Herriford, chairman, Joe Faulhaber and Walter Ebner; ways and means, Pete Gores, chairman, Fred Lucht, Clem Hauth and Clarence Ebner.

Farewell Held for Father John Walsh
