On Etiquette

Q. If a bride's father is not living, would it be all right for her mother to perform the rite of "giving her away"?

A. Yes. Usually, when this is done, a brother, uncle or close male friend of the family escorts the bride down the aisle and the mother stands and speaks from her pew when the clergyman asks, "Who gives this woman in marriage to this man . . ."

Q. Is it necessary for a person to apologize for the crunching noise that results when eating hard toast, celery, or something of that nature?

A. Not when it is unavoidable. A little practice, however, will enable one to avoid much of this noise.

Q. Should a woman who is walking with a man on the street, carry her packages?

A. Yes, if the packages are of considerable size. Otherwise, it is not expected.

PI Phi Alumnae Dinner
