Nervousness Said Linked to Childishness

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you nervous?

Most people probably think they are, says Dr. G. Margery Allen of New York.

Some even pride themselves on being high-strung, sort of superior, like race horses over work horses.

But actually nervousness or neuroticism or the high-strung feeling really comes from acting pretty much like a baby, she writes. You can do better, she says in a report to the New York County Medical Society.

"Every relatively normal person is nervous," and Americans are perhaps more nervous than other people, always being in a hurry, on their toes, keyed-up. Ambitious, tense.

By a nervous person, we mean "an ambitious tense person in a hurry to get what he wants. Or an ambitious tense person, in a rage because he didn't get what he wants. Or an ambitious, tense person afraid to move in a hurry or in anger, a person who stands pat, complaining that he can't get what he wants."

We consider people normal if they act so they conceivably could get what they want, Dr. Allen says. But if they use methods that are pretty useless, they're not well adjusted, and are ineffectual or "nervous."

Nervousness is not caused by any underlying disease of the nerves or brain, she says.

Fear or Anger
Nervousness is based mainly on attitudes of fear or anger, toward people, our jobs, our houses or towns, or even against ourselves.

These attitudes usually date back to childhood.

A baby, she explains, has only one way of getting what he wants — by crying. He soon learns that crying worked well in getting attention. Later the baby may have to develop better ways of putting things over on his parents.

The baby may try holding his breath, kicking, banging his head on the floor. Or try to control his parents through weakness, such as not eating, refusing to sleep alone, lisping, or other tactics.

"It's normal for an intelligent child to use childish means of getting what he wants," Dr. Allen continues.

Awfully Big World
He grows up in a world that looks awfully big and forbidding. He's told constantly about the dangers in the world—warned not to catch cold, not to get hit by an auto, not to get sick.

If the world looks too tough, he loses hope of controlling the world and getting what he wants. He keeps using childish methods.

If he hears his parents say that he has a terrible temper like his father, or that he is delicate and nervous, he accepts the words as gospel, and becomes all the more set in his ways and attitudes.

He may keep on doing it as an adult. Then he becomes the kind of person who is unhappy, discontented, often a poor eater, a poor sleeper, never feeling vital, usually vaguely uneasy about things in general, often feeling physically low with vague aches and pains.

He's grown up in every way except in feelings. He feels insecure, and uses childish reactions when he meets difficulties of adult life. "These people feel they can't function without special attention and the world gives special attention only to children, the sick, and the aged."

The nervous people are insisting that everyone else "stop what we are doing and reassure them. They are not happy in feeling this need, and their unhappiness permeates their lives and finally results in their being just as ineffectual as they feel."

The nervous person "feels and says that he cannot help his fears and phobias, his worries, his feelings of self-consciousness, self-pity or depression, or his feelings of being compelled to petty rituals."

The only answer, says Dr. Allen, is that he must grow up emotionally, and realize he has the ability to direct his own actions.

Emotional maturity is "an attitude to living, expressed by self-control, self-responsibility, self-discipline, and self-respect."

Burglars Rob High Schools

Burglars broke into St. Paul and Gates high schools over the week end, with between $250 and $300 reported taken from the Gates school.

Linn County sheriffs deputies said the money was taken from a metal cash box in the office of Gates High School. The burglars pried open the front door. Nothing else was disturbed, although a window was broken on one side of the building.

Nothing was reported missing from St. Paul High School, where intruders jimmied a gymnasium door, broke open three other doors and rifled desks after reaching the main office. Principal H. W. Bowers said there was little cash in the school safe.

The two burglaries marked the second series of school break-ins in the past two weeks. Early last week, several schools in the Albany area were vandalized considerably.

New Firm Aims To Facilitate Paying of Bills

Salem's newest business, called a Currency Exchange, will open Monday morning.

Designed to facilitate the paying of bills, the Exchange will be the first of its kind in Oregon and its operators said Saturday they already had promise of considerable patronage.

The Exchange, which is insured, accepts money for bills, utility and otherwise, and for a small fee per bill will make prompt payment so that its customers need make but one stop instead of calling at several places or mailing several checks.

Operators are three Salem and Dallas housewives. They are Mrs. Robert (Sarah) Painter, 815 S. 21st St. Salem; Mrs. Walter (Eva Mae) Bates, 3788 Harvey Ave., Salem, and Mrs. Charles (Bessie) Webb, 1712 Clay St., Dallas.

Taking as its slogan, "Save Money, Time, Worry," the Exchange is declared to be similar to a Chicago development which is grown to considerable proportion.

Offices are at 362 Stats St., and will be open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Payrolls Head For Record High in State

With payrolls already showing a gain over 1951, the State Unemployment Office estimated that a new quarterly payroll record may be set for July, August and September.

Estimates are made from payrolls covered by the State Unemployment law.

Completed tabulations for the first quarter of 1952 show a gain of $13,149,226 over the previous year. Second quarter totals were cut down materially because of labor disputes during May and early June and is expected to be but little ahead of 1951.

Employment in recent months, however, has forged far ahead of previous summers, the unemployment office reported, and this quarter's payrolls may go above the quarterly high of $323,437,369 established a year ago.

Payrolls during the first half of 1951 were from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 higher than the same period of the year before, although tax collections were down $1,000,000, according to estimates based on tabulations of about 18,000 employers reports for the past two quarters.

El Paso Times Backs Eisenhower

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The El Paso Times, traditionally a Democratic newspaper, editorially endorses Dwight D. Eisenhower for President in its Sunday edition. The Times which supported the late Franklin D. Roosevelt four times and President Truman in 1948, said it was convinced Eisenhower could do a better job of cleaning up the "mess in Washington" than Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Searchers Find No Trace of Missing Plane

There was still no trace of a missing light plane, carrying a Tacoma, Wash. auto dealer and his two young sons, as the gigantic air search returned Saturday to the Northern Willamette Valley area.

Thirteen Civil Aeronautics Patrol planes Saturday swept the area from Dallas to Mt. Jefferson, joining over 80 other planes covering an area stretching into Northern California.

The light plane, piloted by Morris W. Pitts, 32, and carrying his sons, Ronald, 13, and Reginald, 8, took off from Salem's McNary Field about 1 p.m. last Monday and has not been seen since.

For the first few days a search was conducted in this area. It has since spread south and eastward.

Lt. Wilber Garrett, commanding the local CAP group, said planes would take off at 9 a.m. today to cover the area from Dallas to the Coast and in the vicinity of Mt. Jefferson.

Failure to locate the missing plane by tonight, Garrett said, would probably mean the end of the search, at least in this area.

Associated Press reported that some 30 CAP planes, along with 25 planes from the State Board of Aeronautics, were combing the Eureka-Fortuna area in Northern California, where a plane similar to that flown by Pitts was reported seen late Monday.

The entire air search is being conducted under the United States Air Force air rescue service, with Capt. Ray Costello of McChord Air Force Base, Wash., commanding. He arrived in Salem Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Poling to Give Chest's Kick-Off Talk

Dr. Paul N. Poling, Salem minister, has been selected to give the key address at the kickoff breakfast Wednesday morning for the $126,000 Salem Community Chest Campaign scheduled for Sept. 17 through Oct. 8.

Campaign Chairman Fred B. McKinney announced that toastmaster for the 7:30 a.m. breakfast open to the public, is to be Joseph A. H. Dodd.

Claud A. Kells, executive secretary for the Marion County Community Chest explained Saturday that a new recognition is to be offered at the end of this year's campaign. The award is a special "thank you" scroll to be presented to those firms which show outstanding cooperation, generosity and community service during the Campaign.

Thirteen Civil Aeronautics Patrol planes Saturday swept the area from Dallas to Mt. Jefferson, joining over 80 other planes covering an area stretching into Northern California.
