Damage Suit Asks $76,000

More than $76,000 in damages for injuries allegedly resulting from a Salem train-truck collision is asked in a suit filed Thursday in Marion County Circuit Court.

Tom Morgan, Milwaukie truck driver, filed the claim against the Southern Pacific Co., and D. C. Nash, engineer of the train involved in the wreck with Morgan's truck at 12th and Marion Streets last May 29.

He alleged that the train was exceeding its speed limit and that no warning signal was provided nor warning given by the train. Morgan who was thrown from the truck, asked $75,000 general damages, $842.53 for medical expenses and $1,092 for lost wages.

His injuries allegedly included shock, head and arm lacerations and damage to an arm nerve.

Leaders Urge Chest Support

THOMAS RYKOWSKI

An enthusiastic merchant-leader among volunteers helping raise $126,000 for youth and character-building institutions supported by Salem Community Chest is Thomas Rykowski.

He is assistant manager of the J. C. Penney Co. where firm, management and employees raised well over 1 per cent of the Chest's goal last week at the outset of the campaign. Employee gifts averaged nearly 88.

Of his Chest work as one of the mercantile division chairmen, Rykowski says, "It's a real privilege to be able to give to the Chest and it's one of the finest things a person can do for his community. I for one am all for it."

Services for Mrs. Benight Set in Albany

ALBANY — Funeral services for Mrs. Blanche Benight, 42, former resident of Albany who died this week in Stanberry, Mo., will take place in Albany Monday, Sept. 29.

Mrs. Benight died after a lengthy illness at her home in Stanberry, Elders Emmett Sampson and Ennes Hawkins will officiate at the 2 p.m. funeral services at the Fisher Funeral Home. Interment will be at Riverside Cemetery.

The deceased was born Feb. 12, 1910 at Kearney, Neb. She grew up there and came to Oregon in 1934. For 12 years she taught in schools at Valselt, Price and at Weasel Flats near Lyons.

She was married July 9, 1938, at Harrisburg to Ray Benight, who survives. The couple moved in June 1950 to Missouri where Benight is editor of the Bible Advocate, weekly publication of the Church of God, and Mrs. Benight was ed-

Abandoned Property Sold For $1,400

Approximately $1,400 was realized Thursday from a state-sponsored sale of abandoned and unclaimed property, held on Marion County's temporary courthouse steps.

Highest single price was $180 paid for a diamond. E. T. Pierce, representative of the State Land Board office, said that of the approximately 300 items offered, nearly all were sold. About 150 persons attended the sale.

The property comes to the state from unclaimed estates and from unclaimed safety deposit boxes. Included in Thursday's sale were 132 watches, 30 clocks and a miscellaneous assortment of items including linen, jewelry and electric razors.

Parole Policy 80 Per Cent Successful

An 80 per cent success in granting of paroles over its 13-year record has been gained by the State Board of Parole and Probation, Salem Optimist Club learned Thursday.

G. Dudley Henderson, a district officer for the board, said the board must pick the men on its expectation that they will reach the end of the parole period all right. Actual experience shows that only two of ten return to prison in that time.

Much of the agency's work is in aiding the parolee's adjustment from confinement to freedom, in trying to develop responsibility on his part and in trying to show him why a crime should not occur rather than why it did, said Henderson.

The speaker lauded the program of probation, which gives the board most of its case load. This differs from parole in that probation is granted by the courts in lieu of a prison sentence—to spare the stigma of prison and to allow work within the community for a person's rehabilitation.

Henderson said modern reformation in crime calls not for length of sentence but for recognition of the facts of speedy arrests and prosecution. He urged that rehabilitation is much more possible through parole than through walls, bars and locks, which may result in "walled mind, barred heart and locked feelings."

Director of the Christian Youth Herald and Gospel Call.

Survivors, in addition to the widower, are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kauer of Ventura, Calif.; brothers, Elder Stanley Kauer of Owosso, Mich., Kenneth of Freeland, Mich., and Clarence of Ventura, and father-in-law, G. E. Benight of Albany.

Costumes, Pets, Bikes to Add to Kids Parade

All sizes of youngsters with all sorts of costumes, pets and vehicles are expected by Salem Kiwanis Club for its second annual Kids Day parade Saturday at 10 a.m.

Judging for the prizes, 10 for boys and 10 for girls in each division, will begin at 9 a.m. on East and West Summer Streets. From there the parade will go west on Court Street, south on High Street and back to Willson Park on State Street. Awards will be made at the close of the parade. All entries also will be given ice cream and soft drinks at the end.

The sponsoring Kiwanis announced that two other service clubs will aid with the project. Salem Cherrians will act as judges, and Lions Club members will place "scotch-lite" reflectors on all bicycles entered.

The competition will be for the most outstanding pet, best decorated bicycle and most unusual costume.

Funeral Services Saturday for H. E. Sunderland

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the Virgil T. Golden Chapel for Harry Eugene Sunderland, who died Thursday at the home of his brother, Eugene.

Sunderland, who had lived all his life in Illinois, had been ill for about a year. He had been in Salem since 1949, coming here from Chicago.

Surviving besides the brother, are a sister, Mrs. Minnie V. Ritchie of Salem, and several nieces and nephews.
