Ogdahl Gridmen Seek First Conference Win

FOREST GROVE — (Special) — Fans may be treated to a wide open Northwest Conference contest here Saturday night, 8 o'clock when Dr. Paul Stagg's highly re-spected Pacific Badgers seek their fourth straight loop win at the ex-pense of Ted Ogdahl's Willamette

Both clubs have able talent in both the passing and running de-partments—talent that is capable of exploding for touchdowns from any part of the field.

The Badgers will go into the fray as one and maybe two-touchreasons they'll be on the front end of the odds is Frankie Buckiewicz, fine, all-around Badger backfield performer. Buckiewicz is a tricky runner as well as an adept aerialist, being the spark in the three PU conference wins to date. Another Pacific threat is Gerald Millis, a dangerous break-away back, whom the Bearcats remember all too well. He's the lad who ran a kickoff back for a touchdown against the Methodists last season.

Helt, Lewis Threats As an answer to the Badgers, Ogdahl has Benny Holt, the soph from Hawaii, and little Chuck Lewis, one of the conference's foremost scatbacks. Holt, a key man in the Bearcat's first three games of the season, is considered one of the circuit's best passers. Lewis is a threat every time he gets his hands on the ball. Ogdahl has a couple of good freshmen ball carriers in Lou Lofland and Tex Kirkendall, from Portland's Roose-Ogdahl's starting offensive back-field will be made up of Holt at quarter, Lewis and Lofland at the halves and Kirkendall at fullback. The offensive line will include Elmer Haugen and Bob Platenburg, both able receivers, at the flanks; Bob Miller and Sam Haina at tackles; Rube Menashe and Bob Cody at guards and Ken Cooper in the center post.

Defense Array Listed
The probable 'Cat defensive alignment: Ends—Harv Koepf and Bob Dyer; Tackles—Dave Ander-son and Dorrance Noteboom; Guards-Hal Hargraves and Ted Brewer; Linebackers-Cliff York Wally Richartz; Halves-Mickey Coen and Bob Walker; Safety-Denny Elsasser.

Three Bearcats are on the doubtful list because of injuries. They are Lineman Norm Dvers-dahl and Backs Andy George and Dean Benson.

10-Club WI Likely

SEATTLE (P) - Western International Baseball League directors and club representatives agreed Friday that a 10-team circuit including new nines from Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, would be desirable. They said they would make a final decision on the matter by next Thursday.

An all-day meeting ended with an agreement to submit the matter to local boards of directors of the eight present WIL teams. Oct. 23 was set as a deadline for the decision by local boards. Robert B. Abel, president of the league, said the team representatives and directors discussed the matter at length with a delegation from the Canadian cities.

He said all WIL team representatives announced they would recommend approval of the step by their local directors.

Southern Cal Rated 2-Touchdown Choice

PORTLAND (A)—Oregon State figures to come close again Saturday, but the general sentiment is they'll lose by two touchdowns to Southern California.

The Oregon State Beavers had their moment of glory two weeks ago in losing to Michigan State only in the closing seconds. They came on late in the game to avert a humiliating score while losing last week to Stanford.

They aren't expected to do other than look very good in losing to Southern Cal in their game in Multnomah Stadium.

The Trojans arrived here, undefeated in four games, in what appeared to be excellent condition for the 1:30 kickoff.

Beaver followers naturally are hopeful that Kip Taylor's men from Corvallis can repeat the high performance turned in against the Michigan Staters. There's also hope that a Portland jinx on the Trojans will continue. Southern California has not won a Portland viotory over either Oregon State or Oregon in the past ten years.
