Bidding Pushes Price Up at Timber Auction

Spirited bidding on Douglas fir in a Linn County tract pushed the price from $22.95 to $36.50 per thousand board feet Monday in a U. S. Bureau of Land Management auction.

The sale, conducted here by Salem District Forester G. F. Horne, went to Linn Plywood Co. of Albany. It bought 7,975,000 board feet of timber for $267,102 compared to the appraisal of $171,033.

The buyer and two other firms entered 37 separate bids for the staggered setting (leaving blocks of timber for natural reseeded) on Whitcomb Creek.

Sealed bids also opened Monday in the office showed Wimer Logging Co., of Albany highest of three firms for a 185,000-board feet salvage tract on Crabtree Creek in Linn County. Appraised at $1,850, the timber was bought for $2,786.

Man Sentenced To Jail, Haircut; Sentence Delayed

Unless Portland city jail has a barber available, a man sentenced Monday in Marion County District Court may have to wait to obey court orders—to get a haircut.

The prisoner will have to wait also for the probation that was granted him.

Svend Toycon, 667 N. Front St., was found guilty by District Judge Val D. Sloper on a charge of assault and battery, involving an attack on another Salem man Sept. 30. He was given a 60-day suspended jail sentence and placed on six-month probation, on condition he obey all laws and get a haircut within three days.

Judge Sloper called Toycon's "hairdo" an extreme example of an "attempt to look tough."

However, Portland city police have placed a detainer on Toycon, to face a charge of larceny, which will precede the probation.

Northeast U.S. Given Preview Of Winter Chill

By The Associated Press Swirling snow and cold winds gave much of the North a preview of winter Monday.

Neither the snow nor the low temperatures amounted to much as such things will go when the winter really starts two months hence. But, coming in October, they broke records for the day or month in some places.

Three inches of snow went down in Chicago's weather history as the heaviest this early in the season and the most that ever fell in October.

There were snow showers in Northern Michigan, along the southern shores of Lakes Michigan and Erie, and in New York, New Jersey and New England.

Up to two inches of snow pelted Western New York and the Adirondack and Catskill Mountains. New Jersey had its earliest measurable snow, a bit less than a half inch.

A cold front moved southward over the Eastern half of the U.S. Temperatures dropped as it advanced. The mercury shrank to 30.6 in metropolitan New York—an all-time low record for Oct. 20.

The 13 degrees registered at Rochester, Minn., was the lowest ever recorded there this early in the cool season. But Grantsburg, Wis., had a goose-pimply 7 above.

Other lows Monday morning included: Detroit 26, Bismarck, N. D., 23, La Crosse, Wis., 19.

Weather Slows Aerial Search

KLAMATH FALLS (AP) — Poor flying weather interfered Monday with a search for a private airplane from Yakima, missing with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Logan aboard.

The plane was en route to Medford when it disappeared Saturday. It last was reported at Redmond, where it took on oil.

Clouds delayed the take-off of searching planes until mid-day. A B-17 from McChord Field is participating in the search.

Logan, a 34-year-old service station operator, was piloting the silver Cessna with yellow wings. His wife, Pat, 19, was with him.

Civil Defense Emergency Signs Ready

Some 200 signs to designate emergency routes to be used in the event of a large-scale disaster were delivered to Marion County Civil Defense officials Monday.

Prepared by the state defense organization, the cardboard signs will not be erected until the need arises, it was pointed out by Wallace Wharton, Marion County director.

Maps and instructions for their placing go with the signs, according to Oscar Cutler of Salem, of the state engineering and heavy rescue service. Noting that this was part of a comprehensive plan to control traffic during an emergency, Cutler declared hundreds of lives might depend on the ability to keep roads open.

The signs will go on such routes as Highway 99E-12th Street, a military road, and outbound route (from Portland) running principally through Newberg-St. Paul-Salem, and an inbound route through Stayton-Silverton-Molalla, both with branches. These will be restricted to emergency vehicles, with placards to identify those not readily recognizable as such.

This is intended mainly to keep our roads channeling aid toward a stricken city. Evacuation would be handled on secondary road if required.

Supreme Court Justice Traces Law in Speech

A king and a president were rebuked Monday by Justice George Rossman of the Oregon Supreme Court in a Constitution Day speech to the Salem Chamber of Commerce meeting at the Senator Hotel.

The king was James I and the president was Harry S. Truman. In reviewing the history of the constitution Justice Rossman said that the king had tried to override his judges and courts and gave himself the power of jurisdiction.

Justice Rossman compared this with President Truman's attempt to "rule the roost" in the steel strike. Both lost their case, and the independence of the judiciary was maintained, the speaker said.

Reviewing the history of the U. S. constitution, Justice Rossman said "the law sprang from the people themselves, from natural law."

Tracing the history through the Magna Carta and the Petition of Rights, the justice said, "our constitution came out of sacrifice, keeping it is part of our heritage, it is now in our hand—let us preserve it."

Salem Police Exam Nov. 12

City civil service examination for positions as Salem police department patrolmen will be held at 9 a.m. Nov. 12, the commission announced Monday.

Application blanks may be secured from the office of the city recorder and are due in that office by 5 p.m. Nov. 6.

Applicants must be between 25 and 35 years of age, residents of Salem for a year immediately prior to the examination and registered voters. Salary for beginning patrolman starts at $286 a month on a 44-hour week.

There are two vacancies in the department now.

YMCA Starts Swim Contest

Hoping to beat last year's 12th place, the Salem YMCA began participation Monday in the international "Down the Mississippi" swim contest.

The competition among some 80 YMCAs around the world has been cut this year from two weeks to six days, closing Saturday.

Gains are registered by the percentage of participation among YM physical department users and by the number of pool lengths they swim. Director in Salem is Ted Melvenna, YM swimming instructor.

ATOM PLANT EXPANSION

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — The Henry J. Kaiser Company said today its phase of the vast expansion program at the Hanford Atomic Works will total about 110 million dollars, with another 28 million to be spent on related facilities.

Bid Opening Today On Traffic Lights

Bids will be opened today in Portland by the State Highway Commission for several Salem traffic signal light installations. Installation of automatic signals at the 12th Street junction on the Pacific Highway south of Salem, will be one project. The other is the installation of automatic signals at High and Chemeketa Streets, on Ferry at both Liberty and Commercial Streets, on South Commercial at Vista and Rural Avenues.
