

Italy, France Commiss Torn By Defections

PARIS (AP)—The powerful Communist Parties of France and Italy showed symptoms Friday of the same disease: inability to persuade all sections of the extreme left to follow dictates of the Kremlin to the letter.

In France, the Communist Party once again celebrated its birthday with a wide-open split, sparked by a group of its leaders who have demanded a break with Moscow and the Cominform.

Marty, 66, was removed a month ago from the Party Secretariat because of deviation from the line. At the same time, Charles Tillon, 55, who has headed the network of Communist underground fighters was removed from the Politburo.

Observers here say the errors of Marty and Tillon lie in their renewed with a wide-open split, sparked by a group of its leaders who have demanded a break with Moscow and the Cominform.

This would mean establishing alliances with Socialists. Defection in the French party ranks is most serious for Moscow, which regards the party as the bellwether to lay down the line for the rest of the European Communists. But the defection in Italy of the pro-Communist Socialists is also likely to be a serious blow.

Italy's party, largest in Europe outside Russia, has enjoyed the support of Stalin. Pietro Nenni, winner of the 1947 election, was removed from the Party and joined with the Communists in a left-wing front to oppose the dominant Christian Democrats of Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

The Nenni Socialists have taken hasty disciplinary measures against the defecting leaders. Five of them have been expelled "for treason," and 48 others are threatened with expulsion.

The 50—most of their names have been kept secret—signed a demand two weeks ago that the party, holding a possible balance of power in Italian politics, break with the Cominform and denounce the 1947 pact.

None Hurt as Plane Breaks

PENDLETON (AP)—The pilot and five crew members escaped injury Friday when an Air Force C-47 cracked up a short time after leaving the Pendleton airport.

Capt. George Main, pilot, said the plane suffered major damage but apparently could be repaired. He said the accident had been caused by a partial power failure.

A team from Fairchild Air Force Base was to investigate. The plane from the Norton Air Force Base at San Bernardino, Calif., made only a brief stop at the Pendleton airport.

Snake Dam Near, Cordon Predicts

PENDLETON (AP)—"Ice Harbor Dam is right around the corner," Sen. Guy Cordon (R-Ore) said here Friday.

Cordon made this prediction in one of a series of campaign addresses for the Republican ticket. The senator told a luncheon meeting he had tried to expedite construction of the controversial dam on the lower Snake River.

Cordon also said he was proud of his influence in speeding up work on McNary Dam on the Columbia River.

U.N. Publicist Aided Commies, Did Not Join

NEW YORK (AP)—The publications chief of the United Nations finally admitted Friday that he served as a Red underground ring in 1936, but insisted he never joined the Communist Party.

David Zablodowsky, American-born U. N. publications director, first was branded a Red in 1945, but at the time he denied he ever was a Communist or "Communist link of any sort."

Thursday Whitaker Chambers fingered him as a prewar underground aide and 24 hours later Zablodowsky admitted as much to a Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, probing subversives in the U. N.

Eastland Asks Pardon
Shortly after Zablodowsky's admission, Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), acting chairman of the subcommittee, loosed a blast against the U. N. and demanded that the U. S. Congress cleanse it of American Reds.

Eastland said he was appalled at "extensive evidence indicating there is today in the United Nations among the American employees there the greatest concentration of Communists that this committee has ever encountered."

Of Trygve Lie, the U. N.'s general secretary, Eastland said: "I am disappointed at the position taken by Mr. Lie in the light of this record, to give these people leave with pay—in effect a paid vacation—while an international body determines the merits of this case."

"His action is beyond comprehension. Let me make this crystal clear. No international body will be permitted to deprive or circumvent the United States government in the control of its own citizens."

"I am confident the American congress will rectify it." Lie said he doesn't want U. N. employees who are disloyal to their countries. But he has added that he will not act against anyone "on mere suspicion or smear."

Georgia Hunts Kidnap Trio

ATLANTA (AP)—A hunter's report of being forced to drive three wild highway kidnapers to Atlanta Friday touched off a state wide search in Georgia.

The three men, who kidnaped and subsequently released 20 persons in a three-day swing through Georgia and Tennessee, are being sought by the FBI, the Georgia State Patrol and Atlanta police.

Tennessee patrolmen in Chattanooga said the trio's 20th victim told Friday afternoon of being forced to drive the men to Atlanta, where he left them about 7:30 a.m.

The Tennessee patrol said Herschel Meyers of White County, Tenn., latest of the kidnaping victims, was found near Ringgold, Ga., near the Tennessee state line.

He said he was driving home after being forced to drive the kidnapers from Spencer, Tenn., to Atlanta in a pickup truck earlier by the trio.

U.N. Aims Lauded on Seventh Birthday; Said Low-Cost Security at Salem Program

The United Nations' seven years of operation were lauded a success by State Rep. Mark O. Hatfield of Salem at a banquet Friday evening commemorating United Nations Day.

"Some say United Nations is costing too much," Hatfield told some 300 patrons at the banquet sponsored by the Salem Trades and Labor Council, "but actually it costs about $1 per person per year. This doesn't sound like very expensive collective security," he said.

Hatfield, introduced at the banquet by Dr. John A. Rademaker, professor of sociology at Willamette University, told his audience that the seven years of work by the United Nations has surpassed the 2,000 previous years of struggling.

Special guests at the banquet, held in conjunction with Willamette University's International Week End, were Gov. Douglas McKay, Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry and Salem City Manager J. L. Franzen.

A forum consisting of James T. Marr, executive secretary of the Oregon Federation of Labor, two foreign student representatives, and Willamette Senior John Ambler, concluded the banquet. Hatfield acted as moderator for the group which aired their views of the operation of United Nations with regards to their own countries and their own fields of endeavor.

Herbert Barker, executive secretary of the Labor Council, acted as master of ceremonies for the program at the Marion Hotel.

Road Revenue Figure False, Sills Claims

PORTLAND (AP)—Elery Sills, chairman of the Oregon Highway Council, said Friday that Oregon would not lose 17 million dollars in highway revenues if voters approve a ban on weight-mile truck fees at the Nov. 4 election.

Ben R. Chandler, chairman of the State Highway Commission, cited the 17 million figure earlier this week. He said the commission would lose that much in revenues if voters approve that constitutional amendment which is sponsored by the trucking industry.

In reply Sills said Friday: "We challenge the highway commission to produce even the slightest shred of proof that the ballot measure, if enacted, will produce a 17 million dollar loss or will prevent the State Legislature from raising any required amount from the trucking industry under the proposed method."

"The tax brought in not 17 million dollars last year but less than six million. Other receipts of the FUC were plate fees, penalties and the 7 million (a figure which the truckers dispute) annually received from the weight-mile tax. A commission attorney said the amendment would nullify existing plate fees."

Time Ahead of Time on Vote 'Results' With Error Cover

NEW YORK (AP)—Time Magazine blushed Friday and admitted it had ended the presidential campaign several days early.

Seems a fellow up in Toronto bought his copy of Time this week and got a bit of a start.

The issue, though dated Oct. 27, carried cover pictures of the Democratic nominees, Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman, under the words "election results."

"Obviously, there has been a mistake in our bindery," said Time Publisher James A. Linen.

Time has been printing and storing alternate covers for use on the election issue. It has run off two million covers—half showing the Democratic nominees and half the Republican nominees.

Apparently, he added, somebody picked up the wrong batch of covers.

Linden said he didn't know how many wrong covers were used but they probably ran to not more than a few hundred.

Yet he said it was unlikely only the one copy, part of the Canadian edition, was involved.

The advance covers, Linden explained, would help Time get off to a flying start on its election issue.

He offered to make things right "if anyone who gets a misbound copy of Time this week is disappointed."

And it didn't take Time long to spot the silver lining.

Its announcement noted that the gentleman up in Toronto "probably has a collector's item."

Foreign Students Visit Salem

Susan Peters Dies After 7 Year Paralysis

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—Susan Peters, the beautiful young actress who set Hollywood an example of courage after her promising career was blighted by a crippling injury, died Thursday night.

Attending doctors said the physical cause was a kidney ailment arising from a paralyzing rifle wound that had bound her to a wheel chair for almost seven years.

However, Miss Peters' personal physician, Dr. Ray Manchester, believes her mental condition may have been a factor.

"She wouldn't allow anyone to help her recently," he said. "I believe she lost her interest in living."

The 31-year-old film and stage player was considered one of Hollywood's brightest acting prospects when, on New Year's Day, 1945, tragedy struck. On a hunting trip with her husband, Actor Richard Quine, she bent over to pick up a rifle. A twig caught the trigger and the bullet struck her spinal cord.

Hospitalized for months and thereafter confined to a wheelchair, Susan refused to concede she was through as an actress.

Two years later, coming from her wheelchair, she came back to films as the invalid poet Elizabeth Barrett in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Miss Peters, born Suzanne Carnahan in Spokane, Wash., married Quine in 1942. She divorced him in 1948, testifying "we didn't agree on anything."

She said after her divorce that she would never marry again—"I don't think I'm right for any man."

Despite her handicap, she made her life a full one.

Lane Officials Trade Blows

EUGENE (AP)—A charge of assault and battery was filed here Friday in District Court by County Judge Day T. Bayly against County Commissioner Lee Raish.

It was the result of an encounter between the two in which blows were exchanged in the Courthouse Tuesday. Both men fell to the floor in the scuffle.

They have been at odds over a drainage project at Springfield. Bayly ordered the work halted. Residents of the district later started an unsuccessful recall move against Bayly.

Yule Presents To Servicemen Project Ready

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United Nations observed its seventh birthday Friday in a familiar atmosphere of hostility, plus praise for its aims at world peace.

The Russians boycotted a special General Assembly meeting honoring those who have died in support of U. N. principles. Others of the Soviet bloc did not show up until the Assembly ended a minute of silence for the dead.

Secretary of State Acheson ripped into the deadlocked Korean truce negotiations, the prime issue between the Communist bloc and the free nations, in one of the longest speeches of his career.

Outside, Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were among public figures who praised the United Nations role in world affairs.

Eisenhower hailed the U. N. for springing to the aid of South Korea—an action taken on the initiative of President Truman—within two days after the Communist attack June 25, 1950.

"It is most fitting that—as a proud member of the United Nations—we Americans pledge again our strength, our fortune and our sacred honor to the end that no free nation shall ever again be destroyed upon this earth," the Republican presidential nominee said in a transcribed broadcast on a nation-wide CBS hookup.

Frank L. Well, chairman of the National Citizens' Committee for United Nations Day, termed the speech the strongest statement on international relations he had heard from Eisenhower.

In a speech similarly transcribed Stevenson declared the answer to world war can only be world law backed by justice and popular consent.

"We will not lose faith in the United Nations," said the Democratic presidential nominee. "We see it as a living thing and we will work and pray for its development."

"However great the assaults on the peace may have been since the U. N. was formed, the easiest way to demonstrate the idea behind it is the fact that no nation in the world today would dare remove itself from membership and separate its country from the human hopes that are woven into the very texture of the organization."

Nixon Assures Moral Rebirth

BELOIT, Wis. (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for vice president, said Friday night that Gen. Eisenhower would liquidate "the Truman administration's bankruptcy and put American back on the rugged road to moral and economic solvency."

"Gen Eisenhower," he said in an address at Beloit College, "can speed the moral and spiritual rebirth of our country so we can mount our offensive of free ideas from a solid platform."

The California senator came here after a one day trip from the northern to the southern borders of Wisconsin in which he made five whistle stops.
