Saddened Bing Hears Eulogy Of Dixie at Funeral Services

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (R)—A saddened father, leaning heavily on the husky shoulders of his sons, heard Dixie Lee Crosby eulogized Monday as one who turned down movie stardom in favor of motherhood, "the greatest career of all." His head bent low, Bing Crosby plainly showed the effects of his week-long vigil at the bedside of his wife of 22 years. Cancer took

It was Monsignor Concannon who had baptized Mrs. Crosby into the Roman Catholic faith of her husband just a week ago:

One elderly lady, who told police she long had been a fan of Bing's collapsed in the 85-degree heat. A police rescue squad siren punctuated the solemnity as the burial party left the church.

Mrs. Crosby was buried in a school.
