

Northwest Jersey Clubs Seek to Guide All-Jersey Milk Program

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman
Oregon and Washington Jersey Cattle Clubs are now negotiating with the American Jersey Cattle Club that the latter take over the All-Jersey milk program, set in motion by the two northwest clubs, on a nation-wide basis.

Announcement of this move was made Wednesday by John Gale, Canby, at the all-day meeting of the Oregon Jersey Cattle Club directors at the Senator Hotel. Gale is chairman of the club's milk committee, and in making the report stated that the club had been working on this program for the past three years. The milk program was now effective in certain areas in Oregon, Washington, California and Pennsylvania, and many other states had been asking for it, he added.

The board of directors, headed by the club president, Marlin Fox of Molalla, complimented Gale's committee on the work that its members had done and voted recommendation to go ahead with its dealing with the national club.

At the Wednesday meeting, announcement was also made that the national AJCC president Frank Astroth, with headquarters at Columbus, Ohio, will be in Salem on Nov. 23 and 24. He will be a dinner guest of Floyd Bates, national western director, at Salem on Nov. 23, will visit the Morton Tibbles home, Independence as an overnight guest and go into Portland on Monday where he will be a luncheon guest at the Aero Club, returning to Salem for an afternoon meeting at 2:30 at the Senator Hotel.

Robert Romeril, Oregon Jersey fieldman, made his report showing that he had made 93 calls during October and had covered 4,056 miles. He reported that the demand for Jersey cattle is very good and that he needed 35 good two or three-year excellent Jersey cows now to fill orders that he had.

"But," he added, "dairy cows nowadays must be good. There is a brisk demand for them. Sometimes the mistake is made of trying to sell as a good dairy cow, one that is fit only for the butcher. That won't do in a breed promotion program."

Plans were made for the annual dinner meeting of the club to be held Dec. 6 at the Marion Hotel at noon. New officers now being elected by ballot will be installed at this time. Appointed as the resolution committee for the annual meeting were: Jeff Modilia, Otis; L. Lorenzen, Dayton; George Genteman, Independence; Fred Davis, Woodburn and Paul Reeder, Portland. To serve on the work program committee are Newton Davis, Woodburn; Levi McKee, McCoy; Lyle Gardner, Hillsboro; Everett Struckmeier, Scio, and C. W. Sherman, St. Helens.

The annual youth heifer sale was announced for Hillsboro on Feb. 28.

Discussion of a change in the national meeting date from June to a "less busy time for farmers" was held, but no action taken. The matter will be referred back to the county clubs to be taken up at the January meeting of the board of directors. The Oregon club will be hosts to the national group in 1955.

FDR Tried to Prevent Stalin's Break With Pole Exiles in '43

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional committee produced secret documents Wednesday showing that President Roosevelt tried and failed to prevent Stalin from breaking off diplomatic relations with the Polish government in exile in 1943.

The committee, a special group of House members appointed to investigate the Katyn Forest massacre of 15,000 Polish officers and intellectuals, contends the massacre and the diplomatic break were steps in a detailed plan to communize Poland.

Russia severed relations with the exiled Polish government in London April 26, 1943, shortly after Germany disclosed the Katyn killings. The Poles blamed the atrocity on the Russians—a view which is supported by the House investigators.

Note Sent to F.D.R.
State Department documents made public by the committee disclose that two days before the break Stalin sent a personal and confidential note to Roosevelt saying he could no longer countenance the "abnormal" conduct of the Free Polish government.

Roosevelt replied April 26, the documents show, urging Stalin to confine his action to a "suspension of conversations with the Polish government in exile" rather than a complete breakaway.

Adm. William H. Standley, Ret., who was the American ambassador in Moscow at the time, told the committee Wednesday that the British took much the same view. Stalin contended, according to the documents, that in blaming Russia for the Katyn massacre the Poles were supporting the

Attempt to Transport Iron Lung Thwarted

Back in Salem Memorial Hospital Wednesday was Wayne Byers, Woodburn, following an unsuccessful attempt to transport him in an iron lung to Portland. Byers, a polio patient, has been in the hospital for several weeks. In moving him from his room into a moving van, the lung was jarred so that it been set for another try. (Statesman photo.)

Polio Victim Still in Salem As 'Lung' Fails

Woodburn polio victim Wayne E. Byers was still in Salem Memorial Hospital after an attempt to transport him in an iron lung to Portland Wednesday failed because of imperfections in the machine.

Something went wrong with the respiratory mechanism as the iron lung was being put into a large transport truck at the hospital preparatory to transfer to Veterans Hospital in Portland.

Both Byers and his physician requested that the planned trip be postponed indefinitely. The iron lung worked alright later, but there are presently no plans for another attempt to take Byers to Portland.

Apparently the machine was jarred in the process of removal causing it to work imperfectly.

Hitler regime's "vile slander of the Soviet Union" Tried to Prevent Break
Standley testified that he also tried to prevent the Russian-Polish break, although at the time he had no knowledge of the Roosevelt-Stalin conversations. He said the wartime President went over his head a number of times to deal directly with the Kremlin.
Another witness, Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, said he was sure the prime minister of the Polish government in exile was assassinated shortly after the break with Russia.
Gen. Ladislav Wikorsky, the prime minister, was killed July 4, 1943, when his airplane crashed as it was leaving Gibraltar.
"I am sure it was sabotage," Welles said. He added that Sikorsky escaped injury in the same kind of an accident earlier.

Winter Wheat Prices High

CHICAGO (AP)—Futures contracts representing the 1953 winter wheat crop sold at the highest prices they have yet obtained on the board of trade Wednesday. Wheat paced an upward move in all cereals.

The drought continued in the southwest and was a major factor in the buying of May and July wheat contracts.
But it wasn't the only reason. Also important was the news producers have impounded a very large amount of the 1952 wheat crop in the government loan.
Wheat closed 2 1/4-2 1/2 higher, corn 1/2-1 1/4 higher, oats 1/4 to 1 cent higher, rye 3/4 to 4 cents higher, soybeans 1 1/4-2 1/4 higher, and lard 15 to 33 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Stock Market Buying Wanes

NEW YORK (AP)—Buying enthusiasm waned a bit in wall street Wednesday and the stock market backed down from early gains.

Many leading issues, especially among oils and rails, finished with losses of major fractions to more than a point. But there was enough resistance, including major utility, tobacco and radio-television stocks, to give the list as a whole a mixed appearance.
Trading activity expanded to 1,490,000 shares.

With many of the usual market leaders in low ground, the Associated Press 60-stock average declined 50 cents at 1:57 3/4 for its sharpest drop since Oct. 22. Industrials were off 80 cents and rails 60 cents, but utilities achieved a ten-cent gain.
