Negro Escapes Jail Sentence In 'Leer' Case

YANCEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Negro tenant farmer, convicted of assaulting a white girl by "leering" at her, escaped a jail term Wednesday but he will appeal his conviction to the State Supreme Court.

Mack Ingram, 45, a father of nine, was given a six-month suspended sentence for "assault on a female." But his attorneys, backed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said they will ask the Supreme Court to reverse the verdict that a white, male superior court jury returned Tuesday.

Judge Frank Armstrong placed Ingram on five years' probation on good behavior. Under North Carolina law, Ingram could have received a maximum of two years on the roads.

The prosecuting witness was Mrs. Willie Jenn Boswell Webster, 19, now married and the mother of a six-month old child. She testified that Ingram "eyed" her from about 25 yards and later chased her across a freshly-plowed cornfield on her father's farm in June, 1951.

Assault, under North Carolina law, does not necessarily involve bodily contact.

A second degree murder indictment was returned against Mrs. Mary Jewell Gilpin, 28, Roseburg. She was accused in the Oct. 12 stabbing of L. C. Parker, 40, a roomer in her home.

Another stabbing resulted in the indictment of Charles Jefferson Lemmons, 28, Sutherlin, on a second degree murder charge. Thomas R. Debolt, 36, of Winchester, was the victim.

Esra J. Slaggs, 36, of Midfield Park, was indicted on a second degree murder charge in the stabbing of Hill Estrada, Oct. 20, in a tavern near Glide.

At Oregon State Many to Attend Homecoming This Weekend

By FEBBLE DeSART
Statesman Correspondent

CORVALLIS — Homecoming is the big issue at Oregon State this weekend, November 14 and 15, with all the students preparing to give OSC alumni a warm welcome back to their alma mater.

Festivities begin Friday night at 7:30 with the traditional noise parade through Corvallis which ends at the site of the rook bonfire. This huge collection of combustible materials will be set ablaze at 9 o'clock. Each living organization has been working industriously all week on a clever sign for the front of the house, which will advertise the theme of the weekend, "Staters Mash the Idaho Taters." These signs, many of which are mechanical, will be judged Friday night. In the past years, the streets and sidewalks of campus have been jammed with cars and people all interested in the original ideas that the students display in the signs.

The midnight show, also on Friday evening, is scheduled from 11 to 12:30 p. m. This consists of student talent all the way from an old fashioned chorus line to a modern fifteen piece dance orchestra. Also at this time, the name of the Homecoming Queen is announced, and she is presented with her court during intermission.

The big event of Saturday will be the OSC-Idaho football game, scheduled for 1:30 on Bell Field. Past winners of Varsity O letters will be introduced, and also the 1941 OSC football team which won the Rose Bowl, will parade and be introduced.

The annual alumni barbecue is planned for 11 a. m. in the college armory, and a coffee-doughnut jamboree is scheduled after the game. Both of these functions are sponsored by the alumni association, and provide excellent opportunities for former classmates to get together and renew acquaintances. Concluding the weekend, an all-school dance for both students and alumni will be held in the coliseum from 8 to 11 p. m. Saturday.

Students have really gone all out in making plans for this occasion, and are opening their doors wide to all alumni.

Luncheon to Be Held in Portland

All members of the auxiliary to the Professional Engineers of Oregon are invited to attend the luncheon - meeting to be held at the Aero Club in Portland on Nov. 19 at 12 o'clock.

As projects for the year, the group will contribute to the book fund of a school of engineering, and to the welfare of children of handicapped people. Mrs. Lewis Ellingwood has made a personal project of helping these people, and has appealed to the auxiliary for help in clothing school children. With the aid of Mrs. Charles Craig, welfare chairman and formerly of Salem, clothing has been purchased with money given the group by Herbert Hoover, when he was a guest of the Professional Engineers of Oregon at the Centennial in August.

Special guests were the Willamette coeds of the month, Mary Campbell and Delores Miller. Margaret Cooper and Jan Woodruff gave a pantomime under the direction of Mrs. Martha Finson.

A social meeting is slated for Nov. 19 at the home of Mrs. Frederick Hill Thompson.

Founder's Day Program for Zontians

Members of the Salem Zonta Club will celebrate Founder's Day at a dessert supper and program at 7:30 p. m. Hostesses are Mrs. Leonard Rowan, Mrs. Bessie Hamilton, Dr. Elizabeth Elder and Mrs. Theodore Madsen Jr.

Mrs. Mary Thomas, president, will preside and Miss Lena Belle Tartar is arranging the Founder's Day program. The occasion will mark the 33rd anniversary of the founding of this service women's organization.

One of the main objectives of the international service group is the $1200 Amelia Earhart Scholarship given annually to air minded girls for graduate study in aeronautical engineering. Candidates for the award must hold a bachelor's degree and be recommended for excellent character and outstanding ability. The recipient may study at any graduate school where aeronautical work of a high order is offered and after approval has been granted by Zonta's scholarship committee.

Dr. Helen Pearce, of the Salem Zonta Club and a past president of Zonta International, has served on the scholarship committee and women from this section of Oregon may contact Dr. Pearce at Willamette University to make application for the Earhart scholarship.

HANDICAPPED NEED GOVERNMENT AID

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—If handicapped persons are to be kept off the public assistance rolls, more federal and state aid is needed for training, says J. O. Talley, president of the National Rehabilitation Association. He also told a meeting of the association's delegate assembly here that greater co-operation among various rehabilitation agencies is necessary.

Designing Woman

HOW TO VIEW TV

If the screen could be seen from every side of the room, TV would not be the upsetter it is to furniture arrangements. Designer Hendrick Van Keppel thinks the trick of comfortable viewing from any location can be done, like a magician's trick, with mirrors, and here is a room plan based on his idea. The television set is placed on one wall opposite the largest seating piece and the rest of the seats stay put as they look best in the room. Beside the set is a chair facing the same way as the screen, and usually a chair here is needed for the person who tunes in the program and twirls the dial. But the tuner in this room can keep his chair because he can see the program in a big mirror opposite, and so can viewers who sit at right angles to the screen. Yes, agrees Mr. Van Keppel, titles in the mirror read backwards, but since most of them are parts of commercials, he feels this isn't too serious a fault.
