

Mr. and Mrs. Business

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shogren are a successful husband and wife team in business together. It is records for the Shogrens and both work long hours each day buying, cataloging and playing all the new records when they come out on the market. There is always music of some kind in their shop, whether it be the popular records for the teen-age contingent or the classics and symphonies. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).

There are numerous husband and wife business partners in Salem and today we have chosen just a few to illustrate our page and represent the various types of business. Above are Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Clarke, who are interior decorators. They have only been in business together a few years, but specialized in the field during college days. Mr. Clarke is the artist and can be found most any time with his smock on and paint brush in hand drawing murals, signs or designs for furniture. Both specialize in interior decorating and consult each other in decorating homes. Here they are shown viewing new hand screen prints in wall papers. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).

Accountants are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stacey, who have operated their own business for many years. Now they have their own building with a staff of eleven. Mr. Stacey makes many out-of-town business trips during the year and his wife capably manages the office during his absence. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney L. Stevens, at the left, have been partners in the jewelry business for many years and now their son, Allan, has joined the firm. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens can be found most any place in their attractive store. They do everything from the buying, unpacking the merchandise, marking to selling. Here Mrs. Stevens is shown checking over some new watches, which had just arrived, and Mr. Stevens is examining the scales, where he weighs the diamonds. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).

With Mr. and Mrs. Paul Heath one always associates the word, flowers. Mr. Heath is the grower and nurseryman and provides the flowers for his wife to arrange. Mr. Heath is seldom in the shop, as he spends most of his time at the greenhouses. Mrs. Heath manages the shop and is responsible for all the flower arrangements, and orders. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).

Mr. and Mrs. Delwin Finley have a full time job in their toy and hobby shop, which is filled with children and parents every day of the week. They get just as much enjoyment out of watching the reaction of the children trying out the new toys as selling them. Both do the buying, unpacking, marking and selling. (Kennell-Ellis Studio).
