Salem Students Win Honors On Campus

By PEBBLE DESART
Statesman Correspondent
CORVALLIS — After a successful Homecoming weekend, several living organizations on campus are pleased with the honors they won during the festivities. Pi Beta Phi won first place in the sorority division for their house sign. Salem coach, Ann Forristal, Lorraine Welling, Margaret Miller, and Shirlee Newby all worked hard in helping erect the gigantic potato sack man on the Pi Phi front lawn. His large yellow eyes looking down from a height of fifteen feet and blinking on and off through the night served to attract many people along the sidewalk who stopped to admire the girls' work.

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity won first place in their division with a clever house sign that covered various parts of their large colonial house. Viking men, representing the Idaho Vandals, appeared to be arising from the chimney, but were quickly conquered by the mighty Beavers and thrown over the edge of the roof into a potato machine. From here they emerged as potatoes that were promptly being mashed by Kip Taylor's shoe. Salem boys Jim Todd, Gilbert Bateson, Steve Merchant, Don Davis, and Norman Lee all claim part of the credit for this sign.

Tri Delta Margaret Acton, Beverly Young, and Pebble Desart were proud of their sorority sister, Donna Erickson, who was chosen as the Homecoming Queen at the midnight show Friday. Donna is from Sherwood and last year was chosen as the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

Headed for the Game
This weekend OSC students will be going to Multnomah Stadium in Portland for the fourth and last time this term. This final football game of the season on Saturday will be the traditional meeting between Oregon and Oregon State. JoAnne Majek, Celia Weaver, Gordon Sloan, George Error, and Barbara Wagner are only a few of the many students who plan to attend the game.

Jody Ricketts was recently chosen to serve on the Freshman Commission. This group of students helps to plan and carry out activities of the Freshman class, their latest project being the book bonfire during Homecoming.

As OSC students are now enjoying a little free time, mid-term exams being over and finals too far off to worry about, a large turnout is expected for the Portland Symphony Orchestra concert which is to be given Tuesday, November 25. The symphony, directed by James Sample, has appeared here on campus annually for the last several years.

Thanksgiving Is the Time to Dress Up The Dinner Table With China, Linens

By SUE GARDNER
Thanksgiving Day dinner usually means a large family gathering. And it's a time when a hostess uses all her beautiful table accessories. Certainly the work that goes into a Thanksgiving feast should be emphasized in a lovely table setting and appropriate decorations. Fruit and nuts, timely for the harvest atmosphere, can be arranged in a low centerpiece with a few large leaves for an outdoor touch. A large bunch of autumn leaves will go a long way in filling your nicest vases and will remain lovely long after your guests have gone.

decoration of fruit and find your favorite bowls or other containers are too large to look "filled", put a few large grapefruit, squash or pineapples in with the other fruit. A snowy white table cloth is always in good taste, but at Thanksgiving you can also use colored ones without giving too informal a look to your table. One hostess I know used a two-toned effect in a dark brown table cloth covered with an ecru lace one. This gives a dresy background to her brown and coral modern-styled china. Platters to enhance the festive turkey may be in china, sterling silver and contemporary materials such as stainless steel or aluminum. Colored candles in conventional shapes or in whimsical turkey molds are attractive. You can also have your cranberry sauce cut in the shape of turkeys for added color.
