

At Oregon State Students Plan Parties and Caroling

By FERDIE DESART
Salem, Ore. — Since Christmas vacation for OSC students starts December twentieth, many plans for Yuletide functions are already underway.

Sunday afternoon Dec. 7 is the time chosen for the annual Christmas party given in the Memorial Union by the students. Invited to this gala affair will be students, faculty and their families, and married students with their children. A traditional Santa Claus will have a merry time giving away candy canes to the children, while the students and faculty can sit back to enjoy the varied entertainment to be presented. Mary Feike of Salem is in charge of organizing this entertainment.

Sunday will also see the presentation of the Messiah at eight o'clock in the coliseum. All the college vocal groups and also several civic groups from Corvallis and Albany will combine to form one immense chorus of over three hundred voices. The college orchestra will play the accompaniment to Handel's famous work, and soloists from both the college and civic groups will perform.

Singing on a slightly smaller scale will be heard around campus from now until vacation as the various living groups start their Christmas caroling. This is the only time out of the entire school year that girls can sing at the boys' residences, and most of the sororities take advantage of it, in part repaying the boys for their many beautiful serenades given throughout the year.

Second Play Slated
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights the Drama Department again takes a spotlight as they present their second play of the year, "Double Door." In direct contrast to the first play which was a comedy, "Double Door" is a dramatic suspenseful story, with the plot centering around a poor girl's entering into a very well-to-do family. The husband's dominating older sisters provide the third plot in the dramatic clash between the two women.

Taking the honor spotlight this week, Lorraine Welling and Dianne Perry of Salem have been initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, a national scholastic honor society for senior students. Lela Beach of Independence was recently elected as secretary of Round Table, the campus branch of the YM-YWCA.

December 5 and 6 Coach Slats Gill will have his first opportunity to display his basketball team at home in the two pre-conference games with UCLA. December 1, Oregon State met Oregon at Portland in a pre-season game. At this time also the Freshman teams of the two schools met in the preliminary game, with Larry Paulus of Salem playing for the Oregon State Frosh.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kennedy and daughters, Wanda Kennedy and Mrs. Melvin Noach, spent Thanksgiving holidays with their son and brother, Pvt. Roy Kennedy at Ft. Lewis, Wash. Roy, who was inducted into the Army November 20, left Monday morning for his basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif.

Silverton—Mr. and Mrs. Chaney Beesley and family entertained Sunday at a family dinner. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold DeVries and family of Pratum, Mrs. Nina Beckley and family of Silverton, Mrs. Pearl Beesley, mother of the host, and Earle Beesley, home on furlough from San Diego, where he is stationed with the navy.

PHOTOGRAPHERS TO SHOW
The Gallery by the Sea, at DeLake on the Oregon Coast, is featuring an exhibition of photographs by the Oregon Camera Club from 100 to 4 p.m. until Dec. 8. About 12 students will be shown by the club which has a membership of 170 amateur and professional photographers.

The bride chose for her wedding a burgundy dress with chrysanthemum corsage.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The wedding cake was made by Mrs. Albert Fleming and decorated by Mrs. Florence Legg.

The couple will make their home at College Place, Wash.

Dog Gets New 'Legs'

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Esquire, 6-year-old dachshund, became too enthusiastic while chasing a rabbit. He slipped a disc in his spine and his back legs became paralyzed. When his future looked dark, his master, ten-year-old Billy Bower of South Bend, Ind., and Billy's father designed this walker. Esquire took it with glee. Here Billy adjusts the harness on the sling. ## Politicians Used Too Much Air, Time, Radio-TV Official Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Politicians talked too much in the recent political campaign—or else, they weren't good enough at it—was a radio-TV industry spokesman suggested Wednesday.

He said "people in droves" were charitably turning off "what we habitually call campaign oratory." And that was bad even for the stations and networks, added Ralph W. Hardy, director of government relations for the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

The stations kept right on getting their money, Hardy explained, to a special House committee investigating campaign spending. But much of the time regular commercial programs had been shoved off the air to make way for the politicians. And once the listener snaps that cutoff button "with a vengeance" it's a hard job to get him back again, Hardy said.

Canada to Use Atom Energy Commercially

OTTAWA (AP)—The Canadian government is preparing for commercial use of atomic energy in Canada within the next five years, Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Tuesday.

He said in an interview that atomic power will be available in that time and that government officials already are considering how best to provide outlets for its services to the public.

The cabinet's atomic expert said the atom will be providing power in much the same way and for the same purpose as electricity; central power plants will generate it.

Hardy didn't go so far as to suggest the politicians preempt less air time. But he did express the hope that they will learn to "utilize more skillfully" the radio-TV periods they buy or obtain otherwise.

One of the problems of the broadcast, Hardy said, was the legal requirement that all candidates be given equal time. He explained that was one of the factors that pushed regular programs aside.

Walter Williams, chairman of the Citizens-for-Eisenhower Committee, told the congressmen his group spent about $1,200,000 before Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won the Republican presidential nomination.

He said the outlay was not reported because the law does not require financial statements except on general elections. He would not guess how much other such groups spent.

OMAHA (AP)—Twelve-year-old Esther du Marce turned triumphantly away from the blackboard where she had slowly and carefully written her name.

"See, I can do it," she declared.

Esther is learning to write with her left hand so she can answer the letters that have poured in to St. Joseph's Hospital here since the story of her courage was told.

On Thanksgiving Day the little Indian girl had her right arm amputated and a cancerous growth removed from her shoulder.

Gifts will be exchanged, and all who attend are asked to bring a present.
