Salkeld Again Reluctant to Show Here

Once again we're deep into the winter minus any pro boxing. Third season same has been lacking at the armory and indicates Tex Salkeld still lacks the courage to try a comeback locally. All can remember the pitiful fan turnouts of that last season-and you couldn't member the pitiful fan turnouts of that last scales when the cards were blame the customers for staying away in carloads when the cards were of so mediocre a quality. Wasn't Salkeld's fault either. All the woes stemmed from a lack of available talent, and obviously the talent continues to remain thin and far between . . . The absence of the pros. of course, leaves the door wide open for the Cherrians and their high-ly popular amateur cards. The first held back in November was tops Over Cowboys, of course, leaves the door wide open for the Cherrians and their highin entertainment value and another will be upcoming probably sometime in January . . .
