

'Last Supper' Scene Carved in Wood

BOSTON, Mass.—The world-famous picture of "The Last Supper," typical of the communion rite prominent during the Easter season, has been produced, life-size, in wood. The above photo shows W. D. Irving of Irving and Casson, New York, who produced the carving for the Upper Room chapel in Nashville, Tenn. The carving, from the painting by Leonardo da Vinci, is 18 1/2 feet long and 8 1/2 feet wide and required more than a year to complete. The figures are of limewood. 14 Youth to Be Confirmed At Englewood

Fourteen young people will be honored Sunday morning at a confirmation service at Englewood Evangelical United Brethren Church. Having completed their catechism training these youth will be questioned by the pastor before the congregation, following which they will be consecrated to God's service.

Motorist, whose name was not learned, failed in an attempt to halt the speeding bus with his car's rear bumper. The bus careened across an intersection without hitting anything but it clipped one car at the next corner and tossed another automobile into a power pole.

It sideswiped two more cars and crashed into another power pole, snapping it off. It stopped, then dangled power lines damaged the wiring in the car. Hamilton was suspended by the traction company pending an investigation.

Patient Robber Holds Up Bank In Washington

FARMINGTON, Wash. — A young man who hung around for hours trying to cash a $20 check finally pulled a gun and robbed the Farmington State Bank of an estimated $2500 Friday. The youth jumped out a first floor window of the bank and escaped after ordering the assistant cashier, Miss Gella Bennett, to put money into a paper sack.

Knife-Wielder Fails Attempt At Own Life

SEATTLE — Esteban M. Rucero, 37, who went berserk and stabbed 12 persons at the Firland Sanatorium here Thursday, failed Friday in a suicide attempt. Rucero threw himself from a top bunk onto the concrete floor of the jail. Thomas A. Nault, chief criminal deputy sheriff, reported. He was hospitalized for treatment of head injuries. His condition was not serious. He will be held for mental observation, Nault added.

Republicans Confer on NW Position

MEDFORD, Ore. — Some of the top Republicans of the Pacific Northwest got together at Yakima to talk over applicants for federal jobs, but no decisions on recommendations were reached, Robert A. Elliott reported Friday. Elliott, chairman of the Oregon Republican Central Committee, said that the postal inspectorship for Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Alaska was a district position discussed.

Red Captives Reported on Way to Canton

MACAU — Three Americans captured aboard a yacht last week by a Chinese Communist gunboat were reported Friday to have been taken to Canton, on their way to Peiping. Reports reaching here from a Chinese trader who commutes between this Portuguese colony and the Chinese mainland indicated the three were moved to Canton Thursday night. The three are Richard Applegate of Medford, Ore., who was working for the National Broadcasting Co. in Hong Kong; Don Dixon, an International News Service correspondent, and a Brooklyn ship captain named Ben Krasner.

Soldiers Due From Orient

SEATTLE — The Navy transport Gen. R. L. Howze is due here Sunday morning from the Far East. The passengers include those from the Salem area: Pfc. Jerald L. Basl, Rt. 1, Stayton; Pfc. Jimmy R. Freshner, Jefferson.

Runaway Bus Crashes Four Autos, Poles

PORTLAND — An unidentified motorist tried vainly to stop an empty city bus racing wildly out of control down a hill here Friday, but the bus got away. It plowed into at least four automobiles and two power poles, disrupting electric service to 330 customers.

It all started when Driver Charles F. Hamilton, 35, parked his bus after a minor accident and transferred the passengers to another vehicle. He said the back doors refused to shut, automatically setting the air brakes. Hamilton walked to the rear of his bus and tried to close the doors but they wouldn't budge. Then he stepped outside and things started happening.

The rear doors closed behind him, the brakes released and the bus started rolling down a hill. Hamilton raced to the front door but it, too, was shut. He could not reach the steering wheel from an open window but he hung onto the speeding bus and managed to open the front doors by throwing a lever. The open door knocked Hamilton down but he escaped injury.

A motorist, whose name was not learned, failed in an attempt to halt the speeding bus with his car's rear bumper. The bus careened across an intersection without hitting anything but it clipped one car at the next corner and tossed another automobile into a power pole.

Knifed Man Held In Washington

FARMINGTON, Wash. — A young man who hung around for hours trying to cash a $20 check finally pulled a gun and robbed the Farmington State Bank of an estimated $2500 Friday.

The youth jumped out a first floor window of the bank and escaped after ordering the assistant cashier, Miss Gella Bennett, to put money into a paper sack.

Miss Bennett said the man had been in and out most of the day trying to cash the check on a Moscow, Idaho, bank. She wanted identification. He said he'd have someone come to identify him and waited outside in a car.

"Shortly before we closed he came in and asked that I call the Moscow bank," Miss Bennett said. "As I lifted the phone, he pulled the gun and said 'This is a hold-up.'"

Miss Bennett, a part time girl employee and a painter, Ernest Miller, who was redecorating the place, were in the bank at the time. The gunman told the three not to say anything for five minutes. He jumped out the window and sped away in a car.

Farmington is about 35 miles southeast of Spokane.

McKays Enjoy Scenery, Hate Rush of Caribbean Area Tour

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary and Mrs. Douglas McKay, back from a one-week trip to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, reported they were fascinated by the beautiful, colorful Caribbean, charmed by the lavish hospitality of their hosts, awed by their overnight stay in a 400-year-old Spanish fortress—but, alas, were pressed by such a "rush, rush" schedule they had little time to enjoy their visit.

The trip was official business for the secretary, who is required to attend an annual meeting in the islands of the Virgin Islands Corp., which runs the sugar industry. And he paid his wife's plane fare, McKay explained with a grin.

It was the plane trip that got them off to a hectic start. Scheduled to leave Washington's national airport at 11 o'clock Sunday morning (Mar. 15), they were held up by one delay after another—and finally took off at 9 p.m. after an all day vigil at the airport.

Flying down over the Caribbean from Miami to Puerto Rico was described by Mrs. McKay as breathtaking. "The shades of color in the water, the surf rolling up over the shores of the islands—but mostly the many colors in the water, aqua, blue, green — was all so beautiful," she declared.

Arriving on St. Croix, one of the three Virgin Isles, the McKays stepped into a relatively primitive world in which the sugar industry is the backbone of the economy, where the temperature ranged from 70 at night to the 80s in the daytime, where a small colony of American well-to-dos have made it somewhat fashionable to spend the winter, and where stand some sturdy reminders of the buccaneer chapter in Spanish-American history.

Their inspections included a sugar factory on that island and roads, schools and hospitals on all the islands. They found on St. John, the smallest island, a brand new hospital that was the pride of the local community. Its capacity, four beds, but deemed sufficient to care for the island's population of 740.

On St. Thomas they were the guests of Gov. and Mrs. Morris F. de Castro at their gubernatorial mansion, and during their stay at San Juan, Puerto Rico, they stayed at the converted 400-year-old fort which serves Gov. Lewis Munoz Marín.

"It was just like an old castle," Mrs. McKay exclaimed, "with great iron gates which they locked after we entered, water on the six feet thick, huge rooms, mahogany furniture and hardwood floors."

Seeing the servants at table, Mrs. McKay estimated there were 20 to 25 in addition to guards manning the big gates.

The No. 1 hotel in the Virgin Islands, catering to fashionable tourists, the McKays discovered to be the Virgin Isle Hotel, where average rooms run $35 to $50 per day. And when the tourists are overrunning the place even the manager moves out and rents his suite at $120 bucks a day. It's all on American plan.

The fact that March is the tail end of the tourist season and that the Navy had been in port just before the McKays arrived seemed to explain one disappointment: shopping for souvenirs and native artistry in the form of silver articles resulted in no purchases.

"I guess I'll shop in Salem after all," Mrs. McKay said with a laugh, referring to her planned trip home next week.

The worst disappointment was the hurried schedule of inspections, meetings and receptions which kept the McKays on the go day and night. They found the hospitality very warm, but even their hosts acknowledged that they should have had more time for leisure to make the most of their first visit to the southeastern trip of Secretary McKay's island empire.

Hood to Vote No on Roberts Resignation

MADISON, Wis. — Wayne J. Hood, member of the national Republican executive committee, said Friday night the committee should refuse to accept the resignation of West Roberts, GOP national chairman. Roberts, accused of violating the spirit of a Kansas State lobbying law, resigned Friday under fire.

Hood, who also is Wisconsin state Republican chairman, said he would vote and speak against accepting the resignation. "Roberts is a good man," Hood declared.

Earlier Friday, after a Kansas state legislative committee issued a report declaring Roberts had violated the spirit of the lobbying law, the Wisconsin GOP executive committee, including National Committeeman Henry Ringling, unanimously adopted a statement endorsing Roberts.

Castaway Isle Bids Trumans

HONOLULU — Harry S. Truman and his family will spend a one-month Hawaiian vacation on a castaway's paradise. The former president, his wife and daughter will arrive Sunday to be guests of California oil man Edwin W. Pauley, part-owner of Coconut Island. The island is a lush little piece of property 15 miles from Honolulu.

Coconut is a "treasure island" retreat, complete with swimming pool, piano and the rotting hulk of a sunken ship.

Gas Pipeline Plan Probed By Attorneys

WASHINGTON — Attorneys questioned Friday whether Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. would encounter trouble crossing federal lands with its proposed natural gas pipeline, and Bellingham, Wash. The question was raised at a Power Commission hearing on five applications for licenses to pipe gas to the Pacific Northwest.

Richard D. Ricketts of Houston, Tex., designer of Pacific's proposed 2,000-mile pipeline, estimated rights - of - way over private lands along the route could be bought for 3 1/2 million dollars.

George D. Horning Jr., attorney for Trans - Canada Pipelines Limited, asked whether Pacific would be able to get rights - of - way to cross federal lands between the San Juan Basin field and the Washington-Oregon market area. Ricketts said no trouble was anticipated. He added that he had always found federal and state officials to be cooperative in rights-of-way matters.

Ricketts, testifying for his fourth straight day, described the 159 million dollar pipeline project's various facilities and estimated their costs. His cost estimates for branch lines, which would stem from the 1,466-mile main line, are: Walla Walla, Wash., Pendleton, Ore., $327,885; Yakima Valley - Wenatchee, Wash., $1,761,211; Hanford-Richland, Wash., $333,614; Spokane - Pasco, Wash., $4,223,400; Portland, Ore., $343,334.

The five - week - old hearing recessed until Monday morning.

Jelke Given Second Term On Charges

NEW YORK — Minot (Mickey) Jelke was sentenced to three to six years in prison Friday as an unrepentant cafe society procurer. He already is serving eight months on another charge.

General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente considered a suspended sentence for the 23-year-old olemargarine heir. But he called Jelke unrepentant and said his morals are too black now to hold out hope of any immediate rehabilitation.

Valente blistered the pudgy playboy with such labels as "antisocial," "frankly immoral," "self-degrading," "a law to himself."

In a small Italian restaurant not far from the court building, 19-year-old Pat Ward sipped Martinis and told a reporter Jelke's sentence was only "a fraction of what he deserves."

She was the star state witness against him, one of two girls Jelke induced or tried to induce into prostitution.

Export Trade Boosts Grains

CHICAGO — Export business both present and potential, boosted wheat a cent on the board of trade Friday and the bread cereal's strength was reflected in other pits.

Wheat closed 1 cent higher, corn 1/4 cent higher, oats 1/4 cent higher, rye 1/4 cent higher, soybeans 1/4 cent higher and lard 7 to 12 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Export business which was actually confirmed totaled 3,350,000 bushels of Pacific Coast white wheat to Japan, 670,000 bushels of red wheat to Yugoslavia, 390,000 bushels of hard wheat to Israel, 360,000 bushels of corn to Israel and 360,000 bushels of corn to the United Kingdom.
