Willamette's second run came in the fifth inning on singles by Haugen, Pete Reed and Tex Kirkendall and an error. Elsasser's homer brought the final WU marker in the sixth. ## Babe's Career Rides on What

Tests Reveal

BEAUMONT, Tex. (A) - Messages by the thousands flooded Babe Didrikson Zaharias Friday expressing hope for her recovery from a malady that may end her great athletic career.

The wires came from every section of the nation as Mrs. Zaharias, famed golfer called the greatest woman athlete in the world, lay in a Baumont hospital and her doctors conducted tests that will determine exactly what is ailing her.

The Babe won a golf tournament here Sunday—the Babe Za. harias Open named for her—and planned to continue on the tour. But she stopped off in Fort Worth for a physical check-up. The examination sent her back to Beaumont and friends in Fort Worth said her ailment meant the end of her athletic career. X-Rays Taken Her doctor here, Dr. W. E. Tatum, would not say what the malady was, explaining that he must finish his tests and X-rays before he could give a definite diagnosis. The report is due Sunday. Mrs. Zaharias would not say what she thought was wrong with her. Instead she maintained a cheerful attitude, declaring "I feel fine and dandy and could play some golf right now." But her husband, George Za-

New Roles Due for Many Stars; Openers Slated Monday, Tues. By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (A)—Baseball fans are bound to give the opening day lineups a double take next Monday and Tuesday when the major leagues open their 1953 Unless the fans are well versed on the spring training activi-ties, they undoubtedly will be puzzled to see certain athletes, long stationed at one position, giving a new one a whirl for dear old alma mater. A great deal of their attention will be focused on the third base at Ebbetts' Field, where Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson will take over from Billy Cox. Robinson, nudged off second base by Junfaster rookie from Montreal, has been moved to third to enable the National League champions and his base-running ability.

Ten of the 16 clubs will be experimenting with players at strange positions, some through choice and others though nec-

The Chicago Cubs fall into both categories. They have moved ex-GI Preston Ward, their pre-Korea first baseman, to cen-terfield, and have switched Ed-die Miksis from second to short and Bill Serena from third to second. They were forced to make the latter two moves because of an injury to shorstop Roy Smalley. Smith Shifted

The failure of rookie first baseman Al Grunwald has forced Pittsburgh Manager Fred Haney to shift Paul Smith, his fancy fielding outfielder from New Orleans, to first base. Haney also transferred Danny O'Connell from short to room for Dick Cole, a slick defensive performer.

The St. Louis Browns are mak-ing a noble experiment, playing outfielder Roy Sievers at first base. Manager Marty Marion thus far is highly satisfied with the big slugger's work around the initial bag. Junior Stephens, former all-star shortstop with the Browns and Red Sox, will open the season as the regular third baseman of the Chicago

Detroit is using Owen Friend, a former shortstop, at second base, and Johnny Baumgariner, who came up from Williamsport as an unheralded and light-hitting outfielder, at third base. The kid was the sensation of the Tigers' spring training camp.

The injury to rookie Daryl Spencer has caused New York Giant Manager Leo Durocher to call in Hank Thompson from the outfield to play third base. Thompson, however, is not a stranger to the hot corner as he played there all of the 1950 sea-
