Victims of the attack were Larry Lane, 539 E. St., and Robert Perry, 829 N. Summer St. Lane suffered a severe cut lip and was treated by first aidmen.

They and a third boy were on their way home from the movies about 11 p.m. when the two 14-year-olds—sitting across the street in a car—suddenly ran across North High Street in the 300 block and slugged the youngsters, according to accounts.

South Keizer Petitions for Road Project

Grading and graveling of 13 South Keizer area roads, preparatory to hard-surfacing, is sought in petitions filed Monday with Marion County Court.

The petitions were turned over to the county surveyor to determine if they represent a sufficient proportion of property owners and if so, to estimate the cost of the work to be assessed against property. County Judge Rex Hartley pointed out, however, that improving all the roads now would use nearly all the funds in the revolving fund for work on dedicated roads for the next year or more.

The roads involved, in the request presented by W. W. McKinney of Salem for the property owners, are Lee, Battery, Seaburg, Troy, Filbert, Gary, Alder and Arnold Streets, Candiewood and Pleasant View Drives, Shady Lane, Brooks and Clearview Avenues.

Jet interceptor squadrons depend upon swift telephone communications to help them guard the skies of the Pacific West.

HOW THE AIR DEFENSE UMBRELLA PROTECTS THE WEST

Telephone service forms a reliable communications framework that helps it work

1. Up and down the Pacific West, like one vast aerial umbrella, the jet interceptors of the Western Air Defense Force whisk overhead. They're ready to intercept any unidentified aircraft reported by radar and ground observers. And a vital link in this great defense chain is fast, reliable telephone communications. Early warning radar stations are connected to Air Defense Direction Centers by telephone. Again, the telephone carries the word from the ADDC to Air Force interceptor aircraft and anti-aircraft batteries...over a giant web of circuits that makes the Air Force the largest user of Pacific Telephone private line service.

2. When tiny "blips" appear on a radar operator's scope, there's no time to waste. And the operator is no farther from the Direction Center than the telephone handset he wears. Telephone facilities—more than 35,000 circuit miles of private line telephone channels, and a vast teletypewriter network—link together all the far-flung installations of the Western Air Defense Force, and see radar, too, to warn civil...

3. "Operation Skywatch" also does a big job...as civilian volunteers scan Western skies. This corps of ground observers is on the job around the clock watching for low flying aircraft that could be missed by the radar screens of the Pacific West. Their reports, too, travel by telephone...for, of course, swift, reliable communications are needed to make their job effective...and to help keep...

Over 2,000,000 calls for servicemen last year

At Army, Air Force, Marine Corps and Naval centers all over the West, telephones are ready to carry important personal messages for the men and women in our armed services. Last year, more than 2,000,000 calls were made from these centers to loved ones and friends all over the nation.
